A Clean Restaurant? Proof in the Looking

by DAVID HOYT
News Editor

There are clean restaurants in Arlington Heights.

At least one may be certain that establishments which have been inspected by village sanitarian Richard Dawson are clean. The proof is in the looking.

The most recent Herald tour was made in a popular eating spot which Dawson had torn into last month with the ultimatum, "Clean up or close down." Dawson told the Herald that the restaurant in question had been as filthy as two which the Herald reported on in its last issue.

A short tour turned up the following encouraging report.

Where the food storage practices in the inspections reported last week rivaled what might have been found in the stone age, this eating place had its food stored on shelves well off the floor and the shelves were clean.

THE FLOOR in the kitchen was covered with tile — not the usual cement — and you could have served a meal on it.

The walk-in cooler displayed none of the unsanitary horrors seen in the two establishments inspected by Dawson for the first time last week.

The food was stored in clean, covered, plastic containers. There was no mold in sight. The shelves were of shining, stainless steel, and displayed not a trace of rust.

How is a cooler kept clean? By scrubbing it every week, replied the manager. Sounds simple enough.

The garbage pails were uniformly provided with plastic liners, a legacy of the earlier visit from Dawson. The cans themselves were thus kept easy to clean. The manager was delighted with them. Simple enough.

The employes were so eager to show off their grease trap, that a halt was put to their efforts to open it. A grease man, they announced proudly, took care of their trap every week.

THE WOOD food preparation tables were spotless and bleached to a commendable hue. All around the food preparation area the walls looked and felt clean.

The cooking ranges looked as though they had been turned out for a general's inspection. The grease filters overhead were not only clear of residue, they sparkled.

The washroom for employes was clean and their clothes and shoes were neatly stored in newly built shelves — Dawson's work again.

The manager explained that the food disposal and clean up was the biggest part of the cleanliness problem. First the dishes must be washed, then the machines and stoves, then the walls and finally, the floors. This must be done every night, he explained, and it takes about three hours' time.

WHAT WAS impressive about the kitchen was the apparent lack of poor kitchen practice. There was no storage of chemicals near food.

There were no instances of one foodstuff piled on top of, or over-hanging, another foodstuff. The kitchen employes wore hats. The lighting was good.

Oh, not everything was perfect. There was some grime on the inside of a freezer door and there were unexpected layers of grease on the underside of a counter in the food serving area, but by and large the place was clean and attractive.

"There's gonna be something wrong somewhere," admitted the manager, "and we try to keep after it, but that's why we have a man to inspect us and point out our housekeeping problems."

HE HAPPILY displayed the sheet indicating that his restaurant had passed the inspection of Arlington Heights Sanitarian Richard Dawson.

The trip suggested that there are three basics to clean restaurant practice: hard work, concerned management and a sanitarian interested and knowledgeable in public health practice.

Trustee Candidates

Caucus to Ask Civic Leaders for Nominees

Letters asking community leaders to suggest possible village trustee candidates will go out Friday from Caucus recommendation chairman Scott Ball.

Club presidents, civic leaders, business and professional men, and persons involved in village service projects will be among persons receiving the Caucus mailing.

"I want to get a questionnaire to anyone that can possibly help us," Ball told the caucus recommendation committee at a meeting Wednesday evening.

NAMES OF persons chosen to fill four vacant precinct seats on the selection committee were announced at the Wednesday meeting in Pioneer Park Fieldhouse.

They are Leo Mueller, 110 S. Vail, who will represent Precinct 1; Eugene Holland, 1028 S. Dunton, representing Precinct 3; Oscar Josetti, 1310 N. Vail, representing Precinct 9; and Henry Warga, 636 N. Chicago, representing Precinct 22.

Among other members of the recommendation committee is William Griffin, 1521 W. Oakton. A representative of Precinct 13, his name was inadvertently omitted from the earlier list published.

At the meeting, recommendation committee members also heard Arlington Heights' business and governmental leaders outline problems which the new trustees elected in April must help solve.

Asked to address the recommendation committee were Village Pres. John G. Woods, Village Mgr. L. A. (Rudy) Hanson, Plan Commission chairman Harold W. Carlson, Board of Local Improvements member Harold Klingner, trustee Roy Bressler, Chamber of Commerce president Robert Walters and Junior Chamber of Commerce president Neil D'Argo.

THE SESSION was one of two recommendation committee meetings that will likely be open to the press.

The selection committee plans a mock interview session on Jan. 11, before buckling down to three January weekends of closed interviewing. Consideration is also being given to have the Jan. 11 meeting open.

The selection committee, which represents every area of the village, will interview every village resident willing to try for Caucus nomination.

The recommendation committee must choose six trustee candidates—two for each seat open in the April elections—before Feb. 20.

AT A FEB. 20 public meeting, open to any registered voter in the village, citizens will choose three Caucus trustee candidates, one for each seat.

Terms of trustees Jack Walsh, Tom Hanlon and Carl Mees, all elected with Caucus Party support, expire in April. None have yet said whether they will seek re-election.

Northwest Sidewalk Locations Approved

By BETTY FORRESTER
Staff Writer

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements (BOLI) passed a major hurdle Tuesday night and designated specific locations for new sidewalks in the northwest quadrant of the village.

The final decision, however, did not come without some deliberation and debate.

BOLI had made its initial bus tour of the area early in September. Working with the BOLI recommendations and the village sidewalk policy, BOLI engineers had drawn up a tentative map of sidewalk installations.

MOST controversial of the sidewalks considered was a proposed stretch of sidewalk on Yale Avenue which was finally omitted from the sidewalk plan. The proposed sidewalk, running from Oakton Street to Thomas Street, would form the west border of Sherwood subdivision —one of the sidewalkless areas of the village.

Pointing to the Yale Avenue stretch, BOLI member Russell Colvin said, "If we leave this alone, we've done a good job. If we put sidewalks in here, we've made asses of ourselves."

BOLI member Harold Klingner, however, maintained that Yale Avenue was an important north and south street and would Santa Claus is coming to town.

A little early for those of us who have already sent our letters off and are just waiting for his Christmas Eve arrival, but in plenty of time for whispered requests from children at the Arlington Market Shopping Center Saturday at 11 a.m.

Santa will arrive by helicopter just as plump and rosy-cheeked as ever. The reindeer, we're told, won't be able to make it.

For those children who won't get a chance to talk to Santa, the Arlington Heights Post Office says Santa Claus is receiving mail at Santa Claus, Indiana (Zip Code 47579).

Utility Pole Is Giant Sparkler

It was like the Fourth of July in December Saturday night.

A village utility pole turned into a flaming sparkler when some wires shorted.

Arlington Heights police and firemen rushed to the corner of Emerson Street and Arlington Heights Road and extinguished the flame.

Razing of Historic Homes Marks Passing of an Era

The old made way for the new this week as the two aging homes on the site of the proposed Arlington Heights library were razed.

As the demolition began, the recently purchased historical society building looked on, knowing that another era was passing and that mementos from both buildings would soon be stored in her rooms.

Perhaps she felt a pang of remorse as she watched her sisters go. One of them, the Heller home, 516 N. Dunton Ave., had almost been chosen as the home of the historical society. The other, the Bray home, 506 N. Dunton Ave., had once been a showplace with tiled fireplaces, intricate woodwork and striped awnings.

OF COURSE the end had been in sight long before the men from Julian Brothers General Wrecking Contractors arrived on the scene with their heavy equipment to fulfill their $2,800 demolition contract with the library board.

The homes had been vacant all fall, and in the past few weeks people had been in and out with Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson, library project director, buying a total of $549.70 worth of fixtures, woodwork and collectors items.

The new museum may have reflected on the fact that the Heller home was only 10 years her senior and the Bray home a full 15 years her junior.

Perhaps the yellow-brick museum settled back on her firm, rocky foundations and thought about the changes that would happen right in front of her.

THE BIDS ON the new library will be opened on Dec. 20. If all goes well, the contract will be awarded Thursday of that week.

The contractor might even be breaking ground sometime in January. And architect Bob Nicol did say that the 11-month project might be ready as a Christmas present to the village in 1967.

There will be changes within the museum by then too. The historicial society should be moving into her around the first of the year. A thousand dollars worth of cases are already on their way, and the society has exhibits stored all around the village just waiting to be moved here, she thought.

Yes, it will be very different from the days when she was a soda pop factory and a one-family home.

Poodle Home Again

Take Advantage of the Money-Saving Combination with the Sunday Suburbanite

Higher Rate to Gardens

Village plans to extend the Laseke Disposal Company's services to residents of the Arlington Gardens Subdivision may meet some opposition from homeowners.

The area, served by Arc Disposal Co., Inc., is currently getting curbside pickup once a week for $1.50 a month. A 30-cent rate increase scheduled by Arc will still leave the Laseke $2.85 rate for twice-a-week, back door pickup more than a dollar above the Arc rates.

In compliance with the Arlington Heights municipal code which permits the village to license only one scavenger, Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson has sent a letter to Arc saying that the village will take legal action if Arc does not discontinue scavenging in the village by Jan. 1.

ARLINGTON Gardens is the only subdivision not currently served by Laseke.

Jack Lane, assistant general manager of the Arc Disposal Co., said that it looks as if his company will comply with Hanson's letter. However, he said, he plans to talk to Hanson about the matter.

Lane explained that his company is not licensed by Arlington Heights but has been allowed to haul garbage without a license.

"If they want to license just one scavenger," he said, "they have every right to do so."

The crux of the Arlington Gardens case, Lane said, is that Arc Disposal Co. served the area before it was incorporated as a part of Arlington Heights. He said that he had individually solicited the homes in that area.

"The fact is," he said, "we're losing 160 homes."

AT ONE TIME, he said, Laseke was authorized to collect refuse in the subdivision, but the homeowners decided they were not going to let Laseke have their garbage.

Mrs. Barbara Vidmar, 1232 S. Walnut Ave., an Arlington Gardens resident, said she thought that the homeowners would protest. She said that the area had been getting along without the increased pickup services that Laseke offered.

"Who needs it?" she asked.

Hubert W. Dobecki, 1144 S. Chestnut Ave., head of the homeowners, said that the matter will be discussed at the group's quarterly meeting on Dec. 14.

He had learned of Hanson's letter to Arc Disposal Co. Monday.

Evergreen Improvement Is Delayed

Plans for the Evergreen Avenue improvement were delayed again Thursday when the Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements learned that property abutting the south 122 feet of the proposed project is scheduled to change hands on Saturday.

Val Colton, builder, said that he plans to purchase the property from its present owner, John Waters, and will deposit a letter of credit for the improvement with the village on Dec. 13.

BOLI HAD formerly agreed that the project would go in by special assessment if monies were not in escrow by Nov. 23.

The entire project includes street installation from Willow Street to the North edge of the St. James Junior High School playground and from the south edge of the playground to Hawthorne Street.

If Colton gets his money in on Dec. 13, the portion of the project south of the playground will be improved by private contract. (A

Garbage Contract Gets Final Okay

The Arlington Heights board of trustees gave final okay Monday night to a contract providing for garbage collection in the village by the Laseke Disposal Company at a monthly rate of $2.85.

The contract provides for twice-weekly, back-door service with no limits on the amount of refuse a resident may leave out.

RESTRICTIONS as to what kind of refuse is permissible remain the same as those in the previous ordinance. Dead animals, dirt and concrete require a special collection at extra charge, as they have in the past.

One new provision requires that brush be tied in bundles no greater than five feet in length and 50 pounds in weight.

An annual spring cleanup is included in the new contract. During this collection period residents may put out for pickup anything but those items named above that require special collection. The trustees approved a Laseke request not to hold this collection on Sundays or holidays.

COMMERCIAL collection rates remain at the $3.20 per-cubic-yard of refuse, with special charges levied on those pickups which require the collector to travel more than 50 feet between the disposal truck and the refuse storage point.

The contract remains open to further negotiation in case of reduced or increased expenses to the Laseke Company. (A

Schools to Review Classroom Needs

Members of the Arlington Heights Elementary District 25 Board of Education will look to the future Monday.

At that time, Supt. Ralph E. Clabaugh is expected to submit detailed enrollment projections, classroom needs and bonding power projections to 1972.

A study of the future needs of the district will indicate where schools and additions are to be constructed, and how many additional rooms will be necessary.

CLABAUGH TOLD the Herald Tuesday he hopes the board will hold off any decision — including referendum needs — until its January meeting.

He pointed out this would give the citizens' committee working with building and construction needs time to make its recommendations to the board. The subcommittee, headed by Joseph Wanner, presently is doing independent research on the subject.

Growth in the district has been leveling off in the past two years. Prior to 1964, about 700 new pupils were enrolled each year. In 1965, 600 new students enrolled.

Enrollment projections for the end of this school year (1966-67) indicate an increase of 500 new students — for a total of 8,975.

PRELIMINARY enrollment projections show a total of 9,410 students in 1968, 9,813 by 1969; and 10,249 by 1970.

Translated into classroom needs, this means 21 additional sections of junior high classes will be needed by 1968 and 30 by 1970. In kindergarten through fifth grade buildings, about 32 additional classrooms will be necessary by 1968 to keep class sizes to 27 students.

School officials have pointed out that if additional classrooms are to be ready by 1968, plans, bidding, and construction will have to get under way in the spring and summer of 1967.

SOME ANTICIPATED building includes construction of a new junior high school on a school-owned site in Berkeley subdivision on the north side of the village.

A six-room addition to Dryden School, which was cut out during the present building program because of lack of funds, will also be under consideration. (A

Fireman Appointed

A new fireman was added to the Arlington Heights Fire Department yesterday, according to Fire Chief Harvey Carothers.

Phillip Cappitelli, 23, of 110 Tanglewood Drive, Elk Grove Village, was appointed to the fire force.

Carothers said Cappitelli's appointment leaves two open positions in the department. (A

Six Skating Rinks Only Need Freeze

Sharpen up your blades, get out your hockey sticks and start humming your favorite skating tunes.

Jack Frost has already nipped a few fingers, but when he really strikes with an extended cold spell the Arlington Heights Park District will freeze six rinks.

Heated shelters and supervision will be provided at Pioneer, Recreation and Hasbrook Parks as well as at the Retention Basin Center at the corner of Olive Street and Douglas Avenue. There will also be ice rinks at Dryden and Greenbrier Parks.

Park superintendent of recreation Bill Appleby said that he doubts that the rinks will be ready before mid-December. Although there have been several days of sub-freezing weather in the past week, it takes more than one or two days of cold weather to produce a skateable facility, he said.

TO FREEZE a large sheet of water requires low temperature below 20 degrees Fahrenheit over a period of several days. Both the water and the pavement or ground underneath must be chilled to freezing.

The matter is further complicated by the fact that the sun's rays can melt skating ice even with the temperature in the twenties.

Roughness is another problem which must be overcome. Skaters blades cut the ice and break the whole layer loose. The holes which grow bigger under the feet of hundreds of skaters and eventually render the rink unusable until it is cold enough to flood the rinks and cover the holes with new ice.

Once the rinks are frozen, the public skating hours at the supervised rinks will be: 3:30 to 9:30 p.m. on school days, 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Saturdays and holidays, and 12:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Sundays. All hours of operation are subject to weather and ice conditions, plus rink attendance.

BOFS WISHING to join the park's hockey programs at Pioneer, Recreation and Hasbrook Parks may pick up registration blanks at any of the three park fieldhouses.

The boys hockey teams will be formed in three divisions: grade school, junior high and high school. Grade and junior high teams will play at the rink closest to their homes and the high school teams will meet at the Recreation Park rink.

Notices and team schedules will be posted in the shelter houses and in the newspapers after the skating season gets underway. (A

A Holiday Safety Campaign Endorsed

Village Pres. John G. Woods said Monday that Arlington Heights will participate in the 1966 December Holiday Safety Campaign.

In a formal proclamation he said that he was "fully convinced that the citizens of Arlington Heights are eager to enlist in the fight to save human lives."

HE ASKED that everyone join in the effort for greater safety and exercise increased care in walking and driving as well as in decorating for the holidays.

The Arlington Heights proclamation was issued in cooperation with the National Conference for Religious Leaders' campaign to reduce the annual December season accident toll which reached 9,950 last year.

The local action is part of the Arlington Heights Safety Commission's and National Safety Council's continuing accident-prevention effort.

Woods said that he hoped that the safety efforts would be extended beyond the special holiday campaign. (A

St. Edna's Delays Picking Architect

St. Edna's Catholic parish plans to put off till after the holidays selection of an architect and plans for their first building.

Rev. James J. Doherty, pastor of the North Side Catholic parish, says he plans to cancel an appointment he has Monday to show the plans to Archbishop John Cody.

"I don't want to rush this," Father Doherty explained. "We want to have enough time to consider everything thoroughly."

ARCHBISHOP Cody gave permission several weeks ago for St Edna's — a parish organized 18 months ago — to put up its first structure on a 14-acre site east of Arlington Heights Road and south of Hintz Road.

The first building will have space for eight classrooms and an auditorium where services can be held.

The school, which will have only four grades, will accommodate about half the estimated 500 children that belong to parish families.

The grades to be offered will be determined by the archdiocesan school board shortly before school opens in September, 1968. (A

OK Plastic Coating Firm in Arlington

Two Arlington Heights men are planning to open a wholesale plastic coating distributing firm here early next year.

Secretary of State Paul Powell announced that Arthur H. Burmeister, 1134 N. Dunton Ave., and Edward W. Herbst, 533 S. Pine Ave., have been granted a charter for the Arted Distributing Co.

Commenting on the newly formed corporation, Burmeister said that he and Herbst were currently interviewing prospective dealers. At the present time the company plans to have two employes and to limit itself to wholesale distribution of plastic coatings.

The state chartered the young company to "make, import, develop, deal in and with, sell at wholesale and/or retail, apply, exchange, export or otherwise dispose of protective coating, linings and paints, of every kind and character."

Burmeister said the company will operate from Herbst's home until office space is found. The corporation's official address is lawyer Eugene F. Schlickman's office at 203 N. Arlington Heights Road. (A

Subdivision Fire Traced to Chimney

Faulty chimney construction was the apparent cause of a fire that did an estimated $3,000 damage to the Henry Hout residence, 2018 Flower Circle in Arlington Vista subdivision early Monday morning.

Fire Chief Harvey Carothers said the blaze broke out in the walls above the fireplace. A passing cab driver aroused the family when flames spread to an outside wall. All five members of the family escaped without injury.

THE FAMILY is staying at the home of neighbors until repairs are made.

Homeowners in Arlington Vista are planning to investigate chimney construction in other area homes, according to president of the homeowners association, Gerald McIlraith.

McIlraith said, "Before we take any action, we will find out how extensive the problem is in the area."

He said the homes, built by Harris Home Builders, are from 1 to 5 years old. Fifty-six of the 196 homes in the development are similar to the split-level model of the Houts.

Hout said preliminary investigation shows that the problem involves chimney bricks which apparently were laid adjacent to wood joists on the second floor of the house. (A

Children to Stage Christmas Program

Sunday Schoolers from the Lutheran Church of the Cross, 2025 S. Goebbert Road, Arlington Heights, will present "Each Must be Told," for their Christmas program at 4:30 p.m. Sunday.

The program directed by Mrs. Richard Vande Vegte and assisted by Mrs. Lee Gruber, tells of the birth of Christ through a series of colored slides which were filmed recently in this area.

The children, dressed in authentic costumes, portray Biblical characters in scenes depicting the Annunciation, the journey to Bethlehem, the Holy Nativity and related events.

THE CHAPEL Choir and the church schoolers, under the direction of Mrs. Larry Larson, will provide the music. Mrs. Phyllis Waldron, Arlington Heights, is the organist.

Mrs. George Thal, Arlington Heights, will be the narrator, and the church's pastor the Rev. Larry Cartford will pronounce the benediction.

Photography was done by Carl Baardsen and Karl Nystrom, Mount Prospect; Costuming was handled by Mrs. Carl Baardsen, Mount Prospect; Mrs. John Verdico, Arlington Heights; and Mrs. George Thal.

The public is welcome to attend the performance and social hour that follows it. (A

Police Academy Opens Jan. 9

Hopes for a local police training center will be realized when the Northwest Police Academy gets under way Jan. 9 at the Arlington Heights Municipal Building.

Village Police Chief L. W. Calderwood, a strong supporter of the project, said official approval came Friday from Marvin G. O'Melia, executive director of the Illinois Law Enforcement Training Board. O'Melia met with area police chiefs to review the 160-hour training program.

CALDERWOOD said courses will be taught by qualified local police officers and FBI instructors as well as guest instructors from professional fields.

He is presently seeking instructors for the courses. A tentative list of candidates will be drawn tomorrow (Friday) at a meeting of area police chiefs.

Approved course offerings include: 34 hours of legal subjects, 21 hours of traffic and accident control; 16 hours of criminal investigation; 10 hours of public relations; six hours of writing reports and traffic records and five hours of patrol. The remaining 61 hours will be devoted to first aid, physical education, firearms training, juvenile matters, and crowd control.

Tuition for the four-week training program is $125 and includes administrative material, textbooks, notebooks and ammunition for training with sidearms.

Municipalities which have passed resolutions complying with requirements of the Illinois Police Training Act, will be reimbursed 50 per cent or up to $500 per recruit for training costs and salaries.

CALDERWOOD anticipates the academy will be supported by police departments along the Northwest Highway from Park Ridge to Barrington. He added that police departments in the Grayslake area have also shown interest in participating.

The trainee must be a recruit officer in his probationary year. The school term is to be considered part of his tour of duty.

Classes, held in the basement of Arlington Heights Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Road, will convene daily, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. until noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Calderwood said that after the initial training program, slated for Jan. 9 through Feb. 3, the school will offer advanced in-service training for policemen.

Approve Locations Of New Sidewalks

be heavily traveled until Kennicott Avenue goes in.

Calling sidewalkless Sherwood a "sacred cow," Klingner insisted that there was a need for sidewalks on the east side of the street.

BOLI member Ben Chaps challenged Klingner to show that he was not inconsistent in his reasoning on Yale Avenue and Vine Street. Chaps reminded Klingner that he had said sidewalks were unnecessary on Vine Street.

THE ISSUE was cut short when Klingner moved that Yale Avenue be included in the plan and BOLI members voted 3-2 against the motion.

In making their other decisions, BOLI members used the village policy combined with the policy of not condemning land for the express purpose of sidewalk installation. No non-village owned land was included in the plan.

Several times during the meeting Klingner stressed, "We've got a policy set by the village board and I'm going to follow it," although he admitted that he, personally, is in favor of "a sidewalk in front of every house."

THE PLAN accepted by BOLI included sidewalks on:

—Palatine Road, the two lots west of Verde Avenue, the property between Ridge Avenue and Fernandez Avenue, lots immediately west of Highland Avenue and east from Highland Avenue to the village limits and the northern boundary of the Market Basket shopping center.

—Arlington Heights Road: the east boundary of the Market Basket shopping center, the Northwest Medical Center property and one lot on the east side of the street, just south of Thomas Junior High School.

—Thomas Street: lot number one west of Evergreen Avenue on the south side of Thomas Street, the Virginia Park property on the south side of Thomas Street, and the stretch on the south side of Thomas Street from Ridge Avenue to Mitchell Avenue.

—Northwest Highlands subdivision: all sidewalkless areas with the exception of Clarendon and Marion Streets.

—Walnut Avenue: all sidewalkless property from Oakton Street to Northwest Highway.

—Princeton Avenue: one lot on the west side of the street in the first block north of Northwest Highway.

—Hawthorne Street: the corner of Hawthorne street and Walnut Avenue, the north side of Hawthorne Street between Mitchell and Chestnut Avenues, and the major portion of the south side of the block between Highland and Dunton Avenues.

—Dunton Avenue: all sidewalkless gaps on both sides of the street.

BOLI ENGINEERS are currently working out exact descriptions of the property involved. All property owners who are included in the sidewalk plan will be notified of an informal public hearing.

Colvin stressed that property owners have the option of putting in their sidewalks by private contract or through the village's special assessment procedure.

Private contract arrangements (which are usually less expensive than special assessment proceedings) can be handled either by the individual property owner or through the village. To proceed by private contract, the property owner must deposit money (in the past it has been $3 a front foot) with the village. If he hires his own contractor, the contractor can consult with the village engineer to get the grade of the property.

Should the property owner choose to have the village handle his private contract, his property will be included in the village sidewalk contract which is let in the spring.

School to Solicit Program Book Ads

Members of the Wheeling High School Community Scholarship Foundation are now selling space in the program book for the Foundation's community variety show, "Footlights to the Future," to be held Feb. 17 and 18. According to Foundation president Harry Tyler, members will contact local merchants for advertisements of various sizes and solicit individuals for listing on the patrons' pages.

Mrs. Marjilou Olson, program coordinator for the variety show, said that at least 28 community organizations have indicated they will participate in "Footlights to the Future." Each will present a five-minute dance, song, solo or skit.

FINANCIAL contributions to the Scholarship Foundation were made recently by Eugene Field PTA, Louisa May Alcott PTA, and by members of the faculty of Wheeling High School in memory of Linda Edwards.

The Foundation was organized last spring for the purpose of providing post-high school scholarship funds and public recognition to deserving Wheeling High School students. All proceeds from "Footlights to the Future" will go to the Foundation in the names of the participating groups.

Organizations and individuals wishing to assist with the variety show, or to contribute to the Foundation in any other manner, may write to the Wheeling High School Scholarship Foundation, Wheeling High School, 900 S. Elmhurst Road, Wheeling.

Library Adds 9th Bidder

The Arlington Heights library board added one more contractor to the list of qualified bidders for the proposed new library Monday. Four other contractors failed to meet the board's requirements.

The successful applicant, A.W. Heinson and Co., Mundelein, is the ninth contractor to prequalify. The other eight contractors were approved at a special board meeting late last month.

Of the 17 contractors who submitted an intent to bid, a total of eight were denied the board's stamp of approval.

THE PRE-QUALIFIED bidders, besides Heinson, are: A. A. Rose, Chicago; J. C. Harris and Sons, Inc., Chicago; A. J. Maggio, Chicago; Joseph A. Duffy, Inc., Chicago; Wil-Freds Inc., Chicago; Telander Brothers Construction, Inc., Chicago; Chell and Anderson, Chicago; and Four Contractors.

Toy Department Is PX on Payday

by DAVID HOYT
News Editor

Nossir! The PX on payday, Broadway and 42nd on Saturday night in June, a national political convention at Chicago Stadium—not one of these could match the crush of toy hunters at Randhurst Sunday afternoon. Nossir!

If you were there, you can testify to the truth of these words. You can show your bruises. You have probably already sworn that great oath, "Never again."

It was shove or be shoved in a great sea of humanity that washed in irresistible tides through a department store toy department.

It was little boys shaking battery operated toys—which naturally had no batteries—and asking puzzled parents, "What does it do? What does it do?" And parents dumbly fiddling with the little plastic switches and opening the empty battery compartments and shaking their heads and answering, "I guess it makes this part go around or something."

It was choruses of, "I want this, Mommy. I WANT THIS, MOMMY!"

It was parents asking each other hopefully and hopelessly, "See anything that looks good?"

It was the clatter of plastic machine guns. It was the inane chatter of stuffed animals which talk back to the holder when an attached string is pulled to activate their mechanical voices.

It was the shocked tones of parents who patted large rocking horses on the head, glanced at the price tag, and said, "Ye gods! Twenty-five dollars."

It was platoons of bold-busted Barbie dolls standing in formation awaiting purchase by legions of frantic parents—by fathers who swore earlier in the year, "I'll never get her one of those d---d things, never."

It was cries of, "Look, Daddy, it comes off." And little boys standing there with the wrenched-off part in their hands and the sales clerk hovering near for the first time that afternoon.

It was finding that every cellophane cover on every package in sight had been or was being poked through by curious fingers.

It was a little girl who lost her 25-cent gas balloon which exploded with a loud pop against the ceiling. At which she promptly hurled herself in angry tears at her father, striking him in the stomach with her fists, kicking him until he fished another quarter from his jacket and fetched his little darling another balloon. It was just too much. Never again!

Considering how well their livestock turn out, why not turn children over to 4-H'ers to be raised until ready for market?

Parents could count on their offspring being well-fed and well-groomed. The children would be nourished on a scientific formula to bring out excellent bone flesh development. If the 4-H'er in charge could be sure of the chance to display his project, I think he might even do a top notch job of educating and adjusting his ward.

One hitch to the program looms, however. The youngsters who raise the prize beef and pork can expect a handsome return on their beasts at auction, and most parents, I think, would object to such practice.

Really excellent school teachers should be cast in bronze and preserved for future centuries to admire and salute. Such statuary wouldn't take up much room.

Next week one of my reporters will take a look through the baleful eye on Arlington. I let the column out once a month. I only ask that the tenants take care of the premises.

Saturday Hours For Tag Buyers

Arlington Heights village finance director Stewart Grant announces that his department in the village hall will be open on certain Saturday mornings in December and January to permit residents to purchase municipal vehicle tax stickers and dog tags.

Grant said that residents may make their purchases from 8 a.m. to noon Dec. 17 and 31 and Jan. 7 to 14.

Vehicle stickers go on public sale at village hall Dec. 15. Stickers and dog tags will not be sold on Dec. 26 or Jan. 2.

Okay Sale of School Bonds

The Arlington Heights Elementary District 25 School Board authorized the sale of $500,000 worth of school bonds to the lowest bidder, LaSalle National Bank in Chicago. LaSalle's bid of 4.14516 was the lowest of five bids opened at the special meeting Monday.

The bid was somewhat lower than the low bid of 4.17 received on a $500,000 sale in July.

Clergy Fellowship Group to Continue

The ecumenical committee which planned AHEAD, Arlington Heights' recent ecumenical activities, is going to be a permanent Clergy Fellowship committee.

The fellowship, which represents most village churches, decided at a Tuesday luncheon meeting to make the ecumenical committee a permanent one.

Membership of the committee will remain the same next year, the fellowship decided.

The ecumenical committee, headed by Rev. Rowland Koch, of the Congregational United Church of Christ, includes five ministers or priests. Five laymen will be appointed next year to help with planning of inter-church activities.

EVALUATING THE November AHEAD programs at the luncheon meeting, the ministers expressed most interest in activities involving youth.

Rev. Joel Henning of St. Simon's Episcopal soon after the holidays will start planning a youth effort for some time in February.

Young people represented on AHEAD's youth committee will be invited to continue their help.

Clergymen attending the luncheon meeting agreed that attendance at the ecumenical week activities was light. Most expressed a wish that next year's joint worship service take place in a church rather than a gymnasium.

50 YEARS AGO THIS WEEK

The Herald, Dec. 8, 1916

. . . But we are opposed to war in any form, either in the family, courts or by deadly fire arms in Europe. We believe all nations are sorry they went into it. There was no sense starting the war and it is suicidal for all to continue it. All neutral nations must indirectly help to pay the cost and suffer the results. Why don't they combine and demand that it be stopped? Has our President the courage to call a halt? All will be glad to join him. (The Editor)

Bruns' Rezoning Request Hung Up On The 'Details'

Everything seemed set Monday night for village board approval of Realtor Ralph Bruns' request for a change in zoning for his present business location from R-5 multiple family to B-1 limited retail usage on the southern edge of Stonegate.

Then Bruns, the board and representatives from Stonegate began to wrangle over details.

Bruns wants to remodel his real estate offices located at the corner of Gibbons and Northwest Highway and he wants a zoning change so that he won't have to operate under a non-conforming usage.

STONEGATE homeowners approve of his remodeling, as well as his plans to put in an 11-car parking lot adjacent to his building on the southeast. The village board also favors both moves.

The fly in the ointment is Stonegate's demand that the property be rezoned under restrictive covenants which would allow only 16 of the some 53 uses permitted under B-1 zoning and Bruns' unwillingness to go along with these restrictions.

Representatives from Stonegate argued that there were a number of B-1 uses, such as liquor sales and feed and grain stores, that would tend to detract from the desirability of the subdivision.

Bruns countered that such a severely restrictive covenant would seriously deminish the value of the property should he wish to sell it in the future.

Village board President John Woods told Bruns that he had taken a chance when he had moved into the building in the first place, since it was then a nonconforming usage, and suggested that the homeowners deserved some protection.

Other members of the board agreed that many of the uses listed under the B-1 zoning classification would be objectionable.

BRUNS AGREED that there were some objectionable uses and indicated that he was generally willing to abide by the board's decision on the matter.

Woods announced that he would like to study the matter further, saying that he favored restrictions, but didn't know if he went along with all of those proposed by the Stonegate association. The matter was finally referred to the Legal Committee for further study and recommendation. (A

Mental Health Clinic Plans To Be Presented to Board

The Northwest Cooperative Mental Health Association (NWCMHA) will take its petition for a special-use permit for clinic construction to the Arlington Heights Village Board on Dec. 19 — without the endorsement of the plan commission.

Association attorney Marvin Glink said that he was not optimistic that the board would rule against the plan commission's advice, "we're hopeful, though," he said, "until we're counted out."

The NWCMHA needs the permit to build an eight-room outpatient clinic on its 1¼-acre site next to the Juliette Low School in Surrey Ridge subdivision.

THE PLAN commission's 10-1 decision against the association last Wednesday followed four hours of testimony. About 100 homeowners and interested persons attended the hearing.

Glink, the association's architect Ron Dirsmith, members of the Elementary School District 59 school board, and area ministers all testified in behalf of the proposed clinic location.

"There are other state mental clinics in residental areas," Glink said, noting that both Elgin and Aurora have similar clinics. "I think there is no particular reason for choosing a residential area other than the availability of the site and the reasonable price," he added.

Dirsmith testified that his firm had urged the clinic to locate in a "warm, natural" residential area. "The basic problem of mental health is ignorance," he said.

DOUG BURNS, school board president from district 59, argued, "If the clinic is located next to Juliette Low School, it would be more accessible. In a district of this size, we have children with mental disturbances and emotional problems. The parents might more readily visit the clinic."

The association's arguments that the clinic treated only persons who could be helped on an out-patient basis, that the building had been designed with a residential area in mind and that the location of the clinic would make it more accessible to Arlington Heights residents were met by criticisms from plan commission members and homeowners.

The District 59 sale of the land to the clinic was a major point of controversy.

BURNS SAID that there had been a switch of property in the developer donation and that "somebody forgot to tell us about it." He said that the school's enrollment projections indicated that there would not be a need for more building or land at the Low site.

The land was up for sale by public auction in August, 1965.

Richard Everett, president of the Surrey Ridge Homeowners Association, said that while the homeowners did not oppose the NWCMHA, they did feel that the clinic belonged in a B-2 (limited business) zoning district rather than an R-3 area. Everett brought a petition signed by 450 persons endorsing his position.

Everett suggested that if the permit were granted it could establish a bad precedent for future dedication of park and school sites.

"IF WE persuade the developer to dedicate this land and then allow the school to sell the land, it is a poor precedent," he said.

The homeowners also maintained that there were practical problems in the amount of traffic in the community, the proximity of the facility to the school and residences, the nature of the patient treated and the possibility that with planned additions, the clinic would look more like a motel than a residence.

"This is an area of small children," Everett said. "We have traffic problems now. The school parking lot is over-filled. There's no public transportation nearby. People will be walking on the streets, knocking on doors looking for the mental health clinic."

The mental health clinic, a nonprofit, tax-supported institution is presently located in the Westgate Shopping Center. It serves seven communities in a total of four townships. (A

Post Office Urges Use Of Labels

On Tuesday the Post Office Department delivered one sheet of special mailing labels to all delivery stops in Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village.

These labels are intended for use by our patrons to face, presort, and bundle their Christmas cards to four separations. All other cards should be faced and tied in bundles without labels before being deposited in sack racks in the post office or in collection boxes in the Villages.

Because of a critical space problem only about 50 per cent of the out-going mail for Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village will be worked locally. Therefore all patrons who separate their mail to the four label separation will have them delivered at least one full day ahead of those who do not.

By the use of these labels and by facing and tying all mail before depositing it, all patrons are assuring themselves better and faster postal service in addition to saving the post office a considerable amount of money by eliminating the double handling of approximately 5,000,000 pieces of mail for the Christmas period. Garden Editors to Judge Outdoor Lighting Contest

Two newspaper garden editors will judge "Operation Sparkle," Arlington Heights' Christmas Outdoor Lighting and Decorating Contest.

Art Kozelka, of the Chicago Tribune, and Eldred Green, of the Chicago Sun-Times, were selected as judges this week, according to Carl Klehm, of Charles Klehm and Son Nursery, who is in charge of judging.

A grand total of $105 in prizes will be awarded to eight winners in three judging categories, including home exterior decoration, doorway decoration, and lawn decoration.

KOZELKA, GREEN, and Klehm will view entrants' homes from 6:30 p.m. to 11 p.m. Dec. 20 through Dec. 25. Winners are to be notified by phone.

Gil Krohn, contest chairman for the Arlington Heights Garden Club's community-wide contest, reminds residents that there are only two more days in which to send in entries.

An official entry blank can be found on this page. Contest forms are also available at selected stores in Arlington Heights.

Entries may be mailed to: The Arlington Heights Garden Club, G. H. Krohn, Contest Chairman, 542 S. Dunton Ave., Arlington Heights. (A

Village Profile

Red Best's Job Isn't Simple; He's Policeman of Homebuilding

by David Hoyt
News Editor

Arlington Heights building commissioner Harold (Red) Best heads a police department in the prevention of criminal acts in your house while it is being built.

It is his responsibility to see that houses bought in Arlington Heights don't fall in on the owners' heads after two or three years, that basements and driveways don't crack in the spring and that the wiring doesn't begin to smoke when the housewife turns on her iron.

Best, who frequently can be seen bent over the counter in his outer office on the first floor of the village hall examining plans for new construction, is responsible for enforcing village codes on all types of construction: houses, stores, apartments, and garages.

IF SOMETHING is going up in Arlington Heights, it is because Red Best gave it his okay.

Without his department's approval a structure can still be built but this doesn't often happen. He has strong support both from the village board and the board of zoning appeals. He is working to keep Arlington Heights the highly desirable suburb it is today.

His chief concern is to upgrade the housing—both multiple and single family—in Arlington Heights.

His biggest headache is convincing builders that they can expect to market high-class, high-priced homes.

"OUR TOWN has statistics that defy the statistics of any other town in the area," Best explains. "We put up over 800 homes in the last fiscal year in the $35,000 plus category.

"These people want four bedrooms, three baths and a two-car garage. A builder trying to sell in the range of $19,000 is going to be killed; there's nobody here that's going to buy those homes," said Best.

Best warms to the subject of how he works to change the minds of developers who are new to the area.

He told of one developer who came in with five model homes that had sold well in the southwest suburbs.

BEST EXPLAINED that the models were too skimpy to market in Arlington Heights and took the builder on a tour of the village.

"I TOLD him not to underestimate the market. We drove through the subdivisions, and I told him that the luxury homes he saw were 95 per cent presold. When he understood this, he came back to the office with five new models."

Most communities are downgrading their building standards to meet rising costs, explained Best, while Arlington Heights is busy trying to raise its sights.

He said that this upgrading is aimed at apartment buildings as well as single-family residences. Best said he encourages the building of apartments with interior stairways and security doors, rather than the outside balcony type of entrance.

BEST TOOK a crack at people who beat the drum for low cost housing in Arlington Heights. He noted that one third of the new homes built in the area are bought by people who already live in the village.

"We create a low cost market of 300 homes," said Best, "and so we don't need the lower priced subdivision." He said that most residents buying new homes were moving from small ranch type houses in the areas, especially those with small bedrooms or without basements.

Building in Arlington Heights under the watchful eye of Red Best involves the following steps:

—The builder must first secure an occupancy permit which insures that the land may be used in the manner in which the builder proposes to use it. The owner's proposed use must meet the zoning ordinances. The man who passes on it is Best himself, who is the village zoning officer.

—The plans then go to the architectural committee for review of the structure and the aesthetics of the proposed building. The committee then makes its recommendations to Best on whether or not the plans should be accepted as submitted. Best can either follow or disregard the advice of the committee.

—The plans are then given to various members of Best's department, who not only check the plans but go out to the building site to imspect the actual physical work being done.

THE BUILDING inspector checks the rfaming of the house; the electrician scrutinizes the wiring and the plumbing inspector sees that the piping complies with the specifications.

Before the interior walls go up, all the inspectors make a second inspection to be sure that all specifications have been met.

Concrete slabs in the basement are checked to see that they meet standards for thickness and composition, as are the driveways and garages.

In addition, the garages must have floors that are underlaid with crushed rock to provide necessary support for vehicles.

NOTHING much seems to ruffle Red Best's feathers — neither angry builders nor anxious homeowners. He replies softly to shouting, so softly in fact "it sounds to the people in the office like I'm losing," something he seldom does.

Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson likes to tell a story about Best and the problem of defective roof trusses.

Best came across the defective materials when they were being installed in partially completed buildings in the village. He said they could not be used, and ordered the builders to install new trusses. This meant that some already completed roofs had to be taken off. Screams of anguish echoed in Best's office.

THE MANUFACTURER of the trusses went over Best's head to Hanson. Hanson smiled and told the angry group, "You know, if I didn't get people like you in my office every now and then, I'd wonder if Red was on the ball. I know and you know he's doing his job." The trusses were replaced.

Best has lived in the village 25 years. He, his wife, Elaine, and their 15-year-old son, Lee, make their home at 1905 N. Chestnut. A married daughter, Karen, lives in Michigan.

Before taking on his present challenging position, Best ran a television repair service and worked for three years in the police department, from 1957-60.

He set up the department's photo darkroom and helped organize the present records classification system.

One unhappy memory nags Best, however:

He was ticketed the first week he lived in the village for failure to display an Arlington vehicle tax sticker. (A

Building Permits Run Ahead of '65

More building permits for single-family dwellings have been issued through November of 1966 than were issued during all of 1965, according to Arlington Heights Building Commissioner R. C. Best.

In his monthly report to the village manager, Best indicated that a total of 703 permits for homes have been issued since January. That compares with 693 home construction permits issued last year.

MORE THAN 1,000 building permits for all types of construction have been issued during 1966. The total valuation of new structures built since January is $34,061,877 — a $7 million increase over the same period in 1965.

In November, however, home construction permits were low. Only 23 permits for single-family dwellings were issued with a valuation of $605,500.

Three permits were issued for multi-family residences in November. Total vlauation of the projects was $897,000.

During the month, the building department also issued permits for: $12,400 valuation for residential garages and $8,000 valuation for home alterations and additions. (A

Removal of Median Strips Considered

The Arlington Heights board of trustees took initial action Monday night to get rid of raised concrete median strips on Euclid Avenue and Arlington Heights Road where those streets cross the Chicago and North Western Railroad tracks.

Trustee Carl Mees charged that the median on Euclid could easily flip a car, and was difficult to see at night or when there is snow on the road.

BOARD PRESIDENT John Woods noted that the state had made numerous alterations in the strip on Arlington Heights Road, and added that while he was "glad to see people gainfully employed," the strips did appear to constitute a danger to motorists. The matter was referred to the Public Safety Committee for study. (A

Seven Nominated For Chamber Posts

The Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce's nominating committee has slated Guy Anderson, vice president of the Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association, to run for the chamber presidency.

Nominees for the six regular three-year terms on the chamber board of directors are Philip Gustafson, manager of Baumann Music Studios; Lowell Henriksen, personnel manager, A. O. Smith Harvestore Products, Inc.; Mrs. Margaret LeMeilluer, Marge's Apparel Sample Shop; E. (Bud) Mills, Webber Paint Co.; Ken Tucker, Kenroy, Inc.; and Wayne Walters, vice president, First Arlington National Bank.

ACCORDING TO the chamber's by-laws, other nominations may be made by any five or more members who file a petition with the executive manager on or before Dec. 10.

Robert G. Walters will automatically become a member of the board by virtue of being immediate past president. (A

Audio-Visual Aids Make Learning More Creative

Flexible audio-visual aids make learning—and teaching—more challenging, individual and creative.

Armed with phonographs, slide projectors, overhead projectors, and tape recorders, five District 25 teachers proved this point Monday at a board-staff meeting. In the audience were members of the Board of Education, the PTA Council, the PTA executive committees, and the teaching staff.

Miss Vivian Irwin, vocal music teacher at Wilson and Ivy Hill Schools, showed the varied uses of the phonograph in a classroom.

The eerie sounds of a steaming jungle, rolling claps of thunder, and a screaming siren filled the room from a record entitled "The Mysterious World of Sound." This record, Miss Irwin explained, was used to stretch the imagination of the student. While the record played in a classroom, children can draw or paint pictures which came to their minds.

A TEACHER, she continued, could use documentary records as aids to teaching music. One example, which she played, began with "I am Aaron Copeland and I'm from New York" and it continued with some of the composer's modern music.

"A teacher cannot use a record to do the teaching," she explained. "It is used to augment and enhance her teaching.'

The use of the tape recorder for the child with learning disabilities was demonstrated by Mrs. Colene Norton, teacher of perceptually handicapped children at Wilson School.

Mrs. Norton explained she uses tapes to record stories and poems of students with speech difficulties.

Other uses include taping test or homework instructions, favorite stories or rhymes which children like to hear over and over, and spelling words. By using a tape for teacher-parent conferences, a teacher is insured of having the information at hand — and not merely relying on memory.

A TAPE RECORDER can even be used for discipline, she added. "If you record a child's promise to behave, and he forgets it a month later, you can replay it."

Mrs. Bernice Gliege, math teacher at Thomas Junior High, showed "How to Use Your Head With the Overhead." (projector, that is."

"I like to see the whites of my children's eyes," she said, while demonstrating the intricacies of the new math. "When you use a blackboard, your back is turned to the class."

After the initial cost of an overhead projector, she explained, its use is relatively inexpensive.

THE 10-BY-10 inch transparencies can be made by District 25's audio-visual department. Students can use them in giving reports and classroom demonstrations, she added.

An array of giant plastic models of teeth, eyes, and ears are available to District 25 teachers for the first time this year. Mrs. Judith Wall, a team teacher at Ivy Hill School, explained the models can be used in all grades — from kindergarten to eight.

"They're unbreakable," she remarked.

Richard Rudin, science teacher at Miner Junior High School, proved that where ever you can take a camera, you can bring another object into the classroom.

Rudin said that the slide projector enables teachers to bring up-to-date material into their classes. He showed vividly colored slides of the U. S. space program — taken from current magazine articles.

"ONE PICTURE can bring a thousand questions from students," he commented — something that does not usually happen by passing a news article or picture around the class.

Audio-visual teaching aids are getting increased use in District 25 classrooms, according to a report given by Miss Karen Streckert, fourth grade teacher at Westgate.

This year there are 80 more films than last year, bringing the total to 400. Teachers can select from 3,000 filmstrips, 200 transparencies and 120 tape recordings — all listed in an audio-visual aids catalogue distributed to each teacher. Some 10,000 requests are expected this year, she said.

LEWIS CRANE, audio-visual consultant, explained that most teachers used the aids to some degree. Workshops at the schools show teachers how to use the equipment, he added.

The board-staff meeting, attended by about 40 persons, is the first of four meetings in which District 25 teachers will demonstrate a new or popular method of teaching.

A question and answer period followed the end of the presentation.

Board member James Penn commented, "If we had some of these techniques when I went to school, it certainly would have been easier." (A

Harper College Receives First 30 Applications

Over 30 applications have been received for admission to William Rainey Harper college when it begins classes in September, 1967.

John H. Upton, director of institutional development and community relations, said the school administration recently sent a brochure answering specific questions and containing pertinent data on the college to juniors and seniors at the eight high schools in School Districts 211 and 214, as well as to the counselors and teachers.

At the same time that the student body is being formed, Upton said, plans to start construction of the college in the spring of 1967 are progressing and will be carried out, pending approval by the state legislature of a recommended $5,047,812 for phase 1B of the construction budget. He expects formal approval of the grant by January.

UNDER PHASE 1A the state legislature approved an appropriation for $3,426,548 for Harper College. Funds for the Phase 1B grant recommended by the Illinois College Board are from $20.5 million in state money to be divided between six junior colleges.

The state funds were set aside for six Class 1 college districts designated under the State Junior College Act of 1965. Total approved requests for the six colleges are for over $44 million. According to the law, 75 per cent of construction costs are provided by the federal government and 25 per cent by the communities. Harper Junior College will serve the four townships of Palatine, Schaumburg, Wheeling and Elk Grove.

"We must start construction next spring to ready the buildings for occupancy by the fall of 1968," Upton stated, "but even if the grant is approved in January, we will have a very tight construction leeway."

THE FUTURE campus site will be located on 217 acres at the northeast corner of Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine. Initial construction of four buildings of the campus (to be completed at an estimated cost of $29 million) will include the college center to house classes, administration offices, a lounge and cafeteria; a learning resources center and library; a technology and science building containing laboratories, and a central utility structure.

There is a possibility, according to Upton, of including in the initial construction a fine arts wing to the college center and a separate lecture demonstration area.

The classes that will begin in fall, 1967 will be held at Elk Grove High School. Additional information on the college and applications for registration may be obtained by contacting the office of William Rainey Harper College, 34 W. Palatine Rd., Palatine; phone:358-9100.

Ground Broken For Church Wing

Ground was broken Nov. 27 for a new education wing to house young people's activities at the First Baptist Church of Park Ridge, 1266 N. Northwest Highway. At present overflow church school classes are held in Franklin School.

The two-story addition will provide 11,000 square feet of space, according to the Rev. O. Dean Nelson, and will be of contemporary design to blend with the church built in 1961. Architect Walter Kroeber's plans call for nine classrooms, three staff offices and church parlor.

The First Baptist Church school superintendent is Mrs. Albin Vasquez, 212 Clearmont Drive, Elk Grove Village. Trustees approving the building program are William Bohres, 15 Wildwood Road, Elk Grove Village; L. P. Wheeler, 808 S. Golfview Place, Mount Prospect, and Gene Cimeley, 1424 N. Vail, Arlington Heights.

A member of the building committee is Marion Culpepper, 114 S. Stratford, Arlington Heights, chairman of the official board of the church. Leland Wallace, general sales manager for Joseph Goder Incinerators, Elk Grove Village, is chairman of the building committee. (B10

'Rights' Scope Metropolitan, Nine Area Residents Hear

Nine representatives of four human relations organizations in the northwest suburbs were the invited guests of the Chicago Commission on Human Relations at its annual luncheon Monday. Leaders from the Palatine, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights and Wheeling groups joined with those of 100 other suburban communities in two pre-luncheon conferences aimed at eliciting commitment to metropolitan open housing.

Talks were given by Thomas Ayers, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and Industry; Roger Nathan, director of the Illinois Commission on Human Relations; John McKnight, director, midwest field office, U.S. Commission on Civil Rights, and Ed Marciniak, executive director, Chicago Commission on Human Relations.

The thrust of the pre-luncheon talks for suburban groups was, unless there is an area-wide open real estate market, by the 2000 Chicago will be more than 50 per cent Negro and a dangerous place for whites to live.

"WE MUST LOOK to the situation we are creating for our children and grandchildren if we do not act now," was the warning of Ayers.

He emphasized the need for developing local leadership in "We will soon supply you all walks of life: with the names of some willing people in your communities, but that is only a start. There is no substitute for local action."

Seeking broader human relations goals than housing, Marciniak stressed the need for de-segregation of economic opportunity:

"In your areas check for hiring of non-whites, especially in white collar jobs. Take employment inventories. Check to see if lack of housing opportunities is hampering willing employers from recruiting non-whites."

Other ideas for immediate, non-technical action mentioned by the Chicago director were tutoring programs and the Great Books program.

"Right now we have over 200 centers where tutoring is being done by high-school youngsters in remedial reading; suburban kids are perfect for the job. And think of the bridges that might be built by bright inner and outer city teen-agers discussing the Great Books together."

McKNIGHT outlined the major routes to immediate housing for minority home-seekers via federal financing of tracts and FHA repossessed homes.

"Anytime you want a list of these properties, we are at your service. They are usually houses well within the buying range of middle-class people."

Other suggestions for immediate action while awaiting a more comprehensive plan came from several of the suburbanites at the meeting. One was encouraged to attempt to get a local housing ordinance to help 'til a state or federal law is passed. Another asked that petitions to state representatives be drawn up before the next session of the legislature.

"Even if these measures do not help pass a bill, they do help educate responsible people to the need for a law," was Nathan's summing up.

AFTER THE preliminary suburban pep-talks, James W. Cook, president of Illinois Bell, the luncheon speaker and chairman of the Leadership Council for Metropolitan Open Communities, discussed the "new frontier," a desegregated society.

Quoting the words of the Chicago Negro who died when he threw himself on a grenade to save three white buddies, Cook commented, "He had said in a discussion on civil rights a few weeks before, 'You just have to care enough.' That's the whole story." (B10

Attend Conference

Fourteen area high school students interested in becoming special education teachers attended a two-day career conference in Champaign recently.

The Northwest Suburban chapter of the Council for Exceptional Children provided funds for the students, representing five area high schools, to attend the Nov. 13-14 conference.

Palatine High School sent the largest group of future teachers. Representing that school were Kathy Kohring, Sue Leimbach, Ann McConachie, Linda Meadors and Becky Walsh.

OTHER students attending the special education conference were Stephanie Simone and Georgia Tison of Conant High School, Barbara Hansen and Kathy Braun of Arlington High, Judy Gray and Mary Noonan of Prospect High, and Barbara Espeset, Mary Ann Smith and Katie Stach, all of Forest View.

John H. Altofer Eyes Statehouse, From Afar

by DAN PRIBILSKI
Political Editor

John Henry Altorfer. It's a name many people in northeastern Illinois may remember, if only vaguely, but must think hard to remember why they know it.

It's a political name. John Henry Altorfer was Republican candidate for lieutenant governor in 1964.

The lieutenant governorship candidacy was his first plunge into state politics. In the primary he emerged victorious over six other party hopefuls.

Now he is eyeing the gubernatorial election in 1968.

Altorfer, 45, is a Peoria businessman. Downstate he is well known and reportedly could count on support there if and when he officially declares himself a GOP candidate for governor.

His interests in the governorship were reported by a close aide who worked with him in 1964.

BY COINCIDENCE, Altorfer's interests were definitely made known last week at the same time that R. Sargent Shriver Jr., poverty war director, announced his interest in the governorship.

So, fogetting about Governor Kerner or any possible ambition he might have for a third term, the state already has a governor's slate of two highly appealing men.

Kerner to seek a third term would be bucking a historical trend. Normally it's two terms and that's it. Third-term candidates, such as William Stratton, are defeated.

Kerner, formally a county judge, would probably like to return to the bench in the twilight years of his political life.

LIKE ANY politician, Altorfer doesn't at this time say publicly that he's an active candidate. However, being more honest than some, he at least doesn't vigorously hedge or say outright it's the furthest thing from his mind.

Altorfer, between now and the time election campaigning starts in earnest, must develop a popular image in northeastern Illinois where more than half the state's population resides.

He must also cultivate the GOP powers-that-be in this area—that means Cook County Board President Richard B. Ogilvie and Cook County Central Committee Chairman Timothy Sheehan.

Altorfer last week in a telephone interview commented briefly about his concern for the 1968 gubernatorial election. First and foremost, he said, is his concern for the welfare of the Republican Party.

HE IS interested in seeing that in 1968 no intra-party fight develops such as the one in 1964 between the William Scott and Charles Percy factions.

In 1964, the Republicans fought viciously in their primary, bloodied each other, and when it was all over, the hurts and imagined hurts were deep enough to keep them from uniting for an effective campaign against the Democrats.

ALTORFER

THE ALTORFER aide who talked to this newspaper also expressed in behalf of Altorfer his concern to avoid disruptive party fights.

The aide commented that Altorfer, while thinking seriously of running, also has an eye toward avoiding any primary fight, especially one in which he would be a contestant. (A-15

LEGITIMATE TV THEATRE

by ED LANDWEHR

Television and Broadway will get together this winter and broadcast via closed circuit to playhouses outside of New York. Eventually, they want to televise live, legitimate productions into theatres across the nation on a pay-as-you-see basis.

Admission prices will be about half the usual Broadway ticket cost. Receiving theatres will be equipped with high fidelity sound and screens fifteen feet high and twenty-two feet wide.

It would be wonderful to get this kind of theatre service in this area. But, until it comes along, that TV screen is doing a pretty good job of entertaining us. And when the picture goes "awry," don't forget the TV number CLearbrook 5-0700. LANDWEHR TV, 218 N. Underachiever Program Is for 'Late Bloomers'

by BETTY FORRESTER
Staff Writer

Twenty-five selected freshmen with high ability but average or inferior junior high records are getting special attention at Arlington High.

These students, many of them "late bloomers" are participating in the Talented Underachiever Program. This experimental program is aimed at helping them to change their attitudes and achieve more, academically. It is similar although not identical to the University of Chicago Laboratory School program and several other programs throughout the nation.

"We encourage the students to take individual responsibility for their work rather than to rely on the teacher for everything," Mrs. Mary Barber, head of the program, explained. She said that lack of individual initiative was a problem common to many underachievers.

THE STUDENTS themselves have accepted the program well, although some of them object to spending three hours a day with the same classmates, she said. The fact that they were chosen as a special group, seems to have produced a "halo" effect rather than a stigma, she said.

Now in its second year, the program permits the students to remain as one group for classes in English, math and biology. Every day the teachers from the three classes meet with Mrs. Barber to discuss the progress of the class and individuals in it.

This inter-disciplinary communication is the most important aspect of the program, according to Mrs. Barber. Through these unstructured get-togethers, the teachers are able to spot the student who is doing well in one class but lagging in his other studies.

THE REGULAR class setup affords little opportunity for such discussions, she said.

Because all three teachers have the same students, they are able to pool their ideas on how to deal with each student as an individual. Mrs. Barber asserted that while all the students in the program have the combination of high ability and underachievement in common, the teachers are not working with a homogenous group. There is still a classroom full of individuals, she said.

Teachers working in the program were chosen on the basis of their competence as teachers as well as their ability to relate to students. They are given somewhat more flexibility in determining classroom activities than are other teachers at the school. But, Mrs. Barber said, there is very little difference in the special class's activities and those of their friends in the regular classes.

"What happens in the classroom is really not too important," Mrs. Barber said.

PARENTS, AS well as teachers, students and counselors, participate in the program. Mrs. Barber said that parents are asked to come in for counseling sessions and that no student has been put in the program without his parents' consent.

While this year's participants in the program get the attention of three teachers, the students who started out as talented underachievers last year now remain as a group only for English classes. Mrs. Barber still acts as their counselor and careful study of their progress continues.

Statistics from the end of last year show that 14 of the students in the program showed grade point increases of .25 to 1.5 over their junior high averages. Six students showed no increase, and three participants' grade points dropped by .25 to 1.0.

Comparisons of last year's year-end averages with last year's first quarter averages indicate that 11 students' grade points increased from .25 to .75 while three students' averages remained constant and nine students' grade points decreased from .25 to .75.

MRS. BARBER SAID that the comparison might indicate "that a number of students responded to the halo effect early in the year and then lapsed into established habits."

Figures from this fall's first quarter show the mean class gradepoint increase to be somewhere between last year's first quarter and year-end increases.

Of the students that participated in the program last year, only one failed a course, eight voluntarily decided to take a summer school course and five elected to carry a fifth subject as sophomores.

The teachers recommended seven transfers to fast ability sections, four in English, two in math and one in science.

"THERE IS A definite feeling that some thing or combination of things has contributed to a positive change of attitude in most of the students in this program," Mrs. Barber said in her year-end report. "It is not possible to prove positively that the program is wholly responsible but grade reports, teacher evaluations and parent comments support this feeling."

She said no specific factor has been isolated and no revolutionary innovations developed.

In the future, she said, she will continue to study the progress of the participating students. A control group may be set up.

MRS. BARBER said the program seems to have helped some students tremendously.

"If we can help some late-bloomers to bloom a little earlier, we've accomplished something," she said. (A

Notes from Arlington Acres

Best wishes for a speedy recovery go to Fred W. Both, 433 S. Phelps, who has been hospitalized for the past two weeks since suffering a coronary attack. Since he is allowed no visitors and is expected to remain in the hospital six to eight weeks more, cards may make the stay less tedious. They may be sent to him at Holy Family Hospital, 100 N. River Road, Des Plaines, Room 439.

Fred Jr. has completed his basic training at Lackland AFB, Del Rio, Tex., and was granted a furlough to be with his dad for a short time. He left Tuesday for his new assignment at Chanute Field, Rantoul, and it is hoped he will be able to get home often.

On a happier note, Jack Curtin, 432 S. Forrest, who spent two weeks in Northwest Community Hospital after a heart attack, came home Sunday for a short period of convalescence before returning to work.

The Robert Kremers, 417 S. Prindle, were Thanksgiving hosts to Ruby's nephew, Scott Dunn of Massachusetts, now in boot camp at Great Lakes Naval Training Station.

SINCE SCOTT was able to leave the base again Saturday, his aunt and uncle took him to dinner at the Carousel after a tour of the Catacombs at the Ivanhoe. Also included in the party were the Kremers' son, Gary, and their daughter and son-in-law, Barbara and Mike Banks of Des Plaines.

While the men stayed home Sunday to watch football on television, Ruby and Barbara drove to Great Lakes to spend the day with Scott and to enjoy a bus tour of the base.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Q. Yowell, 441 S. Forrest, spent Thanksgiving week in Culpeper, Va., with LQ's parents. They also visited other family members.

Congratulations and best wishes go to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Westman, 520 S. Forrest, on their 33rd wedding anniversary Dec. 2.

Grandma Westman, who makes her home with Ruth and Ray, left Monday for Hot Springs, Ark., to spend most of the winter. Mrs. Westman is deaconess emeritus of the First Christian Church of Arlington Heights, and in that capacity spends several months a year, usually after the holidays, at the resort, writing meditations to be used in subsequent church services. This is Grandma Westman's 11th year of such work and she has made many friends in the field who have been urging her to spend the Christmas season in the south with them.

A SEND-OFF for the traveler was planned by the family Saturday. After having dinner with four sisters-in-law in Evanston, she returned home to find the house full of well wishers who not only wished her Godspeed on her trip but had planned an early Christmas party for her enjoyment.

November claims a good share of wedding anniversary celebrants in Arlington Acres, among them Mr. and Mrs. Andy Lucas, 419 S. Phelps, married 13 years Nov. 28. By way of celebration, they had dinner at Mangam's on Beverly Lake, accompanied by their 5-year-old daughter, Bonnie, who brought a lump to her parents' throats when she raised her "kiddie cocktail" and on her own initiative proposed a toast to many more happy anniversaries.

On the same day, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kulisch, 520 S. Prindle, were married an identical number of years. Since June's parents had returned from a Florida vacation just the day before, they were anxious to see the Kulisches and suggested an anniversary dinner at Landl's in Skokie. Included were the Kulisch children, Terry and Tracy.

THE KULISCHES are passing on good reports of the Jack Donovan family, former neighbors, who moved to Philadelphia last summer. In fact, much of the news comes by way of Jack who makes a point of dropping in to see their old friends whenever he is in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Ron Drews, 517 S. Forrest, also mark a Nov. 28 anniversary but are comparative newlyweds, being married seven years. Weller's in Morton Grove was the scene of their anniversary dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jahnke, 2024 E. Park, were feted by their family in honor of their 26th wedding anniversary Nov. 30.

A recent Batman party at the Leonard Kurp home, 416 S. Waterman, was in honor of the Nov. 30 birthday of 4-year-old Lyn. Lunch was served in a Batman atmosphere to Greg Henning, Bonnie Lucas, Andrea Domas, Jennifer Theil, Bruce Pokuta, Camille Norris and Lyn's sister, Karen. When the guests departed for home each was carrying a Batman prize.

A HAPPY 14th birthday was wished to Jimmy Conway, son of the Fran Conways, 513 S. Prindle, at a Thanksgiving dinner party, although his birthday was not until Nov. 28. Hosts were his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Doederlein in Chicago.

When Jimmy's birthday rolled around the celebration was less formal, with dinner out for him, his parents and his sister, Sharon.

The Roy Stoehrs, 441 S. Prindle, could not wish a happy Nov. 30 birthday to their older son, Doug, in person because he is attending Wisconsin State University at Superior. However, they made good use of the mails and the telephone to express their warm wishes.

Dick Stoehr, an avid ski enthusiast, spent Sunday at Wilmot, Wis., with skiing friends, trying out the slopes.

The Kenneth Sealocks, 521 S. Prindle, and daughters, Deanna and Jennifer, braved the icy weather Sunday to go out for dinner in honor of Jennifer's 15th birthday. (A

'Apprentice Witch' Planned at Miner

Arlington Heights Girl Scouts will sponsor the Pinocchio Players Guild professional production of "The Apprentice Witch" Dec. 17 at Miner Junior High School.

Admission is 75 cents.

Bank Gets Go-Ahead On Remodeling Work

The First Arlington National Bank was given official village consent Monday night to go ahead with remodeling and expansion on its site at 14 E. Campbell St.

The Arlington Heights board of trustees agreed to an ordinance allowing the bank to proceed with construction, providing that its parking facilities north of Northwest Highway be completed before the new facilities are put in use.

A TEMPORARY building permit was issued to the bank Tuesday. Village building commissioner Harold Best explained that the temporary permit was issued because the bank has not yet secured a plumbing contractor.

The village must have an application from the plumbing contractor in order to determine whether the contractor is licensed by the State of Illinois or the City of Chicago. In addition, fees must be paid to the village to provide for inspection of plumbing work.

Best said he had issued what amounted to a starting permit, to allow the bank to proceed with construction while moderate weather prevailed. (A

Creation Is Eyed

A committee to study the need for a township committee on youth will soon be appointed by the Wheeling Township Board of Auditors.

Township officials voted Saturday to set up a citizens committee to study the need for a youth committee at the township level.

The chairman will be selected some time in the next two weeks, auditors said.

DATE OF THE meeting at which they will select the chairman has not yet been set. The choice will be discussed in a closed session preceding public announcement of the appointee.

The citizens committee — to include village officials, representatives from present village youth commissions and councils, and other interested persons — will be asked to make its recommendation regarding the need for a township youth committee before the annual town meeting in April. (ACM

Houser Refreshed, Ready for New Job

Thick Skin a Political Must

Thomas Houser, at 37, has directed two campaigns for Republican Senator-elect Charles Percy. Houser, who will head Percy's Chicago office, is a former star collegiate athlete and a successful corporation lawyer for the Burlington Railroad. But most important, he is a political pro with two Percy campaigns under his belt. He has been with both the vanquished and the victor.

Interviewed in his Arlington Heights home, shortly after returning from a post-election vacation, he reminisced in a relaxed manner about the Republican campaign — what it demanded of him and what it meant to his future.

Question: How did you get to know Charles Percy and happen to become his campaign manager, Mr. Houser?

Houser: It was in early 1963. Percy came into our (Wheeling) township. We met and seemed to like each other. He had me over to his house, and we talked. That's when I learned of his political plans. Ever since I first met him, my one political interest has been to see that he got elected.

Question: What sort of life is it, running another man's affairs? What are the tasks involved of a campaign manager?

Houser: Lots depends on the relationship between the campaign manager and the candidate. Part of the problem is that everybody wants to see either you or the candidate; they want to see somebody who is at the top. This creates a great pressure of people who want to see you.

Everybody feels they have the right to talk to you and they do, but you simply cannot see them all, and you must be tactful about it. This puts a premium on smart secretaries and administrative assistants. That was one important difference for me between this campaign and the 1964 effort. This campaign was much less hectic because I had help from very capable administrative assistants.

MY RELATIONSHIP with Percy can be described as most satisfactory. You must get to know the candidate very well. You must be able to present his thoughts to other people. I made over 10,000 decisions in this campaign, of which 500 were very important ones. When you make such decisions you must know what the candidate has on his mind so you can reflect his ideas. And you must also know when to consult with the candidate.

I took complete control on expenditures and personnel, but I didn't make any policy decisions without consulting with Percy.

Question: You have been tabbed as a political pro. Does this mean anything to you? If it does, what distinguishes a political pro from an amateur in the game?

Houser: In our 1966 senatorial campaign there was no major mistake made. We had an excellent research staff that kept us well briefed. We were able to develop positive propositions such as the all-Asian peace conference. That came from the Percy campaign. We also had a major housing proposal. It was both a critical and constructive campaign.

We had good support from the regular Republican organizations all across the state in this campaign, somthing we didn't in 1964. The regular organizations never did recover from the primary battle that year. This year we had unity. Also Goldwater lost heavily and was a terrible drag at the top of the ticket in 1964.

I THINK you can say that a political pro is one who can accept the winner and go on and work for him; the amateur sees the polls through his own eyes, and he'll often quit and go home. The amateur has no broad-gauge feel for the polls.

In 1966 everything went our way. Percy was a unanimous choice, and the party did a tremendous amount of pulling together. This year the regular Republicans and the Citizens for Percy organizations were able to work together.

Question: Do you tailor a campaign to meet the political talents of the man opposing your candidate?

Houser: That's hard to answer. Both Douglas and Kerner made good appearances. Both are good campaigners, but I noticed better organization in the Kerner campaign than in the Douglas campaign. I think Daley noticed it too, and there was some indication that he was taking over the Douglas effort toward the closing days because of his dissatisfaction with the way things were being handled.

Question: Do you know whether Percy planned to run for the Senate if he was beaten for the governorship in 1964?

Houser: He had no such plans. In fact Percy came very close to not running for the Senate in 1966. Pressure began growing for him to run. The argument was that the party must start building now if it hopes to win in 1968.

Personally I thought he could win the state house in 1968 and do more good in rebuilding the party from the governor's office. Nobody, me included, foresaw the big sweep in 1966. I really felt he could do more from the governor's office.

Question: Some observers have charged that Percy is ambitious, since he readily switched from seeking the governorship to running for the Senate. Is there anything wrong with political ambition or does it help?

Houser: Political ambition is indispensable. To those who say otherwise I would invite them to go through a couple of campaigns — major ones — with a man who has no ambition. You must be thick-skinned, you must have fortitude and ambition to seek a major office. The idea of the office seeking the man is fine at the local level, but if all our politics were based on this proposition, it would be an incredible situation.

THERE MUST be things in political life that a man wants to accomplish.

This is the second phase in Percy's life. In the first phase he did well as a businessman. Now he is entering politics, and the final phase will quite likely find him in education. I think that he will come to head a major university.

Question: Here's the inevitable question: Has the senator-elect decided whether he will seek the presidential nomination in 1968?

Houser: His biggest job now is going to Washington and doing a good job as a senator. He has a lot to learn, and he knows it. There are those who see in him some of the attributes it takes for the presidency. I wouldn't deny it.

Question: Was there ever any doubt, following the murder of his daughter, Valerie, that Percy would continue in the race?

Houser: There was for Percy himself, and he had to seek the answer from himself and his family. We on the staff just assumed that he would continue.

Question: What are your own plans for the future? Are you interested in seeking political office yourself?

Houser: I will not return to the railroad. I will work as special counsel for Senator Percy. I will be working in his Chicago office and will represent him in Illinois.

I EXPECT to provide him with legal counsel on any questions that come up on his policy. I will represent him with all associations, professional and private interest groups and unions that deal with the senator's office.

I will make policy decisions in Illinois after consulting with the senator and I will represent his political interests in the state.

As far as my own political plans go, I would seek a statewide office if I decide I want to run. I might consider it as long as I can practice law and remain in a position with a law firm. I don't like the idea of depending on political life for an income. I have no plans for an active return to Republican politics in Wheeling Township, and will seek no local office. I will give my support to Committeeman Gene Schlickman. (Houser retired from the committeeman post to run the Percy campaign.)

Question: What activity are you currently engaged in for Percy? There must be some loose ends to tie up on a campaign like this.

Houser: Well, the Percy for Senator Committee is still in existence with 17 people on the staff. There is an interim job now of saying "thank you" to those who have helped and written to wish us well. We handle a mail load of 300 to 400 letters a day. This mail is slowly changing from congratulatory material to inquiry on senate matters.

And we try to keep abreast of what is happening in Illinois. Of course we are very interested in the speculation that is going on about the coming mayoral campaign in Chicago.

I will be talking to Cook County Republican Central Committee Chairman Tim Sheehan and County Board Pres. Dick Ogilvie over lunch this week to hear what they have to say about this.

Really, the office is just as hectic as it was in the closing days of the campaign. It is being decided who will go to Washington. Political lives are being decided . . . who's staying with the senator and who's not.

RELAXING AT HOME after directing Charles Percy's successful siege of Democrat Paul Douglas' senatorial citadel, Thomas Houser comments on the campaign and what the future holds.

Mrs. Chapman Backs Auto Safety Bill

Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, (3rd District) is among the cosponsors of the first bill filed with the 1967 session of the Illinois General Assembly.

The bill, identified as House Bill 1, reflects a proposal from Secretary of State Paul Powell calling for annual inspection of passenger cars.

THE BILL provides for licensing by the secretary of state of garages, dealers and similar service organizations as inspection stations. It also authorizes the secretary of state to employ investigators to make frequent investigations of the stations' performance and compliance with rules and regulations.

The effective date is set at Jan. 1, 1969, to provide time for hiring of personnel, their training, licensing of inspection stations, acquisition of equipment and other details necessary to the start of the program. (A-15

Illinois Legislators' Pay Comparison Made

Since the 75th session of the General Assembly will convene shortly, the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois noted that Illinois legislators receive salaries that compare favorably to the salaries of legislators in the remaining 49 states.

Based on pay per session, the $18,000 per biennium in Illinois ranks highest in the nation. However, three states pay more than Illinois per biennium but have annual sessions of the legislature. Illinois meets biennially unless a special session is called by the governor. Michigan leads the list in total pay with a biennial salary of $25,000, followed by New York and Pennsylvania with salaries of $24,000. At the other end of the scale, legislators in New Hampshire receive the lowest salary among the 50 states with a biennial salary of $200.

In 1964-65 the median annual state legislator's salary in the U.S. was $2,400. This appears meager when compared to the median compensation of other political and professional personnel for the same year: governors, $25,000; supreme court justices, $22,000; classroom teachers, $6,000; accountants, $8,671; attorneys, $14,499; chemists, $11,026; engineers, $11,675.

THE BUREAU of Census gives a figure of $7,658 as the median of income of "professional, technical or kindred workers" in 1963.

Although it is difficult to make generalizations about the expenses involved in being a legislator, it is safe to say that his expenses will be considerably higher than if he were not elected to office. For instance, he assumes some of the expenses of election, the cost of living in Springfield during the legislative session, and certain other expenses connected with being a legislator.

Some Legislators lose income while attending the legislative session, committee meetings and other related functions.

Legislative compensation is constantly increasing.

DURING THE 15 years, 1950-65, the median biennial compensation rose 230 per cent and the average biennial compensation increased 191 per cent.

The momentum toward higher legislative pay generated during the last 15 years continued during the first half of 1966 when Vermont, Georgia, Michigan, New York and Alaska all made substantial increases in salaries.

Currently 21 other states are studying the feasibility of increased legislative compensation. (A15

Bleakley Named Head Of Handicapped Unit

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert H. Behrel has announced the appointment of W. Harold Bleakley as chairman of the newly formed Northwest Municipal Council on Employment of the Handicapped.

Bleakley, president of EmCor, Inc., a Des Plaines firm of consulting and industrial engineers, will begin serving his voluntary office Dec. 14, when he chairs a special council meeting designed to show local industrialists the advantages of hiring the qualified handicapped.

The meeting is scheduled for noon.

Blinded by an archery accident when he was 11 years old, Bleakley went on to earn both a bachelor's and a master's degree at the University of Pittsburgh in the fields of psychology, mathematics and industrial management.

AFTER graduation he served as clinical psychologist at the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind, and in 1944 was named state director of Vocational Rehabiltation for the Blind for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

During the latter stages of World War II, he assisted in the development of the rehabilitation center for blind Navy and Marine personnel at the Philadelphia Naval Hospital. During this time he also was active in founding one of the nation's first vacation camps for the blind — Beacon Lodge.

Before moving to the Chicago area Bleakley was general manager for a private organization for the blind in Pittsburgh that employed approximately 380 blind men and women in manufacturing operations. For five years he was on the editorial staff of the magazine We the Blind and once wrote a syndicated feature on problems of the blind which was published in over 80 newspapers from coast to coast.

IN CONFIRMING Bleakley's appointment by the Northwest Municipal Council, Behrel said the new chairman represented "one of the most capable administrators in the nation for helping the handicapped reach full employment potential."

"We regard his appointment as an asset not only to the handicapped of the community, but to the community itself," the mayor added.

At the employers' orientation meeting, Dec. 14 in the Des

Plaines Elks Club, more than 150 company officials will be given detailed information on programs available to train the handicapped at little or no cost to the employer.

The topic, "Plans for Training Handicapped Workers and Disabled Veterans for Industry in the Northwest Suburban Area" will be presented by Frank Igolka, Chicago, Chief of Chicago Area Operations for the Illinois State Employment Service.

FRANK B. MORRISSY, Chicago, special administrative assistant to the director of the Illinois Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, will discuss "On the Job Training Programs for the Physically Handicapped."

In addition, all nine mayors, village presidents and managers of municipalities comprising the Northwest Municipal Council will attend the meeting.

Tickets for the luncheon are $2.25 each and may be reserved by calling the secretary to the mayor at the Des Plaines Municipal Building, 824-7366.

'Reform Spirit' Dominated Meeting of New Legislators

by EUGENE F. SCHLICKMAN
State Representative
3rd District

The spirit of reform permeated the meeting of new legislators in Monticello last week.

Brought together by the Illinois Legislative Council, they heard out-of-state legislative leaders, Governor Kerner, and Illinois legislative leaders stress the need for modernizing legislative procedures and operation.

The setting for this historic meeting of new legislators — the first of its kind in Illinois— was Allerton House, a mansion donated to the University of Illinois in 1946 and now the focal point of a secluded educational and research center.

SIXTY FRESHMAN House and Senate members came from all parts of the state to Monticello to be briefed on the "how-to-do-it" of legislating. But the highlight of the two-day session was the need for change.

To start, Speaker Jesse Unruh, of the California House of Representatives, urged the new legislators to lobby themselves for improving and updating the state legislature. He commented that the concept of the state legislative process has changed little since the days of Thomas Jefferson — a part-time, seasonal endeavor.

"No wonder," said Unruh, "that we generally have not established the confidence of the public in us."

Annual sessions, staffed committees, and secretarial assistance were cited by Unruh as indispensable conditions for modern-day legislators.

"BUT MOST OF us don't have these," said Unruh, "and we won't unless we work for them ourselves. Too many (pressure) groups and forces are against the reform of state legislatures."

Echoing Unruh's refrain were Gov. Otto Kerner and president pro tem of the Republican-controlled State Senate, W. Russell Arrington.

Said Kerner: "There is a movement in this country—in my opinion, a movement gaining strength every day—that calls for a greater show of responsibility from state legislatures . . . There is an absolute need for annual sessions of the General Assembly . . .A constitutional convention also is imperative at this time."

Arrington concurred in the governor's suggestion for annual sessions, admitting that previously he had not felt they were necessary.

ARRINGTON went farther, though, by advocating strong legislative ethics legislation, revamping of the committee structure of the legislature, and legislative initiation of state programs.

To help the new legislators meet the need of change, working sessions were held on current legislative procedures and legislative services.

Panelists included Sen. Paul Simon (D.-Troy), Rep. John C. Parkhurst (R.-Peoria), Sen. Robert Coulson (R.-Waukegan), and Rep. Anthony Scariano (D.-Park Forest).

I served as chairman of a session on "Special Problems of a Legislator," and the next day described the Legislative Council — the research agency of the legislature.

Commented one new legislator midway during the meeting: 'I don't know how a new legislator could go to Springfield without having been to a session like this."

Nedless to say, State Representative Abraham Lincoln (Whig-New Salem) and many hundreds of his successors had, but times have changed, and the spirit of reform has descended upon us.

AN INTERESTING sidelight to the conference was the attendance of aspiring candidates for Speaker of the House. In addition to Parkhurst, a minority leader of the 1965 session and member of the program, Rep. William Pollock of Chicago, and Rep. Ralph Smith of Troy attended in hopes of swaying new legislators and garnering their votes.

(The Republican members of the House meet in Springfield on Dec. 20 to vote for speaker. The Democrats are expected to elect retiring Speaker John Touhy of Chicago as the minority leader. Republican senators already have chosen Sen. Arrington as president pro tem for the 1967 session.)

Among the new legislators from the area and neighboring communities in attendance were David J. Regner, Mount Prospect; Gene Hoffman, Elmhurst; James Philip, Elmhurst; Robert Juckett, Park Ridge; and George Lindberg, Crystal Lake.

The new Illinois legislators' conference was a pilot project of the American Political Science Assn., Washington, D.C. While in Florida last summer for the Rutgers University seminar for state legislators, I interested Evron M Kirkpatrick, A.P.S.A. executive director, in cooperating with our Legislative Council in sponsoring this new members' conference.

In 1963 the association conducted a similar-type seminar for members of the U.S. Congress and recently was given a grant from the Carnegie Foundation to assist state legislatures. Illinois is the first State to benefit by it. (A15

Suggests City-Suburb Human Rights Work

The director of the Chicago Commission on Human Relations suggested Monday that suburban human relations commissions conduct employment inventories as one way of helping open up housing opportunities for minority groups in suburban areas.

Edward Marciniak made the suggestion at a conference of some 100 representatives of human relations organizations in the Chicago area. Major Chicago suburbs were represented at the conference in the Crystal Room of the Sherman House.

Pointing out that move-ins by Negroes into suburban communities previously all white have frequently followed nearby employment, Marciniak said:

"I SUGGEST employment inventories by suburban commissions to discover the policy and actual practice of merit employment by large employers, school districts, public libraries, colleges, hospitals and local governmental bodies with regard to white collar and other middle class jobs.

"In this category, I include, for example, teachers, librarians, firemen, policemen, lawyers, doctors, nurses and accountants.

"Our metropolitan-wide experience highlights the importance of such an approach and the need for such local inventories."

The meeting of suburban human relations representatives preceded the 21st annual luncheon of the Chicago Commission on Human Relations held in the Grand Ballroom of the Sherman House. Sponsored jointly by the Chicago and the Illinois Commissions on Human Relations, the conference discussed the role of government agencies in extending fair housing. Northwest Suburban communities represented at the conference included: Arlington Heights, Barrington, Bensenville, Elk Grove Village, Palatine and Wheeling. Marciniak stressed the need for the city and the suburbs working together to solve their mutual problems.

Besides the area of housing and employment, Marciniak asserted the city and the suburbs can build bridges through the teacher and student exchanges, and helping to bring about equality of medical care.

SQUARE DANCE CLUB NEWS

Dorothy Meyer CL 3-2298

HAPPY NEW YEAR

That hardy perennial — Palatine Squares' New Years Eve party — sprouted into the news this week just as we began worrying that it wouldn't come up. As always, it's a ticket dance and tickets are going fast. Also as always, tickets read, "Nine o'clock until???," indicating that there'll be no clock-watching, just dancing, a midnight supper and more dancing. And the kind of fun that makes the Palatiners' party an annual sell-out.

Wally Schultz and Bob Poyner will share the mike in Fremd High School, Quentin Road and Illinois Street, Palatine, and "entertainment by Schultz" is an underlined part of the schedule we received.

INFORMATION about ticket-getting is available via 824-1238 and at Palatine Squares' regularly scheduled dance Saturday night. Poyner will square 'em up Saturday at 8:30 in Pleasant Hill School, Illinois and Cedar Sts., Palatine, and share the evening's schedule with "the rounders," Jerry and Dot Daniels. Be there — for good dancing as well as a chance to get your guarantee for a Happy New Year.

ARLINGTON SQUARES

Tomorrow night winds up the 1966 dance year for the Arlington club, which is canceling its Christmas Dec. 23 session. Everyone's invited to swing along with Smith as the Smith named Jim squares 'em up at 8:30 in Miner Junior High School, 1101 E. Miner St., Arlington Heights. The Jerry-Dot Daniels round dance duo will conduct their usual workshop at 8 o'clock, then join the 8:30-11:30 program.

The club's much-travelled banner will be home again to conclude the old year, provided retrievers went to Broadview as per plan. They had successfully raided the Palatine Squares to bring back the club pennant, but were barely through gloating about it when the Dudes and Dolls of Broadview came a-visiting and a-stealing. Sashay on over to Miner School tomorrow night and see if the re-retrievers had any luck. Visitors are always welcome — even banner-snatchers.

CIRCLE 8's

Last dance of 1966 is also on schedule this weekend for the Circle 8 Square Dance Club of Wheaton. Caller Walt Mulqueen takes the mike at 8:30 Saturday night in Hawthorne School, Wakeman at Washington, in Wheaton. Guests are welcome. Full information about the dance and the club is available from Mrs. Richard Smith, 665-1025, or Mrs. Warren Westrup, 653-4828.

BUCKS AND DOES

One of the most Christmas-spirited holiday dances in the area is hosted by the Elk Grove club which traditionally plays Santa Claus to the children of Maryville. Again this year Bucks and Does and all their guests are asked to bring gifts to the dance Saturday evening for distribution later by B & D officers. Gifts should be prettily wrapped, of course, and marked "boy" or "girl" with the age group best suited by the gift.

Saturday's party dance will have Paul "Foggy" Thompson as the Santa Claus-caller, and Carl and Marie Peterson leading the rounds. Thompson will square 'em up at 8 o'clock in the gymnasium of Dempster Junior High School, Route 83 and Dempster Road, in Elk Grove Township. Join the good-doers — just for the fun of it. Maryville kids will be glad you did, too.

REMINDER

Area clubs, their publicity chairmen and readers are reminded that next week's column will be the last of the year; publicity chairmen are reminded that Dec. 29 is the deadline for news for the Jan. 5 issue. (A10

Newspaper Offers 'Dropout' Remedy

"Don't be a conversation dropout" is fast becoming a new legend in the suburbs where the Chicago Daily News is pushing a circulation drive, and using 81 suburban papers for its advertising campaign.

One of the leading advertising agencies, Batten Barton Durstine & Osborn, developed the red-faced subject who finds herself (or himself) without anything to say because of not reading the Daily News.

ADVERTISING focuses on the many interesting features and prize-winning columnists appearing regularly in the Daily News.

The ads tell readers how easy it is to subscribe to the Daily News, with the special prize of a copy of "The Sacred Land," 3,500 years of Holy Land history, for each two-month subscription. (A15

Rail Boon To Suburbs Pointed Out

Unification of the Chicago and North Western and the Milwaukee Road is "the single most logical move toward development of a strong rail transportation sytem that will contribute to the growth of the region they serve."

The statement by North Western Chairman Ben .W Heineman and Milwaukee Road President Curtiss E. Crippen is in a foreword to a 31-page booklet, containing an analysis of the proposed merger of the two midwestern-based railroads. Distribution of the booklet is being made to civic and business leaders in the regions served by the two railroads.

"THE NORTH Western and the Milwaukee Road are logical components of the integrated rail system," the two said.

The booklet indicates that consolidation would: create a "more vigorous and healthier" rail system from two marginal railroads and eliminate duplication of services and facilities.

"The North Western and the Milwaukee Road are now handicapped by an overcapacity of services and facilities that result in duplication and economic waste," Heineman and Crippen said. "Consolidation of the two carriers will help create a healthy rail system out of two marginal railroads."

Both the 10,246-mile North Western and the 10,512-mile Milwaukee Road have headquarters in Chicago. Each has lines in Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Upper Michigan, South Dakota and North Dakota.

The two railroads offer commuter service to the northwest suburbs over two noncompeting lines. They have indicated that service would not be altered by the proposed merger, applied for last June.

In the booklet both roads cited industries attracted to the northwest suburbs through their efforts, to show the need for healthy railroads. Specifically cited were industrial plants in Elk Grove Village and Schaumburg. (A15

High School Theatre Is Dedicated To Memory of Late Helene Bristol

Arlington High School has renamed its Little Theatre in memory of the late Helene Bristol, education editor of Paddock Publications suburban newspapers.

Mrs. Bristol died Dec. 30, 1965, after a long illness.

"She was an invaluable friend to this school district," said Bruno Waara, Arlington High School principal. "Her interest in the welfare of students and teachers and her dedication to the role of education in a free society made her much more than a reporter; she was an active force for improvement of our schools."

THE BOARD of Education of High School District 214 approved the memorial last year as part of a district policy to honor outstanding citizens.

Formal dedication of the Helene Bristol Theatre took place last month in ceremonies held on opening night of the school's fall production, "Ah, Wilderness!"

An engraved plaque erected at the theatre entrance reads: "Helene Bristol Theatre, named in memory of Helene Bristol, 1926-1965, education editor of Paddock Publications, a friend to District 214's teachers and students, and an avid patron of theatrical events at Arlington High School."

IN HIS dedication remarks, Waara said, "A quotation from Alexander Pope's poem, 'Essay on Man,' seems particularly appropriate: 'Act well thy role; there all the honor lies.'

"We are meeting tonight in a theatre which Mrs. Bristol frequented often, and, while we naturally associate roles and acting with the stage, I'm sure you realize that the poet had much more in mind. We are saluting a person who acted well her role and richly deserves the honor we are according her.

"For the young people here, it should be significant that one's contributions do not always depend upon the role one plays; it is the excellence of the performance that counts. You need not grow up to be President or a national sports hero or a movie star. Each community depends upon its Helene Bristols, its 'bit players.'

"There can be no higher honor than the recognition that you performed well your role. And no applause is as warm as that which follows the final curtain," said Waara.

THE LATE editor has also been honored with establishment of the permanent Helene Bristol Memorial Scholarship Program, which provides financial assistance to worthy college students.

Mrs. Bristol is survived by her husband, Robert, and son, Robert Jr., of 4105 Jay Lane, Rolling Meadows. (B10

LITTLE THEATRE at Arlington High School was recently renamed and dedicated in memory of the late Helene Bristol, education editor for Paddock Publications suburban newspapers. Admiring engraved plaque mounted at entrance to Helene Bristol Theatre are Bruno Waara, principal of Arlington High School; Lyovonne M. Trad, director of speech activities; and Douglas K. Murphy, director of the fall play production inaugurating the new theatre name. (Staff photo)

U. S. Gypsum Employes First With a Harper Scholarship

William Rainey Harper Junior College has received its first scholarship from the employes of a local business firm.

Dr. James Harvey, dean of students, announced Wednesday that employes of U. S. Gypsum Research Center, Des Plaines, have contributed over $400 to create the first scholarship fund for Harper College students needing financial aid.

Named the "U. S. Gypsum Research Center Employes Scholarship," the grant will be made each fall to students who show need and who have graduated in the upper half of their high school classes.

THE INITIAL grant is expected to cover annual tuition and fees for one or two students enrolling next fall, but it will vary somewhat from year to year.

Each scholarship will be worth approximately $300. Heading the fund drive at the research center are John Crumbaugh, Henry Bolinski, Donald Lovse, and Kenneth Larson.

According to Dr. Harvey, "The U. S. Gypsum Research Scholarship marks the beginning of what we hope will be a broad program of student financial aid. We are looking to area industry and business to play a major role in this program by establishing scholarships for deserving students."

Dean Harvey noted the employes at the U. S. Gypsum Research Center, the research arm of Gypsum Company, have a habit of helping people in need. Last year, money normally spent by employes to send Christmas cards to each other was rushed to New Orleans to assist U. S. Gypsum families made homeless by a hurricane.

He said that the establishing of scholarships by local business groups will help assure that no student in the area will have to forego or delay college because of a lack of money.

"OTHER FIRMS and individuals are encouraged to follow the fine example set by U. S. Gypsum Research employes," Dr. Harvey added. Scholarship applications will be considered and awards made by the Harper College Scholarship Committee.

Harper, a two-year community college, will begin classes next fall using temporary space at Elk Grove High School. The college's own campus, being planned for a 200-acre tract in Palatine Township, is expected to be ready for classes the fall of 1968. (B10

Federation Opposes More County Police

The Civic Federation has again recommended that the Cook County sheriff's police not be substantially increased in size.

The recommendation was made last week to the Circuit Court Committee on Help which reviews manpower needs of various county offices.

Last year, when a similar recommendation was made, Sheriff Richard B. Ogilvie indicated dissatisfaction.

Both sheriff candidates in the Nov. 8 election, Joseph I. Woods and Minor K. Wilson, both expressed a desire to increase the size of the sheriff's police force.

PRESENTLY, the sheriff's police has around 150 members. Because of the lack of manpower, patrols are few and far between in the unincorporated areas.

In the northwest suburbs, normally only one patrol car handles the area with a "swing" patrol available in emergency.

Now, as last year, the Civic Federation said areas of sufficient development should incorporate to provide their own protection and services.

"We have said," the Federation said in a letter to the Circuit Court committee, "that efforts should be made to augment the sheriff's coverage of unincorporated areas with state police and that school crossing guards in such areas should be locally rather than county financed."

The suggestion of using more extensively state police has not worked out very well. Experience has shown that the state is often as hard pressed and calls on the county or the municipal police for help.

THE CIVIC Federation states this fear regarding expanded sheriff's police:

"If it were determined that the county should considerably expand its police activities in unincorporated areas, the result well might be demands at county expense for extension of many other public services including health, fire protection and sanitation."

Newly-elected Sheriff Woods, like Ogilvie, is expected to support a manpower increase. The county board presently has for review the 1967 budget. (B10

Free Movie Boon To Shopping Moms

By MAGGIE IRWIN

Your children are invited to see a movie "Misty" free of charge at the Randhurst Cinema on Saturday, Dec. 17. The first show is at 9 a.m. and the second at 11 a.m. Tickets may be picked up in any of the Randhurst stores. While your children are enjoying the movie, you can do your Christmas shopping in comfort.

Our shoe stores are featuring what I think is a sensible item for our men — all weather boots. They are wearable, warm, attractive and what an improvement over galoshes. They come in various styles, high or low, pull on or tie, brushed suede or leather. I think any man would be pleased to receive a pair.

Something else that will keep the man in your life warm, is a pair of fleece-lined gloves. A handsome tie and matching handkerchief is always a welcome gift; personalized tie clasps, cuff links and belt buckles are really special; and an elegant item is a cashmere lined pure silk scarf. We hope these suggestions will help you with your Christmas shopping.

AS A CHANGE of pace from shopping, take some time out and watch the little children standing in line waiting their turn to talk to Santa. It is a rewarding experience.

Starting this evening, and for the next couple weeks, the Randhurst Mall will ring with the sound of Christmas carols. The Jewel on Dec. 15. The St. Andrews Presbyterian Church Choir will perform from 6:30 to 7 p.m. on Dec. 16. Chorus of 35 men will sing from 6:30 to 7 p.m. Our Saviour's Lutheran Church Children's Choir will perform from 9:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Dec. 19.

The Palatine High School Chorus will sing Dec. 20; on Dec. 21 from 9:30 to 10 p.m. 24 carolers from Our Saviour Lutheran Church will perform, and on Dec. 22 Mormon Carolers will sing from 6:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. and from 9:30 to 10 p.m.

All these performances will take place in front of the Wieboldt Fountain. We hope you will find time to be here on the Randhurst Mall and enjoy these beautiful Christmas Carols.

Teachers to Consider Board's Pay Proposal

Teachers will consider a salary counter-proposal given the District 214 Teacher Assn. Monday by the school board.

The salary proposal, to be considered by the teachers Assn. salary committee and at building meetings, calls for the following:

—Increasing the starting salary for a beginning teacher next year to $5,900.

—Making the top classroom teachers' salary twice the starting beginners' salary, but providing 20 years to reach the top.

—Elimination of the teachers' $50 professional expenses allowance and planning a slow increase in the student-staff ratio.

THE BOARD'S proposed salary increase will cost taxpayers an additional $200,000 next year, compared to a $230,000 increase called for in the salary schedule proposed by the Teachers Assn.

The IEA local's views on the counter-proposal will be given the board at a meeting Tuesday, Dec. 20, at 7:30 p.m. in Slichenmyer Administration Center.

Teachers Assn. salary committee, headed by Norman Patberg of Arlington High, had asked a salary schedule starting at $5,900 but taking 15 years—not 20—to double. The teachers' request, made last spring, had been recommended for approval by both Supt. Edward H. Gilbert and retired Supt. Harold L. Slichenmyer.

ARTHUR ARONSON, chairman of the board's salary committee, told teachers at Monday's meeting that the district's counter offer was made after the school board projected its salary costs over the next five years.

To grant the teachers' 15-year salary schedule request — and keep other educational fund expenditures at the current level—would give the school board a $4 million education fund deficit by 1971-72, the board discovered.

It would also have made it necessary to use up the authorized $1.38 educational tax rate sooner than the board would like, Aronson added.

HE SAID THE school board, in asking the educational tax rate level be increased from $1.17 to $1.38 by referendum two years ago, had promised citizens they would spread use of the increase over the next seven years.

The board considered ways to trim costs at a series of meetings preceeding the one Monday.

It found, said Gilbert, that the biggest dent in expenditures could be made by raising the staff-student ratio—a ratio that currently is 18.2 students (including all certificated personnel) per staff member.

RAISING THE student-staff ratio gradually to 20.2 would save the district $2 million over the next five years, Dr. Gilbert estimated.

The disadvantage of such a change was pointed up Monday by Forest View Principal Lawrence Jenness, who said his school had had a student-staff ratio of 20.2 two years ago and that teaching had suffered as a result. (ACME

Board to Consider School Boundaries

High school attendance boundaries for next year and 1968-69, the year that Hersey High School opens, will be displayed at next Monday's school board meeting.

Major changes from present attendance boundaries are expected to be recommended for 1968-69, when Hersey School—with its contract yet to be let—will first start drawing students.

Ways of accommodating student overcrowding during 1967-68 will be discussed at the 7:30 p.m. meeting in Slichenmyer Administration Center, Dr. Edward H. Gilbert says.

Projections of student population for next year—using present boundaries—show a probable 2,000 to 2,100 students at Elk Grove High School, 2,000 at Forest View, 2,300 at Prospect, 2,500 at Arlington and 3,200 at Wheeling High.

Those estimates give Arlington 500 more students than its optimum 2,000 capacity—and put Wheeling in a much more crowded state. The three-year-old Wheeling High School, planned for 2,500, has 2,700 students this year.

BUSING OF some classes to less crowded schools than Arlington and Wheeling are among possibilities being weighed this week by the school administration. District 214 did this with freshmen in the Forest View attendance area the year before Forest View opened.

Opening of Hersey will ease overcrowding at both Wheeling and Arlington, school officials say.

The student body for Hersey, to go up on Thomas a quarter-mile east of Rand Road, is expected to come from Prospect Heights and the north Arlington Heights area. It may be assigned some students from southern areas of Arlington Heights as well.

Suggestions for remodeling Arlington High School—adding physical education areas and making the building arrangement more comparable to that in other district schools—will be given the board by Kenneth Unteed of architects Berger Kelley Unteed and Asosciates.

Dr. Gilbert said the board will, however, be given no recommendation at Monday's meeting regarding when and how remodeling at Arlington High School should be done.

The superintendent also will ask board approval of financing arrangements for the two police counselors furnished by the Village of Arlington Heights police department. School-year salaries of both men will be paid by the school district. (ACME

Sidelights moms and dads are braving the throngs by the scores -- to what purpose? The end of their struggles is to assure that the youngsters in their lives will be happy with what Santa Claus brings to their homes on the 25th. The thousands of shoppers populating the local shopping centers last weekend is ample evidence that most local residents were forestalling social activities in favor of Christmas shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Glorch, 615 S. Beverly, returned Friday from a week-long stay in New York. They took advantage of Mr. Glorch's business trip by staying and visiting at the home of Mrs. Glorch's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Loppacker in New Jersey, and her sister in Long Island.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ptak and their daughter, Linda, 1104 W. Sigwalt, spent Thanksgiving week at Beauridge Lodge in Balharbor, Fla. One of the highlights of their stay was the fact that Vice President Hubert Humphrey was staying at the Americana directly across from where they were staying. As a result, Mr. Peak got to see the Vice President.

The Peaks flew both ways and arrived home the last Saturday of November.

MR. AND MRS. Neal Hawkins have just returned from a short weekend trip to Dubuque to visit their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Glenn. Main reason for the trip was relaxation.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Coliani were also away for the weekend. They went to visit Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Reinders in Lanark- and the James Daltons of 522 S. Dunton were in DeKalb to see their daughter and family, the Donald Smiths.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Muran had lots of company this week. They entertained Sister Mary Lucy from Milwaukee, the Rev. Mr. Jerome Herff of Lemont and their son, Don, who was home from Western University in Kalamazoo.

MRS. JOSEPH Ostermann is very pleased about an early Christmas present from her son, Tom, who is in the service and stationed in Shulai. He just sent his mother a miniature portable television set.

Ruth and Earl Riley had a big holiday weekend. They had a family party with their son, Richard, his wife, Dorrie, and their children, Bobbie and Lorna Jean; their daughter and her husband, Joy and Len Birck with their son, Danny, and Earl's mother, Mrs. Irene Riley. After the party, Earl and Ruth went to LacLabelle in Oconomowoc, Wis., to recuperate.

Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas had guests this weekend, too. Their son, Jim, was in from Lansing, where he is a sophomore at Michigan State. They also enjoyed a visit from their son, Bill, his wife, Mary, and their new son, Shannon William.

Mr. and Mrs. Rick Robbins went to Annapolis recently, where their son, John, is in his third year. The parents went to see their first Army-Navy football game. (A

(STANDARD EQUIPMENT on SYLVANIA Color TV and Stereo)

Owners of Sylvania naturally get a bit aloof and uppity just to be in the possession of anything so beautiful. You just can't help it! Once you touch the knob of a Sylvania Color TV or Stereo you feel it's superior to anybody else's. Such elegance in furniture design, the unsurpassed stereo sound, the superb performance. If you love the nice things—sterling silver, Lincoln Continentals and Dior creations—you're the Sylvania type.

Surprisingly enough, Sylvania only looks expensive and acts expensive. There is a set in the price range for everyone. Prices start at $389.95 for color (immediate delivery), $119 for a very superior black and white 19", and incomparable stereo portables from $99.50, consoles from $199.95.

We're a little snobbish about our services also. We treat people like people—not numbers. We feel our service, selection, and ethical way of doing business is just a little bit better than anyone else's too.

Dahl Lists Weaknesses

Suburban Branches Opposed By Juvenile Court Judge

SOUNDING OFF on the problems of juvenile delinquency, Judge Walter Dahl listed his reasons for opposing decentralization of the county's juvenile court. Listening to the jurist are (l) Community Council President L. Q. Yowell and Vice President and Program Chairman Dick Cowan (r).

(B-10

Juvenile Court Judge Walter Dahl, 16 N. Windsor Drive, Arlington Heights, told a meeting of the Community Council Thursday night that he opposed the establishment of branches of the court in suburban areas.

Judge Dahl aaid he did favor the establishment of one branch court on the north side of Chicago and one on the south side, but opposed a generalized decentralization for the following reasons.

—The numerous decentralized courts would be too convenient for the communities in which they were located and there would be a much greater tendency to send problem children to the courts. This practice, maintained the judge, would result in too many children having police records. Judge Dahl added that if the case isn't important enough to be brought to the attention of the authorities downtown, then it is simply not important.

—The judge feared that the community location of the court would result in too many people in the locale knowing just who had been there, with a stigma being attached to the children involved.

—The suburbs do not have adequate social service and other types of agencies to deal with the needs of the juvenile offender, said the judge. "And if you do have them, you don't need a court," he added.

—Finally, the judge said that most suburban towns simply do not have the court facilities needed for the conduct of a juvenile court. He pointed out that the Chicago offices of the Court operate 24 hours a day on a seven-day-a-week basis. Decentralization would also pose serious manpower problems, he said.

JUDGE DAHL also gave a brief outline of the limitations of the juvenile court. Too many people, he said, look on the juvenile court as the answer to all the problems of the juvenile officer.

The court, said Dahl, cannot solve all the problems of delinquency in a community. The very existence of delinquency points to a breakdown in the proper functioning of a community, he said.

"We don't rehabilitate many children," the judge noted unhappily, "We get them at a point where rehabilitation is difficult."

Dahl said that a high referral rate to the court generally indicates a serious problem in the adult community.

"THE PROBLEM IS: What facilities exist in the communities to deal with the child," said the judge. "There are teachers in Arlington Heights who can tell you 'There is a pre-delinquent child' as early as the second or third grade. What do you do with them?"

There must be facilities in the communities to deal with these children, said the judge.

"We have people at the Chicago court—psychiatrists and social workers—to tell us what the kid needs, but we don't have the facilities to deal with the problem," said Dahl.

The community, he said, must solve the problem. He said that he did not know what made a child in Arlington Heights go wrong, but suggested that the community meet the problem on a truly individual basis to find out just what made the child behave in an undesirable manner.

IN CLOSING, the judge listed the shortage of special facilities needed to deal with either juvenile delinquents or neglected and abandoned children.

Cook County has only one detention facility for juveniles—the Audy Home—which is currently operating at something like 80 children over its 350-bed capacity, said Dahl.

There is no public provision whatever for abandoned children under the age of three, said Dahl, noting that a private Catholic orphanage, St. Vincent's, is currently trying to carry the load for the county.

Even the State of Illinois, charged Dahl, offers inadequate provisions for the juvenile, with only 2,500 beds for all offenders in the state.

"We send in a load of kids, and another load has to be taken out," said Dahl.

There are facilities for the good kids with no problems," said the judge wryly, "But we don't get many kids with no problems."

Suburban Teacher Board Candidate

The northwest suburban division of the Illinois Education Association plans to nominate Arlington Heights elementary teacher Everett Charlier for a seat on the Illinois Teachers' Retirement System board.

Endorsement of his candidacy, already approved by the executive board, will be sought at the division's representative assembly meeting next Thursday.

The meeting will take place at 4 p.m. in Thomas Junior High School, Arlington Heights.

CHARLIER, A mathematics and industrial arts teacher at South Junior High School, has been with elementary District 25 since 1958.

Active in IEA work, he is a resident of 26 S. Greenwood, Palatine. He served on the division's membership committee during 1965-66.

Charlier will seek the retirement system board seat customarily held by a classroom teacher.

The northwest suburban division will place his name in nomination at the IEA state convention Dec. 26-28 in Chicago.

Voting will take place late next spring. At that time a mail ballot will be sent to every Illinois teacher—not just IEA members.

Schedule Clergy Institute Jan. 4

Clergymen and psychiatrists will convene at Forest Hospital in Des Plaines for the fourth annual Clergymen's Institute sponsored by the Forest Hospital Foundation Jan. 4. The theme for this year's meeting is "Growth Through Grief."

Serving as co-chairmen for the institute are Rabbi Lawrence Charney, Northwest Suburban Jewish Congregation, Morton Grove; Rev. Andrew McDonagh, dean of the psychology department, St. Mary of the Lake Seminary in Niles; and Rev. R. K. Wobbe, Christ Evangelical and Reformed Church, Des Plaines.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Dover Roth, chairman of the social leadership committee of Forest Hospital, this institute will point out that grief, through loss of whatever nature, is an inevitability of human existence.

"Whether through death, divorce or other separation, personal loss may well change the course of life," Dr. Roth said.

"On January 4 we shall examine ways in which psychiatrists and clergymen can help an individual of any age through the crisis of loss, so that he can become a more emotionally mature person as a consequence of the grief experience."

In addition to speeches, six workshop sessions are planned between clergymen and psychiatrists.

One hundred and fifty clergymen are expected to attend the Clergymen's Institute. (B10

SHEPARD: FIRST IN SPACE
GLENN: FIRST IN ORBIT

On May 5, 1961, a Navy commander took a 15-minute ride. But it was no ordinary ride.

For on that date, Comdr. Alan Shepard became the first American in space when he made a sub-orbital flight.

Just as we'll always remember Shepard as the first American in space, we'll remember Marine Lt. Col. John Glenn as the first American in orbit: he established that milestone when he circled the earth three times Feb. 20, 1962.

What the future in this Age of Space holds, no one knows.

But we do know this: Here on earth, no country has created a better form of government than ours; none has created a better system than our free enterprise; there is no finer nation than the U.S.

Therefore, we look to the future with hope, faith and confidence.

The entire frontage being benefited consisting of 4,730 feet.

WHEREAS, the said WEBER MARKING SYSTEMS, INCORPORATED, was given permission to construct said improvement by private contract with the understanding that an ordinance be passed by the Village of Arlington Heights, after completion of said improvement, requiring that the owners of any property benefiting therefrom desiring to make use thereof, pay the proportionate share of the cost of said improvement, to be used in reimbursement of the said WEBER MARKING SYSTEMS, INCORPORATED, its successors or assigns for the proportionate cost of the construction therefor; and

WHEREAS, the parties recognize and acknowledge that said sanitary sewer and water main is the property of the Village of Arlington Heights;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT ORDAINED BY THE PRESIDENT AND BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE VILLAGE OF ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, ILLINOIS.

SECTION ONE: That the cost of connecting to these improvements be determined on an acreage basis for a sanitary sewer, total acreage being 47.17 acres and on a front foot basis for water main, the total frontage being 4,730 feet, based on the foregoing legal description of $262.23 per acre for direct sanitary sewer benefit (parcels owned by H. INEXPENSIVE WANT ADS HAVE A WAY OF WORKING FOR EVERYONE

Police Counseling Is 'Too Good to Be True'

by NANCY BENCO
Staff Writer

Police counseling, a trend which is revolutionizing school security in the northwest suburbs, is being hailed as "too good to be true."

Area school officials and policemen recently indicated surprised satisfaction with the work of Elk Grove High police counselor Jose Gonzales Jr.

High School District 214 hired Gonzales in September for the position of school security officer. In November, two Arlington Heights policemen were assigned similar jobs at Arlington High and Forest View High schools.

Explaining the job as it had evolved at Elk Grove, principal Donald Thomas said, "Primarily, the police counselor is an extension of two school functions—accountability and counseling."

In the accountability department, Gonzales checks up on school and detention truants. Gonzales says that out of 30 truants, about 25 are legitimately absent. The other five have skipped class.

THE POLICE counselor refers the "problem" student to the assistant principal for disciplinary action; he does not hand out punishments himself, Thomas said.

Thomas added that a large part of the work involves counseling, because "the counseling department is not oriented to matters of discipline."

He explained that counselors work primarily with students with academic problems. The security officer works with students during the critical time when discipline is being administered, he added.

Police counseling work involves fact finding, explaining to students the consequences of certain behavior, and investigation.

Police counselors also are in charge of traffic security in school parking lots, building security, and safety procedures.

LAWRENCE JENNESS, Forest View principal, indicated that police counselor Paul Buckholz had made an impact during his first three weeks on the job.

"Students have sought him out to discuss their problems," Jenness said. He pointed out a case in which a former Forest View student came in on his own for counseling assistance.

Jenness views the security officer as "a person available to students, teachers, and administrators, in the solution of problems which affect the operation of the building."

The problems he cited include theft, security, serious behavioral problems, absenteeism, and truancy.

"Anything," Jenness said, "which acts as a detriment to the establishment of a good atmosphere of learning."

ARLINGTON HIGH's principal, Bruno Waara, said, "We are pleased with the services police counselor Gerald C. Stille is performing."

Waara explained that Stille's duties have not been specifically outlined—allowing room for flexibility.

District 214 began the police counselor program after carefully reviewing Flint, Michigan's model police-school program. District 214's project differs—one police officer is assigned to one school. In Flint, an officer handles eight to 10 schools, on both the elementary, junior high and high school levels.

THE IDEA OF a security officer for the high schools originated as an attempt to curb the mounting tide of juvenile delinquency and school vandalism in the area.

District 214 police counselors are directly responsible to the school principal.

School administrators plan a detailed evaluation of the system within the next few months.

Nursery School Teachers Meet

The first official meeting of the Fox Valley Regional Group of Nursery School Teachers was held at the Grove School in Barrington.

Mrs. Lois Nelson, Arlington Heights Village Nursery School, discussed the unscheduled conference method for encouraging a more casual relationship between parent-teacher and child.

Mount Prospect Heights Nursery School director, Mrs. Helen Knecktal, spoke of the advantages of early conferencing and early contacts with the home-parent relationship. The next meeting will be held in April. Programs are co-sponsored by the Teacher's Group and the Fox Valley Mental Health Center in Elgin.

'Detecting Deeper Problems'

Policeman in the School: How He Views His Task

Jose Gonzales Jr., talks with students in his modest, white-walled office overlooking Elk Grove High School's courtyard. Or he may chat with them in the hall between classes or stop them outside in the parking lot.

Gonzales, District 214's first police counselor, works at getting "rapport" with the kids and succeeds.

"You've got to cultivate confidence," the plainclothes policeman said. "Kids are very sensitive to things and they know when they've done wrong."

THE YOUTHFUL police counselor takes his job seriously. "I'm on the front line to detect deeper problems," he said in summing up his job.

If he pinpoints these "deeper" problems during a conference with a student, he refers them—after consulting on the problem—to the assistant principal for disciplinary action, or to a psychologist for testing.

His work revolves mainly around a small, hard core of potential juvenile delinquents. Gonzales put this group at about 100 students in the total Elk Grove High enrollment of 1,400.

He designated this group as the repeaters — those who bear the most watching and attention.

THE "TROUBLE" kids come to him in several ways, some as a result of failing to report during detention periods, while others skip classes or a day of school. In addition, classroom teachers may refer students.

DURING A conference, Gonzales tries to learn the student's background — his home life, his school work, or his juvenile record. Everything they tell him Gonzales stressed, remains confidential.

Gonzales then phones the parents, both to explain what has happened in school as well as to gain more background information.

"In many cases if I find he has a juvenile record, I use the central files in Rolling Meadows," Gonzales added.

The next step is a referral to the assistant principal. "I tell him what the problem is and what my investigation has disclosed," he said. From there, the school official takes over and administers the proper disciplinary action.

GONZALES emphasized there are always two sides to an incident. "If someone slugs another person in the hall, there is a reason for it he maintained. Kids know when you're unfair to their side."

The police counselor added that he tells a student to come and talk with him in the future if he feels like slugging someone else.

He considers his work as primarily police work — stopping crime at the roots.

Though he doesn't wear a police uniform, he carries a gun with him while on duty.

IN ADDITION to his work with chronic truants and absentees, Gonzales patrols the parking lots three times a day.

He pointed out that this curbs students from smoking and also helps prevent "outsiders" from coming onto the Elk rove campus.

Gonzales is a veteran in his work with young people. He was raised "next to the Hull House" in Chicago, where he later worked as a social club leader and camp counselor.

Gonzales was on the Elk Grove Village police force before being assigned to the high school as a police counselor.

Bucky's Dad Was On NIT Champ...

It was a night to remember for Bucky Jones.

The bespectacled Forest View senior canned 19 points, including 11 straight free throws, to help engineer the Falcons to a thrilling one-point victory over Wheeling last Friday evening.

And it was a night to remember for Roy Jones, Bucky's proud father.

Just watching his son perform and following basketball must certainly bring back some fond memories for the elder Jones.

Roy has also had his share of success in basketball, both as a prep and in college.

Back in 1942 Roy Jones was a six-foot guard on a West Virginia University team that nipped Western Kentucky by two points in Madison Square Garden for the championship of the National Invitational Tournament.

"Two free throws in the last few seconds gave us the title," the elder Jones recalls. "They were big and we beat them by slowing things down."

It's interesting that only a last minute decision by one school to by-pass the NIT i favor of the NCAA tourney even gave West Virginia a chance to play in that 1942 headliner.

"We weren't even invited at first," Jones points out. "It was an eight-team tourney, and the story went around that the Kentucky coach on the NIT committee was the one who got us the invitation.

"We were seeded eighth in an eight-team field and Western Kentucky was seeded seventh, and we ended up playing for the championship."

Jones was only a freshman on that West Virginia team as most of the older boys were serving in the military service, allowing the plebes to play on a varsity level.

"I went into the service after my first year in college," Jones continued, "and then came back to finish out at West Virginia. We went back to the NIT every year although we didn't win it again."

Success began early for Roy Jones. He played on a high school team in Charleston, W. Va., that took two state championships.

Forest View's Bucky Jones should have many more big nights before he concludes his prep competition, but he would be the first to admit that he'll have to go some to top his father's memorable and successful cage career.

And Bucky's second cousin wasn't a bad basketball player either.

He was Wallace "Wah Wah" Jones, a member of Adolph Rupp's "Fabulous Five" (Alex Groza, Ralph Beard and company) and a Kentucky All-American in 1949.

Prospect High grad Dave White, a three-year varsity performer in basketball for Dick Kinneman, started at guard in the University of Iowa's first two games this winter, hitting nine points in a 66-50 victory over the University of Washington. Dave will be in the Chicago area on two occasions this winter — on Jan. 21 when Iowa plays at Northwestern and on Feb. 4 when the Hawkeyes meet Loyola in the Chicago Stadium.

Springfield Ace Also Returns . . .

Advance publicity from Pontiac for the 36th renewal of the Pontiac Holiday Basketball Tournament emphasizes the individual duel expected between Prospect's Tom Lundstedt and Springfield's Dave Robisch.

Lundstedt, a 6-4 senior, broke the four-game scoring record last year with 113 points in leading Dick Kinneman's Knights to the tourney championship.

That brilliant tourney performance shoved Tom into state-wide prominence, and he didn't disappoint the rest of the way.

Springfield's Robisch, a 6-9 center, also earned all-tourney honors with Lundstedt, and he'll be back this year at Pontiac.

When Prospect clipped Springfield for the tourney title, 61-58, Lundstedt scored 31 points and Robisch hit 19.

We've noted in downstate reports this season that some coaches are rating Robisch "the best big man ever to play in Illinois."

But Champaign's veteran coach Lee Cabutti isn't convinced. After Springfield whipped Champaign last week, 55-50, Lee was very direct in his comments on Robisch.

"I didn't see a thing he did against us, outside of being 6-9," Cabutti offered.

An impressive showing by Lundstedt or Robisch or both at Pontiac could be a determining factor in their bids for All-State recognition.

Pontiac has lined up another formidable field for its holiday meet.

In addition to Prospect and Springfield, other schools in the double elimination affair will be powerful Waukegan, Lincolnway, Taylorville, University High of Normal, Granite City, Lockport Central, Rock Island Alleman, Peoria Richwoods, Streator, Chicago Heights Bloom, LaSalle-Peru, Sterling, Shelbyville, and host Pontiac.

Paddock's sports telephone service (392-2100 for basketball scores) has become so popular we understand from some fathers that they call long distance (area code 312) when they're out of town and unable to see their sons play.

Area Products Aid Northern . . .

Northern Illinois University can be thankful the Paddock area sends such a steady stream of athletes that way.

Some of the greatest names in Northern Illinois sports history — like George Bork and Fritz Peterson and Al Eck — have been products of area high schools.

The past football season was no exception.

For the first time since 1958 a defensive player was named most valuable player for the huskies. Arlington grad Danny Meyer, a defensive halfback, landed the award as he completed a sparkling career with 16 career interceptions, a school mark. Dan was also honorary co-captain.

Ex-Forest View passing star Mike Griesman engineered the wide-open Northern Illinois offense and passed for 1899 yards and 18 touchdowns. He also picked up 99 yards rushing to rank ninth in the nation in total offense among small-college players. He was 12th nationally in passing.

Palatine High's contribution to the Huskie varsity was rugged end Jack Frost, and Jack was the squad's top pass receiver with 48 for 796 yards and eight touchdowns.

Wheeling High grad Jim Whittington, an all-conference tackle in 1965 in Mid-Suburban play, worked his way up to a second team berth on the Luther (Iowa) College varsity football team in his frosh year. Jim played guard for the Norsemen who finished with a 6-1 varsity record and second place in the conference.

Ten Years Ago This Week . . .

Hinsdale shaded Arlington in varsity basketball, 57-55. . . Rugged Jack Weber made his first appearance at guard for the Cardinals . . . Ralph Carlino pinned his man in 45 seconds at 112 pounds to highlight the Cards' 22-17 varsity wrestling victory over Maine.

Cards Meet Wheeling

by BOB FRISK

When Mike Owens was a basketball star at Bradley University, he made up for his lack of size with speed and hustle.

He was an aggressive performer, someone who inspired his teammates with his dash and drive, that extra effort.

Owens' performance as a player is reflected in his coaching, and he'll bring a small and scrappy Wheeling High School team into the Arlington gymnasium Friday evening for a key Mid-Suburban League battle with the unbeaten Cardinals.

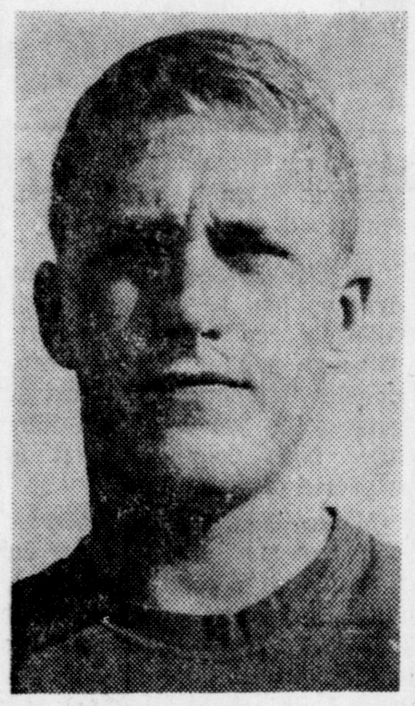
What the Wildcats yield in height, they regain in aggressiveness and evenly-divided outside scoring strength.

THE CARDS will be favored Friday, but Wheeling is capable of a surprise and Owens admits that. This one could be interesting.

"They (Arlington) can be beaten," he says, "but it will take a good team and a fine effort to do it. Everything will have to be working.

"Arlington has a great individual performer in Allen (Steve) and you compound the threat with a player like Lockwood (Dave) in the lineup.

"And they have others who can hurt you. You can't put pressure on any one side because the rest of the lineup is potentially just as dangerous."



DAN DEVITO
Top Reserve

OWENS WOULD welcome the return of what size he has, 6-3 center Phil Smith, but Phil has been sidelined with a dislocated finger and may not be ready by Friday evening.

Without Smith, Greg Fedyski is the tallest Wildcat starter at 6-1.

Fedyski, Rex Peterson, and Jeff Winterburg and Scott Bischoff, although only six feet tall, is solid and steady under the basket.

THE MOST EXCITING Wheeling performers are the Bastable brothers, Tom and Jack, both effective underneath despite their size and both possessed with good speed.

Tom owns a 15.3 per game scoring average and pulls in better than ten rebounds each outing. Sophomore Jack poured in 13 in about one half last Saturday against Deerfield.

However, Jack is a questionmark for Friday. He's been bothered lately by an injury suffered during the football season.

Another comer is Dan Devito who hasn't shown much scoring yet but fits in nicely with the Wildcat running game.

THE 'CATS will need a superb effort if they hope to surprise Arlington. The Cardinals have size and experience, and they've shown some sharp work in recent outings.

JIM GRACEN
Helping Out

"I was real pleased with their play against Conant," Arlington head man Ted Wissen said. "Sometimes in a game like that, the play tends to be a little ragged, but I felt our boys were smooth overall."

Conant's Chic Anderson praised Arlington, admitting "we were just thoroughly beaten by a better club."

"WE JUST couldn't handle their press," he continued. "We did most of what we wanted to do on defense except stop Allen. A player like that can make right a lot of things that may go wrong for a team.

"And you could read confidence all over their faces."

Allen threw in 31 points in the victory to equal his career high, and the 6-3 marksman now has 97 points and a 24.3 per game average as he threatens to rewrite the school record book.

TERRY TOWNLEY and Dave Lockwood are next in line in Cardinal scoring and both are averaging in double figures. Forward Steve Conley is a shade under at 8.8, and the two centers 6-6 Jim Donchess and 6-7 Jim Gracen, have been worth 50 points in the four outings.

Gracen helped out against Conant in an extended relief chore when Donchess was saddled with three quick fouls. The big transfer flipped in nine points for his best outing of the young season and also helped out in the rebounding department.

The Cardinals will be idle Saturday evening, but Wheeling has a non-conference engagement scheduled with Senn of Chicago.

Tom Lundstedt Nears Career Scoring Mark

by KEITH REINHARD

Agile Tom Lundstedt, whose excellent but subtle work under the hoops draws less attention than his reputation, will have all eyes focused upon him nevertheless this Friday as he shoots for more than just a Prospect victory over Deerfield.

The magic number is a flat 800—21 more in the point category than Lundstedt has registered over an amazing three-season career on the Knight varsity squad.

If he reaches it against the Warriors—and projecting his 20-point game average of this season by one game he easily could—the talented veteran will add perhaps the most significant record of all to a long list of basketball honors.

A career total of 800 would surpass the 799 mark by George Pomey which ranks to date as the best ever produced in a Prospect uniform.

POMEY, WHO WENT on to all-state recognition and is now an assistant coach at the University of Michigan after a successful playing stint there, compiled his total during the 59-60 and 60-61 seasons at Prospect.

Lions Travel Saturday To Meet Rugged Hawks

by Bob Frisk

The challenge is there. You open your conference season against a perennial basketball power and twenty-four hours later you're asked to tangle with a touted non-league opponent.

There's nothing easy about St. Viator High School's first weekend doubleheader of the 1966-67 campaign.

The varsity Lions, a convincing victor over Palatine last Saturday evening, get their Chicagoland Prep League season under way tomorrow (Friday) with a home contest against St. Patrick.

Coach Larry Nomellini's crew will travel to Maine South Saturday for a non-league engagement with a Hawk five that already owns an impressive conquest of Prospect.

"THIS WEEKEND should tell us a lot," Nomellini admits. "I was real pleased with the boys' over-all performance against Palatine, and I can only hope they keep going."

The Lions were impressive in that rout of Palatine. They flashed excellent shooting and rebounding and an effective, swarming defense.

"On that particular night," Palatine coach Norm Jones told Paddock Publications this week, "St. Viator was as fine a team as I've ever coached against."

Jones came to Palatine this year from Salem, Ind.

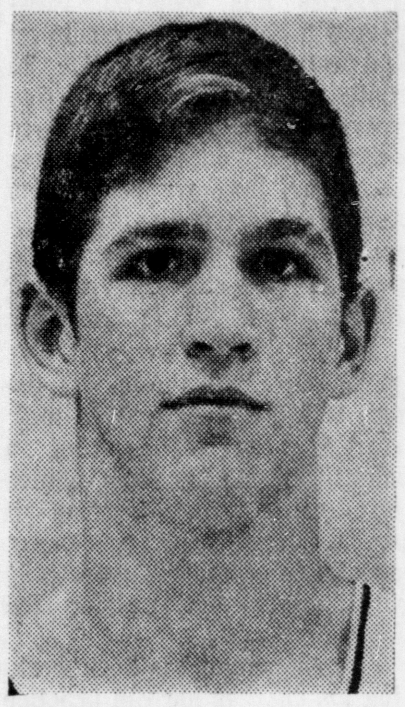
THE PIRATE mentor also had high words of praise for St. Viator's standout senior guard Frank Hogan who tossed in 26 points and turned in another sparkling all-round performance.

"Hogan was the best high school guard I've seen in many years," Jones enthused.

Hogan looms as a key performer as St. Viator wades into another demanding schedule, and he'll be a marked man this weekend as both St. Patrick and Maine South are well aware of his talents.

BUT FRANK wasn't the whole show against Palatine. Dan Collins, 6-1 senior forward, cashed in with 18 points, hitting seven of 13 shots, and this steady veteran now has 18.0 per game average and amazing .629 shooting percentage from the floor.



FRANK HOGAN
Earns Praise

"Dan's just doing a great job," Nomellini praised. "I couldn't ask for anything more from him."

There were some other bright spots in the Lions' second victory, including the slick defensive work of senior guard Tom Epperly and improving play of center Bill Yaeger.

"Bill's looking a little better all the time," Nomellini said. "He just needs more game experience as do Halsted (Mike) and Polich (Greg) at the one forward position."

ALTHOUGH A meeting with St. Patrick is always a demanding assignment, there's something to be said for catching the Shamrocks early this season.

St. Pat's lost some good boys by graduation, and head man Max Kurland has been utilizing several alignments in an effort to come up with another successful combination.

But don't shed any tears for the Shamrocks. They're 4-2 right now (losses to East Leyden and DeLaSalle), and Kurland may have landed on the

Invitational Test

Cardinals in Gym Headliner

Next to the state meet, there's no finer competition for the leading gymnasts in Illinois than the Evanston Invitational.

The Invitational, an annual event, brings together the top five schools from the previous state competition and provides a good indication on where the talent is located in the current season.

Although there are schools that don't crack the top five one year and are equipped with outstanding performers the following season, the Evanston Invitational still gives gymnastics buffs a good look at what the new campaign will bring.

ANOTHER EDITION of this Evanston spectacular will unfold this Friday evening at 7:30 as Proviso East, Willowbrook, Arlington, and Niles West join host Evanston.

"Evanston definitely looks like the team to beat," Arlington coach Tom Walthouse said this week.

The Wildkits were fifth in the state finals last year with 33 points but are stocked with several promising returnees.

PROVISO EAST is the defending state champ and although always formidable in gymnastics circles, the Pirates did lose, versatile all-around man Richard Swetman among others.

Willowbrook was second last winter, two points behind Proviso, and Arlington climbed into third thanks mainly to the impressive work of Jim Johannesen (19½ points) and Bert Schmitt (12½) points).

TOM WALTHOUSE

Both Johannesen and Schmitt graduated and Walthouse also lost his other state point-getters in Doug Dattilo and Tom Riesing.

Each school may enter two men per event in the Evanston Invitational. There is no all-around competition.

Walthouse listed his meet entries for Paddock Publications: Trampoline — Rick Atwater, Terry Haines. Side Horse — Wayne Crockett, Hank Taylor. High Bar — Jim Brousseau, Lee Brown. Parallel Bars — Lee Brown, Don Von Ebers. Rings—Rich Carlson, Art Weidner. Tumbling — Bob Ekstrand, Rick Atwater.

Nears Record

picked up 504 as a senior to establish the high mark.

Lundstedt, well on his way to a prep career total in excess of 1,000 had a head start over Pomey inasmuch as coach Dick Kinneman hiked him to varsity level ball during the tail end of his sophomore year and Lundstedt responded by garnering 97 points before the year ended.

LAST WINTER Lundstedt compiled 580 to set a new single season scoring mark and bring his overall total to 677. As a senior, he has picked up 102 in five outings to bring him within 20 of tying the record mark.

Lundstedt's seige of the record this weekend could be just the boost Kinneman's group needs to bounce back into the winning groove after a 50-40 loss to rugged Evanston last Saturday.

In facing off against the Warriors this weekend, Prospect will have the responsibility of protecting a 7-1 edge in matches over the past five years. Although the hosts have only captured one of four games this year, they are better than their mark indicates, with as much height as Prospect and perhaps a stronger outside threat.

IN ADDITION, Prospect was stung earlier this week by the loss of Mike Mueller from their starting lineup. Favoring a sprained ankle in both games last week after injuring it against New Trier, the sharpshooting forward probably won't even suit up for the Warrior clash.

But Kinneman has been working his charges hard in practice sessions this week to eliminate flaws in the Prospect attack and fill the gap made by Mueller's absence.

Deerfield will be hoping to rebound from an overtime 71-69 loss to another Mid-Suburban League entrant last Saturday. Although they succumbed to an ambitious Wheeling group, the Warriors demonstrated an ability to hit from the outside.

STARTING GUARDS Gerry Carper and Phil Becker are fast and good ball handlers in addition to being scoring threats. Reserve utility man Rich Kadison will also probably see a good deal of action against the Knights because of his point-tallying potential.

The teams will be almost evenly matched by height up front with Warrior center Ned Gardner perhaps standing a little more than an inch taller than Knight Dave Kingman and Butch Leonard and Lundstedt paired off against equally tall forwards in 6-1 Phil Becker and 6-4 Scott Ascher respectively.

The visiting unit however is probably a slightly better rebounding team.

But Deerfield has the incentive of avenging a number of lop-sided losses to the Knights when they first took up a varsity schedule and Prospect was flying high. In 61-62 and 62-63 the Knights soared to 72-27, 73-24 and 70-26 triumphs over the then-hapless Warriors and it wasn't until two seasons ago, after winning half a dozen straight, that Prospect fell to Deerfield, 58-56.

Although the outing is strictly exhibition, the visitors need it to regain some momentum if they are to go on to another successful season.

With a good showing, Lundstedt won't be very likely to forget this weekend's game with Deerfield for a long time either.

YMCA Boys Lose Swimming Meet

The Northwest Suburban YMCA's Boy's Swim Team lost to the Oak Park YMCA, 162-126, Saturday although the under eight year old Cadets won their decision, 32-17.

Winning first places for coach Fred Meyer's team in the Cadet division were the medley relay team, Jeff Slater of Mount Prospect in the 25 yard freestyle and the 25 yard backstroke events, John Epstein of Elk Grove in the 25 yard backstroke and Brad Busse of Mount Prospect in the 25 yard breaststroke.

The 9 and 10 year old midgets lost 35-33. Mike Salerno, Prospect Heights, won the 25 yard freestyle, 25 yard butterfly, and 50 yard freestyle. Doug Schlack of Des Plaines won the 25 yard breastroke.

THE PREPS, 11 and 12 year olds, lost 36-32. Those who won first places were Mark Bailey. Rolling Meadows 50 yard freestyle. Cliff Schlack Des Plaines, 100 yard Individual medley and 50 yard butterfly. John Mate, Rolling Meadows the 100 yard freestyle and George Busse Mount Prospect the 50 yard breaststroke.

The Juniors, 13 and 14 year olds, lost 39-29. Rich Schwarting, Barrington, had an outstanding day by winning the 50 yard freestyle, the 100 yard butterfly and the 100 yard freestyle. Ken Stoltz Des Plaines won the 100 yard breaststroke.

THE LOCALS had no intermediates at the meet and Oak Park gained 35 points in that division.

The next meet will be this Sat. Dec. 10 at Des Plaines when the team meets South Chicago.

Wheeling JV Matmen Split Pair

Humbled a day earlier in Deerfield, Wheeling's junior varsity wrestlers rebounded in style Saturday much to the dismay of a Niles West team that felt the punishment of a 42-8 Wildcat triumph.

The Cats picked up wins in all but two contests, with Bill Perkins (95 pounds), Mike Guy (133) and Jack Costella (138) all earning pins.

PERKINS TOOK 1:58 to post his triumph while Guy handled his opponent in 1:45 and Costella took 1:14.

Decisions in favor of Wheeling were registered by: Ken Brown (112) 4-2, Phil Reed (127) 7-2, Chris Hodge (145) 3-1, Jeff Minikel (154) forfeit, Jeff Maher (165), forfeit, and Mark Hengesh (heavyweight) 3-2.

The loss to the Warriors on Friday was by 48-0 margin.

Grove's Soph Wrestlers Fall

The Elk Grove sophomore wrestlers really took their lumps from the Ridgewood grapplers in a meet held last Saturday, losing 40-13.

The Grenadiers were only able to win three matches and tie one in the one sided battle. Russ Grotha wrestling at 95 pounds tied his opponent 12-12 in a free scoring affair.

At 112 Tom Shera outpointed his adversary 12-2 to get three team points for the Grenadiers. Dan Austin won his bout at 127 on a decision 9-5 but from there to the heavyweight match the Grovers failed to pick up a point.

Heavyweight Pete Hagen took very little time to pin his opponent as he did the job in 1:59 of the first period.

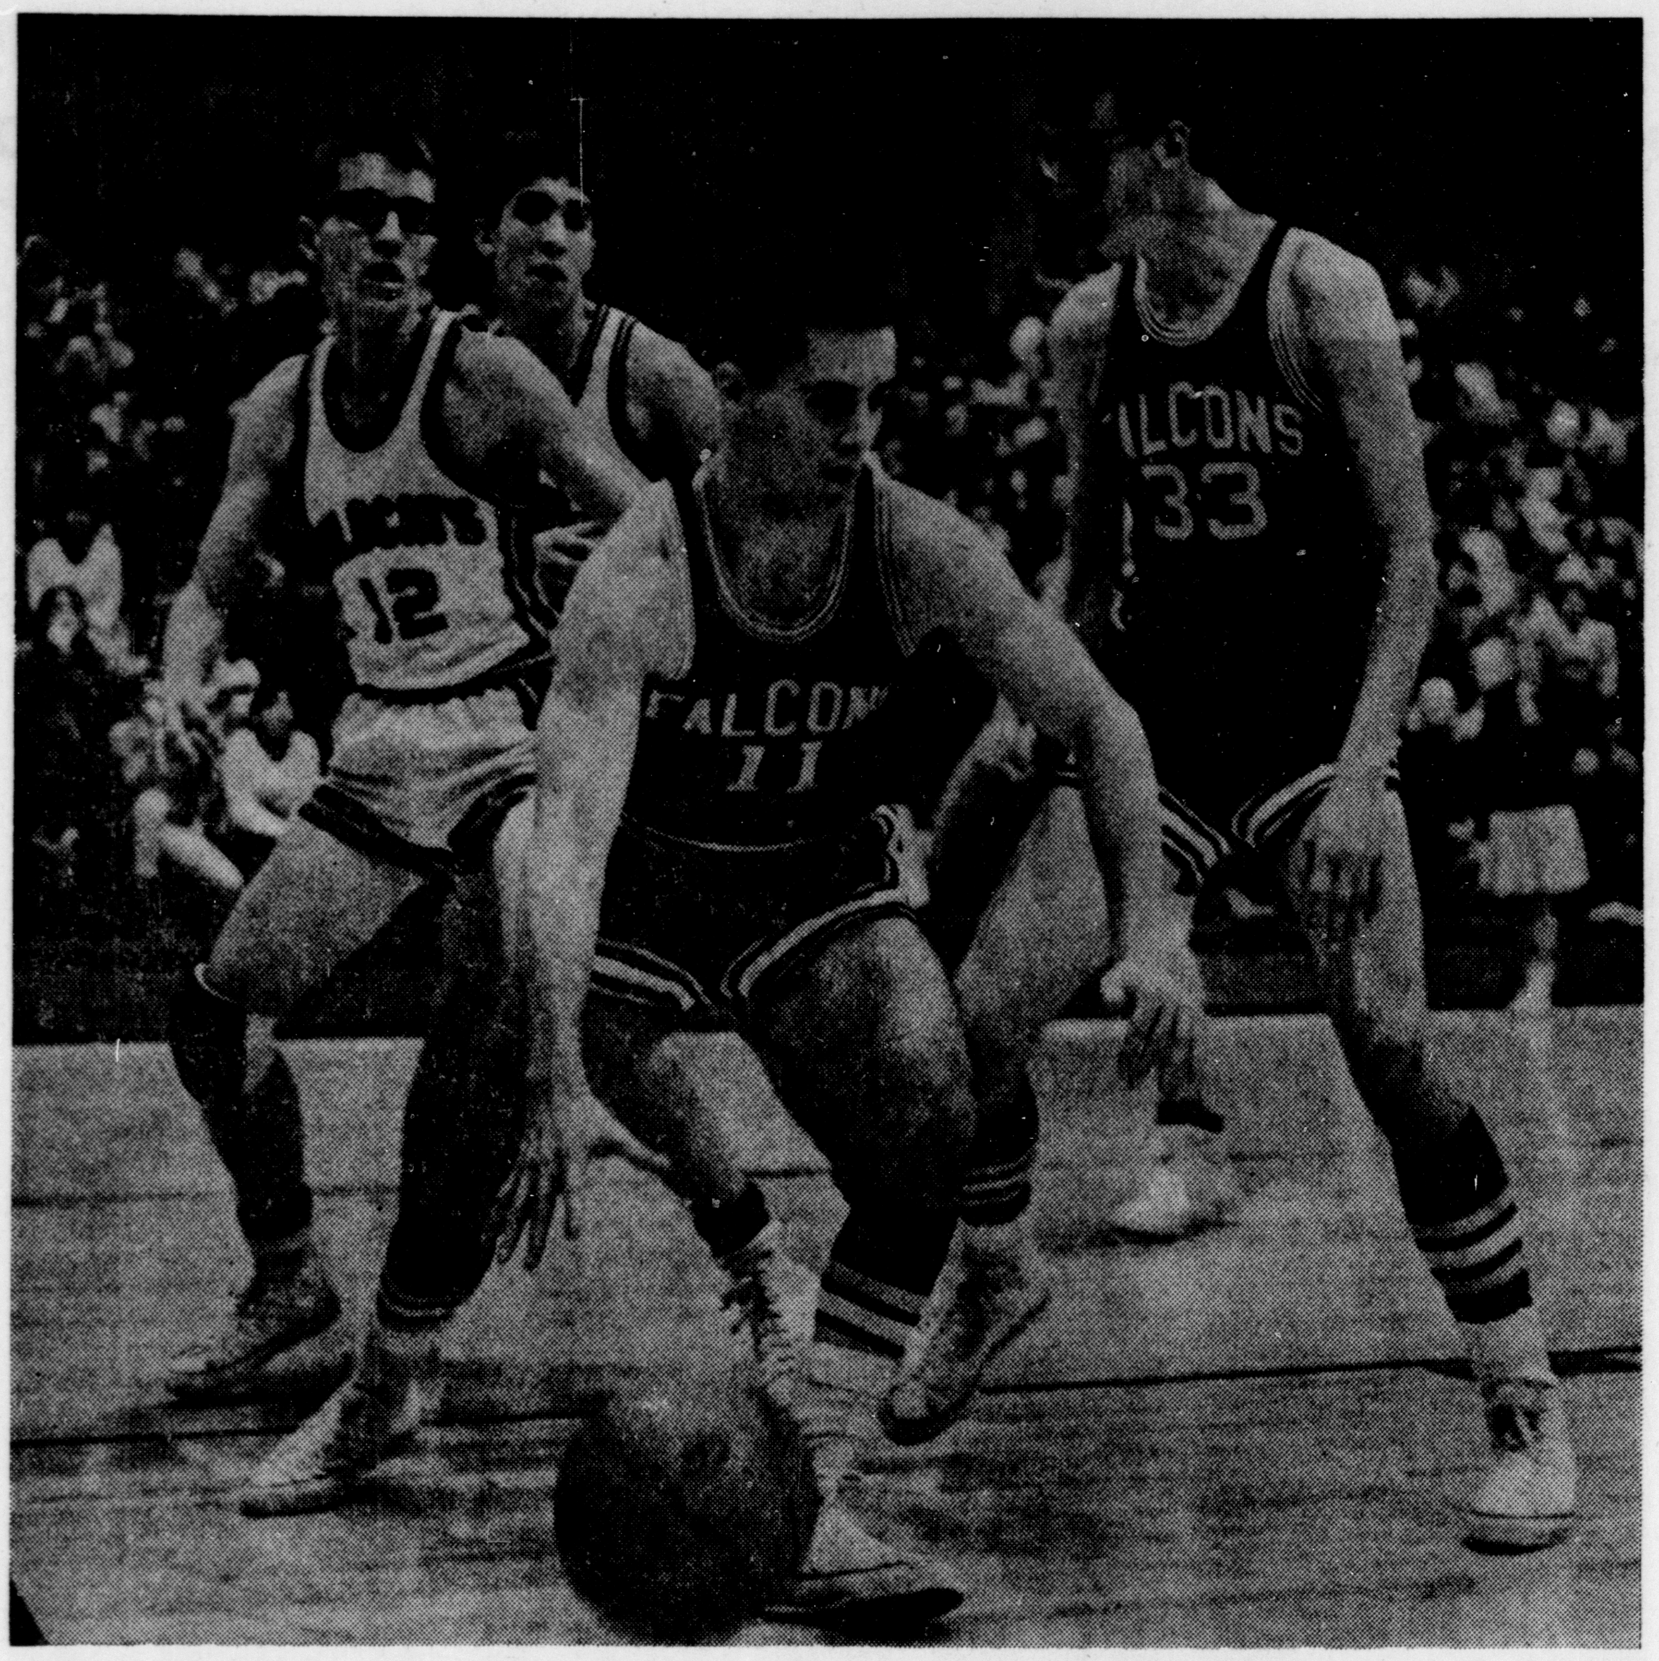
Falcon Sophs Edged on Mat

The Forest View sophomore wrestlers lost in their bid to defeat Niles East and came out on the short end of a 24-22 score.

The Falcons won four matches and tied two others but it wasn't enough to counteract the five decisions and one fall scored by Niles.

Falcon Steve Hanson started things off right for the home team by winning his 95 pound bout in a fall in 4:20. Mike Walden, wrestling at 103, worked to a 4-4 standoff with his opponent. Ron Delaura kept things going at 112 by pinning his man in 1:10 of the first period.

Don Winkleman won by decision at 127 pounds by defeating his man 3-0 and Jim Smith won by a pin in 3:48 in the 138 pound match. The last two Falcon points came in the 180 pound bout when Steve Lohrman tied with his opponent with one point each.



OFF WE GO. Forest View's Frank Calvello (11), a key performer in the Falcons' one-point victory over Wheeling last Friday, looks for an opening as teammate Ted Lambert (33) moves in to screen out Rex Peterson (12). Warriors, Vikings

Forest View in Two

by BOB NORDIN

This could be a big basketball weekend for Forest View. They can raise themselves to a better than .500 record.

The Falcons are now 1-2 but are coming off a one-point squeaker win over Wheeling this past weekend.

This Friday evening the Falcons will play host to the Maine West Warriors and although the Gaston Freeman-coached team does not boast great size, they have proved to be tough against good competition.

Maine now stands 2-2 for the year but one of those losses was a tight 58-55 reversal to the Prospect Knights, a team considered to be a contender in the league.

On Saturday the Falcons will travel to Niles North and once again they will face a team that has strong potential. The Vikings downed a quick Glenbrook North squad in the league opener 76-75, showing an ability to score.

COACH KEN ARNESON'S charges have been making progress and with the return of Howie Brasch to full time action the Falcons should be much stronger. Brasch is big and strong and makes for a strong defense under the basket. With his return the Falcon rebounding should be notably improved.

Guard Bucky Jones has been proving to be an able playmaker and a reliable shooter. In all three of the Falcons outings this season Jones has paced his team in scoring. In the Wheeling contest he dumped in 19 to lead the Falcon offense. Jones is joined at guard by Frank Calvello and the two do an able job at their positions.

If Brasch is ready, he will start at the center spot but otherwise Mike Messer will get the call. Brasch has had some playing time against Elgin and Wheeling and is showing improvement from the injury he suffered during the football season.

AT THE FORWARD positions Arneson has used senior Rich Gillespie and Ted Lambert. Although neither boy is exceptionally tall both work hard at getting the job done and they have been doing all that is expected of them.

Maine West's tallest starter will be center Al Fritz. Fritz is 6-2 and a good competitor. The two Warrior guards will be Phil Murdock and Dick Manny. Both of these boys are 5-9 and are good outside shooters.

One of the Maine West forward posts will be handled by 6-1 Harry Tistle but the other spot is still somewhat of a question. Bob Banger at 6-1 is the best bet at this point but it is not certain.

A LOOK AHEAD to Saturday would find that the Niles North team is short on experience but long on talent and hustle. They will give the Falcons all they can handle and the Birds will have to be up for both games to win.

The Falcons faced two very strong opponents in their opening games and they were humiliated in both contests by lopsided scores. Proviso West will prove to be one of the better teams in the area before the season is through as will the once-beaten Elgin quintet.

In both these early games the Falcons were at an obvious height disadvantage and that played a big part in the outcome.

They will meet Maine West on almost even ground in the size department and the Falcons have good speed.

If they can take this first one Friday the momentum of the win may carry them over and make it a big basketball weekend at Forest View.

Wildcats Drop Two Soph Meets

Sophomore matmen at Wheeling fell twice in non-conference frays during their first week of action, being stunned by a Deerfield outfit Friday 48-5 and not quite able to completely recover against Niles West Saturday, 29-21.

Only bright moments in the Deerfield outing came when Keith Lewis of the Wildcats decisioned his foe in the 145-pound faceoff and John Fraser worked into a draw with his Warrior opponent in the 103-pound go.

Lewis also racked up a win the following day against the Indians, on a 4-0 decision. Other Wheeling winners over Niles were Richard Anderson (112 pounds, pin), Charles Kuhl (120, decision), Greg Craighead (165, pin) and Bill Carlander (heavyweight, pin).

Lions Face Pair

most effective lineup.

THE ST. PATRICK coach will open with vets Tony Bertucca (6-1) and Carlos Martinez (6-0) at the forwards, junior Ed Shaffer (6-6) at center, and junior Tom McKiernan (6-3) and senior Mike Dooley (5-10) at the guards.

Bertucca is tough under the boards, and he averaged 10 points per game last winter in Chicagoland Prep League action. Martinez, a junior, has enjoyed varsity status for three years, and he was a 14.1 scorer as a soph in league scuffling.

Shaffer and McKiernan are up from the frosh-sophs, and Dooley was a varsity reserve as a junior.

When Kurland looks to his bench Friday, he'll probably send in Tom Brennan, a 6-6, 210-pound senior, or Mike Pisano, a 6-4 junior. Pisano has been injured and is a questionmark.

St. Viator has never beaten St. Patrick in varsity basketball competition.

WHEN THE Lions travel to Maine South Saturday evening (1111 Dee Road in Park Ridge), they'll run into a club that is expected to take the big prize this winter in the Central Suburban League.

Coach Bernie Brady, one of the most successful coaches in the Chicago Suburban area, has seen his club lose two games (to York and Arlington), but Maine had Arlington down by seven points going into the final period. And they did bump Prospect, 62-53.

As in the past, Brady has his boys running, and there's quickness on this club. Bernie also welcomed back veteran guard Tom Beck last weekend (previously sidelined with an injury) to clear up one of the problem areas.

Jeff Reinke, a 6-4 center-forward, is another key performer. He was a regular last winter and can score from outside or underneath.

The Hawks received an unexpected scoring lift from guard Mike Masoncup last Friday in an 84-65 rout of Deerfield. The slender guard rifled in 26 points as the ring-leader in a torrid Hawk shooting exhibition which clicked at a 55 per cent clip.

Main South will play at Glenbrook North Friday evening.

Elk Grove Cagers Face Niles West

The Elk Grove basketball quintet will be trying to better their present 3-3 record when they take the floor this weekend at home in a J.V. contest with the Niles West Indians.

The Grenadiers now have a .500 mark for the year but it could easily have been better. In their last outing with Fenton they played inconsistent ball that cost them the game.

Coaches Bob Rees and Larry Peddy have been working this week to get the Grovers back in the winning track and prepared for the Niles West tilt.

Elk Grove will put much the same team on the floor this weekend as they used this past week but one change could be the return to action of Tom Pomey, who missed much of last week with illness.

The Grenadiers will probably start with guards Denny Jones and Gary Pleickhardt, forwards Pomey and John Knopf and center Jim Oplt. Rees uses as much of his bench strength as possible and other promising boys will get their chance to play.

The sophomore contest will feature the Grenadiers and the Prospect Knights with preliminary action slated to start at 7:00 p.m., with the junior varsity contest to follow.

Northwest Girls Coast to Victory

With more record-shattering performances the Northwest Suburban Girl's "Y" swimming team rolled to a 206-118 victory over North Suburban Saturday to continue its undefeated record for 2½ years.

In the Cadet division (8 and under), Jema Allen, Mount Prospect, won the 25 yard breast and the 25 yard backstroke, Mary Kay Reichwein, Barrington, took first places in the 25 yard freestyle and the 25 yard butterfly.

Midget (9 and 10) first place winners were Sandy Adams, Barrington, 25 yard freestyle; Carol Geisler, Prospect Heights, 50 yard freestyle; and Margaret Gabler, Arlington Heights, 25 yard breast stroke.

The Preps (11 and 12) had two winners, Mary Lee Cronin, Arlington Heights, 50 yard butterfly, and Jan Lesniak, Prospect Heights, 50 yard backstroke.

Debbie Van Dormolen, Rolling Meadows, broke a pool record and won the 100 yard backstroke in a time of 1:13.9 for the Junior division (13 & 14). Other first place wins were Sue Ivisen, Barrington, 100 yard freestyle; Connie Foster, Mount Prospect, 200 yard Ind. Medley; Cathy Hoskins, Morton Grove, 100 yard breast stroke; Chris Pederson, Palatine, tie for first in the 50 yard freestyle.

Three first place wins which broke team and pool records in the Intermediate Division (15 & over) were the 200 yard Medley Relay composed of P. Wollerman, Arlington Heights, E. Tobin, Des Plaines, C. Rowe, Arlington Heights, and H. Bowen, Barrington, in a new time of 2:08.9; Cathy Rowe, Arlington Heights, 100 yard butterfly in a new record time 1:13.5; Liz Tobin, Des Plaines, 100 yard breast stroke in a new time of 1:22.1. Patti Wollerman, Arlington Heights, topped the 100 yard backstroke.

The Northwest Suburban Girls next meet will be Dec. 17, when they host Michigan Shores, Harvey, and Elmhurst for a Freight-Train Quadrangular Relay Meet.

Beat Crown 22-21

Cougars Split In Mat Meets

The new season debut meant division for Conant's varsity wrestlers over the weekend.

The Cougar grapplers lost their opener on Friday, falling 31-16 to Glenbrook North, but they came back with a snug 22-21 decision over Crown of Dundee on Saturday.

Against Glenbrook, Merv Miller's matmen managed four wins and a tie, one of the victories a forfeit victory for Lane Patel in the 95-pound match.

Tom Isenberg added three team points with a 5-0 decision at 112 pounds, Bill Gluck added three more with a 6-4 final at 127, and Bill Lee blanked his opponent 4-0 at 133. The other two team points came from George Reedy, who tied 5-5 at 154 pounds.

Three Cougars—Mike Ferguson at 120, Jim Quella at 145 and Dick Rogers at 165—lost decisions, while four others went down on pins. They were Reinie Vanderhyd (103), Tom Higgins (138), Mike Andrews (180) and Dennis Reynolds (Heavyweight).

HEAVYWEIGHT Reynolds reversed form in the dual with Crown, and it meant a team victory. Not counting his bout. the Cougars were down 21-17. But Reynolds floored his man in just 1:04 of the first period, and that was precisely what the Cougars needed for the victory.

The Cougars had won five other bouts, all on decisions, and tied one. Three Conant boys blanked their opponents: Vanderhyd winning 2-0 at 103, Isenberg 4-0 at 112, and Rogers 2-0 at 165.

Gluck and Lee—like Isenberg—won their second straight decisions. Gluck made it 4-2 at 127 and Lee 6-2 at 133. In the 180-pound division, Andrews held on for an 8-8 draw.

The Cougars plunge next into Mid-Suburban League competition, and the first foe—this Friday—will be Dist. 211 rival Palatine. The action is set for 6:30 p.m. on the Conant mats.

Fremd's Varsity In 41-13 Mat Victory

Fremd's youtful varsity wrestlers made it two straight in duals last Friday afternoon, smothering New Trier West 41-13 in a challenge on the Fremd mats.

Walt Lyszak's Vikings, improving to 2-1 in the early season going with the triumph, stopped seven opponents on pins and decisioned two others.

Jim Lynch started the team win, flattening his man at 5:18 of their bout at 95 pounds.

Things evened out at 103, when Don Mason was pinned, but Fremd ruled the next four weights and wasn't in trouble. Keith West took a 4-0 decision at 112, Kent Wells pinned his man in 3:44 at 120, Gil Sanchez recorded a fall in 4:58 at 127 and Jim Williams took a 3-0 decision at 133.

The rest of the Fremd wins all went by the pin route. It was Kent Jensen in just 42 seconds at 145, Chuck Goodman in 5:59 at 154, Tom Dohrman in 2:38 at 180 and Ray Steerbo in 1:30 in the heavyweight ranks.

Not so fortunate were John Lowery, decisioned 9-2 at 138 pounds, and Steve Hein, pinned at 165 pounds.

The Viking varsity was to be home to Conant in a Saturday afternoon dual.

For Pirate Wrestlers . . .

Loss Streak Ends

The bleakest streak in Palatine's wrestling history came to an end last Saturday.

The Pirate grapplers—in a confrontation that went down to the last bout—stopped Glenbrook North 24-19, and thereby ended a loss skein that had extended through 16 duals. It had started with four consecutive losses at the end of the 1964-65 season, and continued when last year's undermanned team went through 12 duals without victory.

It ended at Glenbrook South, and it was Paul Dolik—a senior moved in as the team's regular heavyweight this season—who decided it. The Pirates and the Titans were knotted 19-19 when Dolik took the mat against Glenbrook's Bob Roldon. The bout went into the third period, and then—with 30 seconds gone—Dolik dropped his man for a pin, the maximum five points, and the victory.

It was, quite obviously, a gay beginning for new Palatine headman Bob Riehm, and it came about this way:

THE SPARTANS took a commanding edge in the lower weights, starting when 95-pounder Jim Weber was reversed and pinned in 1:47 of his bout with Dave Machata. Weber, a freshman, had scored the first takedown.

The Pirates went down 8-0 when sophomore Don Speer lost his 103-pound match 6-0, but three straight decision wins then gave Palatine a slim edge.

At 112, senior Rusty Mason beat John Kissel 4-2. At 120, sophomore Bob Bailey scored a last period reverse to pull out his match 9-7. And at 127, junior Bob Esmail—in control all the way—notched a 7-0 decision to put the Pirates in front 9-8.

BUT GLENBROOK had the edge in the middle weights. Dirk Fuqua, a senior moved up from 127 pounds, fell victim at 133 in a 6-2 decision to Cliff Swanson. At 138, junior Kevin McGlynn lost a 4-1 decision, and at 145, Bob Angleson went down 10-2. Through eight weights, Glenbrook led 17-9.

Pat Donahue started the edge to victory, winning 5-0 with little difficulty over Ed Koba at 154. Bob Salinas followed with a pin at 165, felling Tom Riedy in 5:42. And Ron Stroud pulled out a tie at 180 by escaping in the last 30 seconds from Rich David.

PAUL DOLIK
Clinches Big Win

That put it up to Dolik.

The Pirates return to action on the mats in their Mid-Suburban League opener this Friday, wrestling Dist. 211 rival Conant at Conant.

Forest View Matmen Split; Handle Maine East, 29-16

The Forest View wrestlers split in two contests over the past weekend and in so doing picked up their first win of the young season while suffering their second setback, that at the hands of Niles East.

The Falcons' first team win came at the expense of Maine East as they downed the visiting Blue Demons 29-16. The loss to Niles East was by the score of 24-16.

In the Niles East contest, except for two pins by Mark Frankel and Phil Reder, the Falcons were badly out of contention. Only Johnny Martin and Steve DeHaven were able to pick up decisions for the Falcons as they won only four out of the twelve weight classes.

MARTIN gained his decision in the 103 pound bout by a 9-1 score as he completely controlled his opponent. Martin was in command from the beginning as he took his man down and worked him for near-fall points in the first period. In the second period Martin reversed his opponent and in the final two minutes again worked for two points, this time with a predicament.

DeHaven scored a 3-1 decision for the Falcons and his win evened the team score at 6-6. The next points the Falcons got came from the fall scored by Frankel. Mark put his opponent away in 2:17 and was leading by a 4-0 score at that time.

Phil Reder, who has been doing an outstanding job at 180, pinned his opponent in 3:21 and at the time of the pin he was leading 8-0. His five point win were the the last points the Falcons were able to get and Niles won the heavyweight bout to clinch the meet.

BUT SATURDAY the story was different and the Falcons worked for a victory. Things started out badly for the Falcons as freshman Mike Altergott lost by a fall in the 95 pound bout but again Martin did his part and got back three points as he decisioned his opponent 2-0.

Tom Bohac lost his third consecutive bout at 112 as he was soundly trounced 12-2. Steve DeHaven tied his opponent 2-2 by virtue of two escape points. At 127 pounds Bob Urban lost his third match of the season and has yet to get untracked.

At 133 pounds Ron DeHaven lost a close bout 4-3 but then Bob Best earned another three points for the Falcons by downing his opponent 8-1. At that point the Falcons were down 16-8 in team score but from that point on it was all Forest View. Ray Vitha scored a pin in 5:32 in the 145 pound bout and Stan Rhoner won a 5-4 decision at 154 to even the team score.

Frankel again did a fine job and outpointed his man 7-0. This was Frankel's third win of the season and teamed with Reder they are the only two Falcons with no losses on their records.

Reder pinned again in this outing and put the meet out of reach for the Falcons. But heavyweight Bob Savage put frosting on the cake of victory by pinning his opponent in 5:04 to give the Falcons a final 29-16 win.

Horrell, McDonald Only Lion Winners In Wrestling Debut

Decisions by Bill Horrell and Tom McDonald gave St. Viator's varsity wrestlers their only points Friday evening in a 44-6 loss to Marian Catholic of Chicago Heights.

Horrell coasted to an 8-0 victory in the 112-pound class, and McDonald was a 5-2 winner at 154, settling the issue in the final period with a reversal and near-fall.

Lion head man John Zid saw some promise in his candidates despite the one-sided setback.

"We still need some more work," Zid said, "but there were some bright spots in both the varsity and frosh-soph meets."

Marian Catholic won the frosh-soph competition, 33-18.

Although Horrell and McDonald were the only Lion varsity winners, there were some other interesting bouts.

Don Rich dropped a tough 5-4 decision at 133 pounds as his opponent rode out the final period, and Mike Cooper was blanked 2-0 at 127.

In frosh-soph action St. Viator winners were O'Malley by a decision at 133, and John Shields (138), Greg Gripentrog (145), and Jim Lux (154) by pins.

Traester, working in the 165-pound class, was losing 15-3 when he almost pinned his man. Girard lost a 6-5 decision at 103.

St. Viator was operating without veteran heavyweight Denny Forston and had to forfeit the final varsity bout, but Forston should be in the lineup Friday when the Lions travel to St. Patrick.

St. Viator was slated to tangle with St. Francis of Wheaton yesterday (Wednesday).

For Cards' Myers

A Successful Debut

There are certain victories that stand out in the career of any coach.

But the first one, that first varsity win as a coach, has a very special distinction.

Willie Myers, starting his first season as head wrestling coach at Arlington, saw his Cardinals roll to two easy victories last weekend in their initial competition of the 1966-67 season.

Arlington overpowered Glenbrook South of the Central Suburban on Friday evening, 30-14, and rocked Fremd of Palatine on Saturday afternoon, 39-3. (See separate story on Fremd meet).

"IN OUR TWO meets," Myers said, "some of our question marks have been answered. However, one of the real tests will come this weekend when we go against Wheeling in a dual and then wrestle in the Proviso West Quad."

Myers cited the results at 95 pounds, 154 and heavyweight as "real bright spots" in the weekend action.

"Gary Prochaska's pin at 95," Myers said, "set the stage for the rest of the Glenbrook South meet."

PROCHASKA, a sophomore, pinned his opponent in 5:05 to give Arlington a quick although temporary lead against Glenbrook South.

The Titans retaliated with a pin at 103, but then the Cards made their move to vault into a lead they never relinquished.

Jim Whitnell, a junior letterman, took care of Glenbrook's John Kissel 6-0 at 112 pounds, and senior monogram winner Mike Mills flattened Art Allen in 4:48 at 120.

Tom MacCarthy made it 16-5 Arlington when he blanked the Titans' Bob Horsting, 5-0, in the 127-pound tussle.

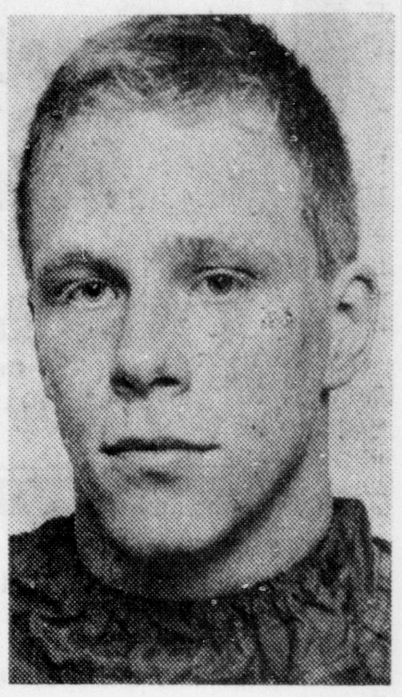
THE CARDINALS went on the board again at 138 as all-conference football center Brad Philo shut out Steve Mortimer, 5-0, and added three more points with Clark Sims' effortless 16-2 trouncing of Ed Kuba at 154.

The Cards closed out their scoring as two lettermen posted triumphs.

Mike Jones, district titlist at '65 as a junior, made his senior debut at 180 with a 5-0 conquest of Rich David. Vern Gongol put away Glenbrook's Bob Koldon in 4:18 at heavyweight to conclude the meet.

Gongol's efforts over the weekend provided Myers with some encouragement in the heavyweight class.

"It was a question whether Vern could handle wrestlers who weigh 30 to 50 pounds more than he does," Myers pointed out, "and these first results seemed to answer this."



VERN GONGOL
Impressive

Arlington Wins On Jayvee Mat Over Glenbrook

Arlington's jayvee wrestlers launched their season in impressive fashion Friday evening with a convincing 30-16 victory over Glenbrook South.

Coach John Bush's Cardinals racked up five decisions and three pins in the triumph.

Scoring decisions for Arlington were Gerry Brask at 95 pounds (9-0), Ray Smith at 133 (2-0), Dave Bakas at 145 (5-0), Pat McCoy at 165 (7-6), and Dan Selleck at 180 (6-5).

Claiming the Arlington falls were Bob Dabbert at 120 pounds (0:55), Jeff Damm at 127 (3:40), and Joe Kolzak at heavyweight (2:15).

Knights Win In JV Action

Prospect's junior varsity grapplers pulled out slim triumph over Maine South in their exhibition opener, winning 24-22.

The Knights broke even in events, capturing a half dozen while the Hawks were also capturing six, but gained the overall nod with the help of pins by Ken Klein, Bob Link and Maurice Loeffel.

Klein took care of his 95-pound opponent in 56 seconds. Link won in the 145-pound category by a fall at 4:10 and Loeffel recorded his pin in the 180-pound division at 3:59.

Also gaining individual wins for the Knights were Mike Herod, 3-1 at 127 pounds, Pat Murphy, 9-1 at 138 pounds, and Ron Richardson, 9-8 at 154 pounds.

The junior varsity squad from Prospect tangles with Deerfield next, in their own camp.

Grove Mat Squad Bows to Ridgewood

The Elk Grove varsity wrestlers went down to defeat for the first time this season as they lost to a tough Ridgewood outfit 27-16.

The Grenadiers now have a 1-1 record for the season with a win over Fenton in their first outing of the year.

Jerry Ancona started things off for the Grenadiers but lost in his bout at 95 pounds 9-1. But Tom Mann, who has two wins to his credit now, decisioned his opponent 6-0 to put Elk Grove right back in the match.

In the 112 pound match Jim Veltri lost on a questionable disqualification that cost the team five points. George Taylor, wrestling at 120, completely handled his man and beat him 11-0. At 127 pounds Tom Schommer was decisioned 3-1 but at 133 the Grenadiers got back five team points when Bob Anderson won on a forfeit.

THE GRENADIERS lost the next two bouts when Cliff Gaylor was pinned in 1:30 in the 138 pound hassle and then Mike Ernst lost a close 4-3 decision. Chuck Raffaelle, wrestling at 154, remained undefeated by decisioning his opponent 2-1 but Steve Jung at 165 dropped a decision and lost 5-1.

Going into the 180 pound bout it was still possible for the Grenadiers to pull out a win or a tie if they could have come up with two pins or a pin and a decision. However, things didn't work out that way and after Mike McFarland wrestled to a tie at 180 the meet was out of Elk Grove's reach. Then Harry Lundin, the Grove heavyweight, lost a tight 2-1 bout.

The young Grovers are showing improvement both in practice and in their meets and are showing particular promise at 95, 165, and heavyweight. With more experience they will become a much stronger team.

The next Grenadier mat battle will be with Niles West this Friday, Dec. 9 at 7:30 at Niles West High School. On Saturday Elk Grove will host the Stevenson wrestlers in a meet scheduled to begin at 2:00 p.m.

For Second Win

Card Matmen Handle Fremd

Arlington's varsity wrestlers, showing definite early season promise, overwhelmed Fremd last Saturday afternoon, 39-3, for their second victory of the opening weekend of competition.

Coach Willie Myers' Cards, a 30-14 winner over Glenbrook South on Friday evening, yielded in only one weight class in another convincing victory.

Fremd tallied its lone points at 95 pounds when Jim Lynch fashioned an impressive 5-2 victory over Gary Prochaska. From then on, it was all Arlington.

THE CARDS' Jay McDonnell flattened Fremd's Don Mason in 3:22 at 103. to push the visitors into a lead they never gave up the rest of the way.

Jim Whitnell decisioned the Vikings' Keith West 3-1 at 112, and Mike Mills also made it two straight for the weekend with a 5-2 conquest of Mike Lewis at 120.

The Cardinals went on top by 14-3 as Tom MacCarthy toppled Fremd's Gil Sanchez, 9-2, and Paul Douglas bounced back from an opening loss at Glenbrook to coast past Jim Williams, 11-3.

BRAD PHILO, a shutout victor in his opening bout of the season, gave the Cards five points as he pinned Fremd's John Lowery in 1:23 at 138, and Kelley Reid of Arlington was an 8-0 winner over Kent Jensen at 145.

For the second straight meet Clark Sims, the Cards' 154-pounder, posted a one-sided victory but couldn't get a pin. Sims dumped Fremd's Chuck Goodman, 12-0. He won Friday, 16-2.

"Clark was working for the pins," Myers said, "but he just couldn't get his opponent's shoulder down for the count."

ARLINGTON finished up the one-sided victory as Tom Barkulis (165), Mike Jones (180), and Vern Gongol (heavyweight) claimed the final points.

Barkulis, who had dropped his opening bout on Friday, was a 10-1 winner, and Jones made it two straight for himself with an easy 16-5 conquest at 180.

Gongol flattened Fremd's Ray Steerbo in the heavyweight division in 2:37.

Arlington will travel to Wheeling Friday afternoon (4:30) for competition at four levels and will hook up with Proviso West, Proviso East, and Elgin Saturday (12:00) in a quad at Proviso West.

Knight Matmen Win

Kid Brother Gets 'Revenge' in Dual

As youngsters, the older boy always got the best of his kid brother when horseplay turned into impromau matches.

The kid brother, Dave Ziemek, had to wait a long time before getting even. But he went about it the right way last week, steering his Prospect wrestling squad to a 24-16 conquest over the Maine South unit coached by senior brother Tom.

It was win number three for the Knight matmen in as many outings since the advent of the new season and a trio of Prospect wrestlers kept their individual strings intact.

RICK BASCH TOOK a 7-2 decision in the 95-pound class to go with two pins in earlier competition. Terry Holshouser in the 127-pound event and Vince Curry at 145 also recorded their third straight victorys, Holshouser with a clear cut 7-0 decision and Curry on a fall at 3:29.

In other matches, Gary McMorrow picked up a 8-0 win for the Knights in the 103-pound clash, Dave Phillips lost 2-3 at 112 pounds, Mike Mohr recorded a 5-5 tie at 120 pounds, Jeff Hansen picked up a 1-0 win at 133 pounds, Dave Sauter lost 5-0 at the 138-pound level, Gary Cobe tied 1-1 at 154 pounds, Bob Youngquist won 3-1 at 165 pounds, Pete Smith lost 5-1 at 180 pounds and Mike Sanders lost 2-8 in the heavyweight bout.

Hansen is still undefeated, having won once and tied once. McMorrow's record is 2-1.

The Knights roll out the red carpet and the mats for highly-rated Deerfield this Friday. The Warriors have already soundly dumped two other area schools, Forest View and Deerfield.

SO SOON it's ended.

Pheasant hunters—those that live by the law—need no reminder that the month-long open season on ringnecks ends this Sunday at sunset.

For those who anticipate the pursuit of the pheasant each year, it does seem all too soon, so if there's any last foray to be made, it had best be made this weekend.

The pheasant season has been a spotty thing this season, with the bird population slightly up in some areas, down in others, and generally about the same as last year.

The best of the hunting has been found in the central part of the state, where the panorama is still that of the prairies and farms that have stamped Illinois historically. There is still food, there is still cover, and there is still good hunting, as good in some areas as you'll find anywhere in the country.

And there is still, according to some reports, land on which the hunter is allowed to hunt, given the proper amount of courtesy and consideration to the landowners. So if any suburban hunters have the ambition, and if the weather is permitting, the last foray of this season could be spent with a weekend trip to the happier hunting ground.

The strongest pheasant population has been reported in a six-county band across central Illinois, the terrain of Mason, Logan, Macon, Moultrie, Douglas and Edgar counties. Good hunting has also been reported in McLean County around Bloomington, and Livingston County immediately to the north.

For those unwilling or unable to venture very far from this area, the forecast is the same: birds are there, but it takes a little labor to ferret them out.

The pattern was clear to hunting companion Art Klewer and me over the weekend. We spent several hours working old and favored potholes in rural Palatine, and for our efforts kicked up a couple of ringneck roosters. The pheasants can still be found, yet it's becoming obvious that each year of suburban growth is driving them into smaller areas, and ultimately out.

But don't be discouraged, even if you can't get far away for a fruitful hunt. The exhilaration is worth something, and there is—if you can afford it—still the private hunting preserve season open until March 15.

With the seasons on pheasant and partridge closing Sunday, the seasons on ducks and geese having ended Tuesday, and the dove and squirrel seasons long since ended, there's not much left for the hunters. Left is the second session of the shotgun deer season tomorrow (Friday) through Sunday, the last whitetail bow season from Dec. 13 to Dec. 31, the rest of the Southern Illinois goose season, and—of course—the rabbit campaign which doesn't expire until Jan. 31 of next year.

Knights Win In Gymnastics

The Prospect gymnasts had the upper hand in their meet last Friday against Glenbrook South and took the decision 80-52 in varsity competition.

In trampoline competition the Knights placed second, third, and fourth with the number two spot going to Jim Sesterhenn while Bill Wendling took the third place and Nick Pennef got fourth.

On the side horse the Knights Ken Barr won the first place honors (7-9) while teammate Jim Anderson placed second. Bruce Boult, the third Prospect entry placed fifth.

IN HORIZONTAL bar competition Prospect's Bruce Boult was the top scorer (6-05) and won the first place spot. Boult was given assistance in the event by a second place finish by John Hardt and a fourth place earned by Roy Hardin.

Glenbrook won the parallel bar competition but Prospect took the two runner up spots with a second by Jeff Long and a third by Boult. Neal Wells placed sixth for the Knights in this event.

Vince Franzone won the still ring competition for the Knights (6-9) while Bob Destefanis copped the second place and Bill VanSky got the third. This gave the Knights a clean sweep in this event.

THE PROSPECT tumblers got the top two places in their event as Rich Burger won the event at 7-2 and Bruce Benard took second.

In the sophomore meet the Prospect team had it all their way as they defeated Glenbrook South 90½-41½. The sophs took the top three places in all but one event as they worked their whitewash.

Bill Tindall won on the trampoline while Dave Mattson won in side horse competition. On the high bar Kurt Straub took the number one spot while on the parallel bars Dave Fisher had to settle for second place in the only event where the Knights didn't win.

On the still rings Fred Dolce collected first place points for the Knights while Knight Bob Todd topped the tumbling field to win that event.

Wheeling Matmen Suffer at Niles, Deerfield High

Bouncing off a defeat at the hands of a highly-touted Deerfield unit, Wheeling's varsity grapplers did not have time to recover en route to Niles the next day and fell to an 0-2 mark in inaugural exhibition wrestling action this weekend.

THE WARRIORS, rated one of the best in the area again his year, dealt a crippling 43-3 blow to the Wildcats Friday at Deerfield. The following day Wheeling dropped a 27-13 decision to an equally capable Niles West squad.

Rich Haddock was the only Cat to score for the visitors Friday and notched his second win against the Indians Saturday. Both triumphs were via decisions, 17-6 and 5-3 respectively.

ONE BOUT down from the offset of their Deerfield encounter after forfeiting in the 95-pound class, coach Bob Schulze's matmen fought vainly to dent the perennially-tough Warrior stronghold. Strong showings in losing causes were put up by Eric Meisenheimer (5-7) in the 112-pound ring and Bill Mitsos (2-4) in the 120-pound class.

Deerfield managed three pins in a dozen clashes.

NILES STARTED off with decisions in eight straight events before Haddock turned the tide. Pat McGuire of Wheeling followed with a win by forfeit in the 165-pound fray and Joe Goffman closed out the competition by pinning his opponent in 5:40.

Double Dual Win

Cougars' Gym Debut Strong

Conant opened its third and perhaps most hopeful gymnastics season with a double triumph over the weekend.

The varsity Cougars, in a double dual with Wheaton North and Rockford East, scored two wide decisions. Wheaton fell 77½ to 54½ and Rockford went under 87½ to 38½. A frosh-soph meet was also contested with Wheaton North, and Conant won that 66-62.

The varsity victories for Bob Ferguson's crew were the more impressive because they were accomplished without team standout Gary Funke. Butch Lochinger and Tim Cummings led the winning efforts, with both showing up especially effectively against Rockford. Each had 15 team points in that dispute.

LOCHINGER recorded his with a first on the parallel bars and thirds on the side horse and horizontal bar. Cummings, the senior transfer from Rich Central, won on the high bar, took second on the side horse and fourth on the parallel bars.

The Cougars had three other individual firsts against Rockford East, as Lloyd Powell triumphed on the trampoline, Jack Meyer on the rings and Karl Icenogle in tumbling.

There were Conant sweeps in three events, as Dennis Biedrzycki and Tom Toronyi were second and third to Icenogle in tumbling, Pete Kollias and Craig Miller second and third on the rings to Meyer, and Nelsen third to Cummings and Lochinger on the high bar. Nelsen added a third on the parallel bars.

Other Conant finishes were John Bianco second and Biedrzycki fifth on the tramp, and Bill Peters fourth on the side horse.

All five Conant firsts held up against Wheaton North, though some of the other places weren't quite as high, reducing the team margin. Lochinger was the team's high point man with 14, made of the first on the parallel bars, third on the high bar and fourth on the side horse.

In the frosh-soph dual with Wheaton, leading places went to Tom Reif, who won in tumbling, and Tony Bauer, first on the rings.

Conant returns to action with a home dual this Saturday, the Cougar gymnasts hosting New Trier West.

Pirates Drop Two in Gym

Palatine's gymnasts opened the 1966-67 season with a busy and a stern weekend.

The Pirate varsity went up against traditionally-strong Niles North on Friday evening, and lost 85-47. Less than 24 hours later, in another home meet, they dropped a 79-53 decision to West Leyden.

Despite the two team setbacks, there were some bright individual moments for Jim Woodward's performers. And one of the brightest came from Dave Chidley.

The senior veteran won twice in his specialty, triumphing on the side horse against both Niles and West Leyden. Bruce Burrow also stood out against Niles North, taking a second in tumbling and a third on the trampoline for nine team points.

Also scoring high for the Pirates against the Vikings were Phil Samuels and Jim Boughner, each with a third, Samuels on the high bar and Boughner on the parallel bars.

AGAINST WEST Leyden, the Pirates had two individual firsts, with Gary Cook joining Chidley as an event winner. Cook ruled the competition on the still rings.

Burrow had a second in tumbling, Boughner a second on the parallel bars and Samuels a third on the high bar.

The frosh-soph tale was the same as the varsity: two team losses but bright spots individually.

Ken Seitz was a particular standout, as the sophomore placed high in two events against both opponents.

Against the field for Niles North, where the Palatine underclassmen lost 88-44, Seitz had a second on the high bar and a third on the rings, while Ken Swoboda had a tie for first on the trampoline.

Against West Leyden — an 81-51 victor over Palatine — Seitz had a first on the rings and third on the high bar. Swoboda had a third on the trampoline, while seconds were taken by Terry Hake on the side horse and Bob MacDonald in tumbling.

The Palatine gymnasts will return to competition tomorrow evening (Friday) with frosh-soph and varsity action slated at Glenbard West High School at 7 p.m.

Elk Grove Whips Fremd Gymnasts

Elk Grove and Fremd met last Saturday afternoon on the Elk Grove home apparatus to contest the matter of gymnastics excellence, and when the final score was tallied Elk Grove had secured the victory, 77-55.

In the six events contested the Grenadiers took five firsts and two seconds and their overall depth helped in nailing down the win.

Greg Fenske was outstanding for the Fremd Vikings as he took three second place marks by himself. Add to this Phil Keller's first place win on the side horse and Randy Milford's second on the tramp and that is the bulk of the Fremd scoring.

THE GRENADIERS took the second place on the side horse with Dale Simon winning that spot. On the horizontal bar Bruce Wilberschied gained first place honors for Elk Grove with Fenske second for Fremd.

On the parallel bars Bill Sanders outpointed Fenske to give Elk Grove first place points but Mike Moore teamed with Fenske for second and third. Dale Simon took the ring competition for the Grenadiers but again Fenske copped second place for Fremd.

On the trampoline Jim Evans won the first place honors for the Grenadiers with Fremd's Milford coming up with second. In tumbling the Grenadiers made a clean sweep by taking the top three places. Tony D'Amico took first with George Murphy and Jim Evans winning the two and three spots.

In the sophomore meet the Grenadiers completely handled Fremd and downed them 90½-39½. The Grenadiers won all the first place positions with Bob Helbig winning the trampoline competition, Dale Walther taking the side horse, Tom Valentine winning the high bar, Ben Fernandez winning on the parallel bars and Bill Clark taking first in tumbling.

Fremd's next gymnastics encounter will be this Friday evening at 4:30 when the Vikings will host the Waukegan Bulldogs.

Next competition for the Grenadiers will be Saturday at 2:00 p.m., when the Grovers will travel to Glenbrook South.

Cards Win On Fremd Frosh Mats

Arlington's freshman wrestlers stopped Fremd's last Saturday, working out a 41-15 decision on the Viking mats.

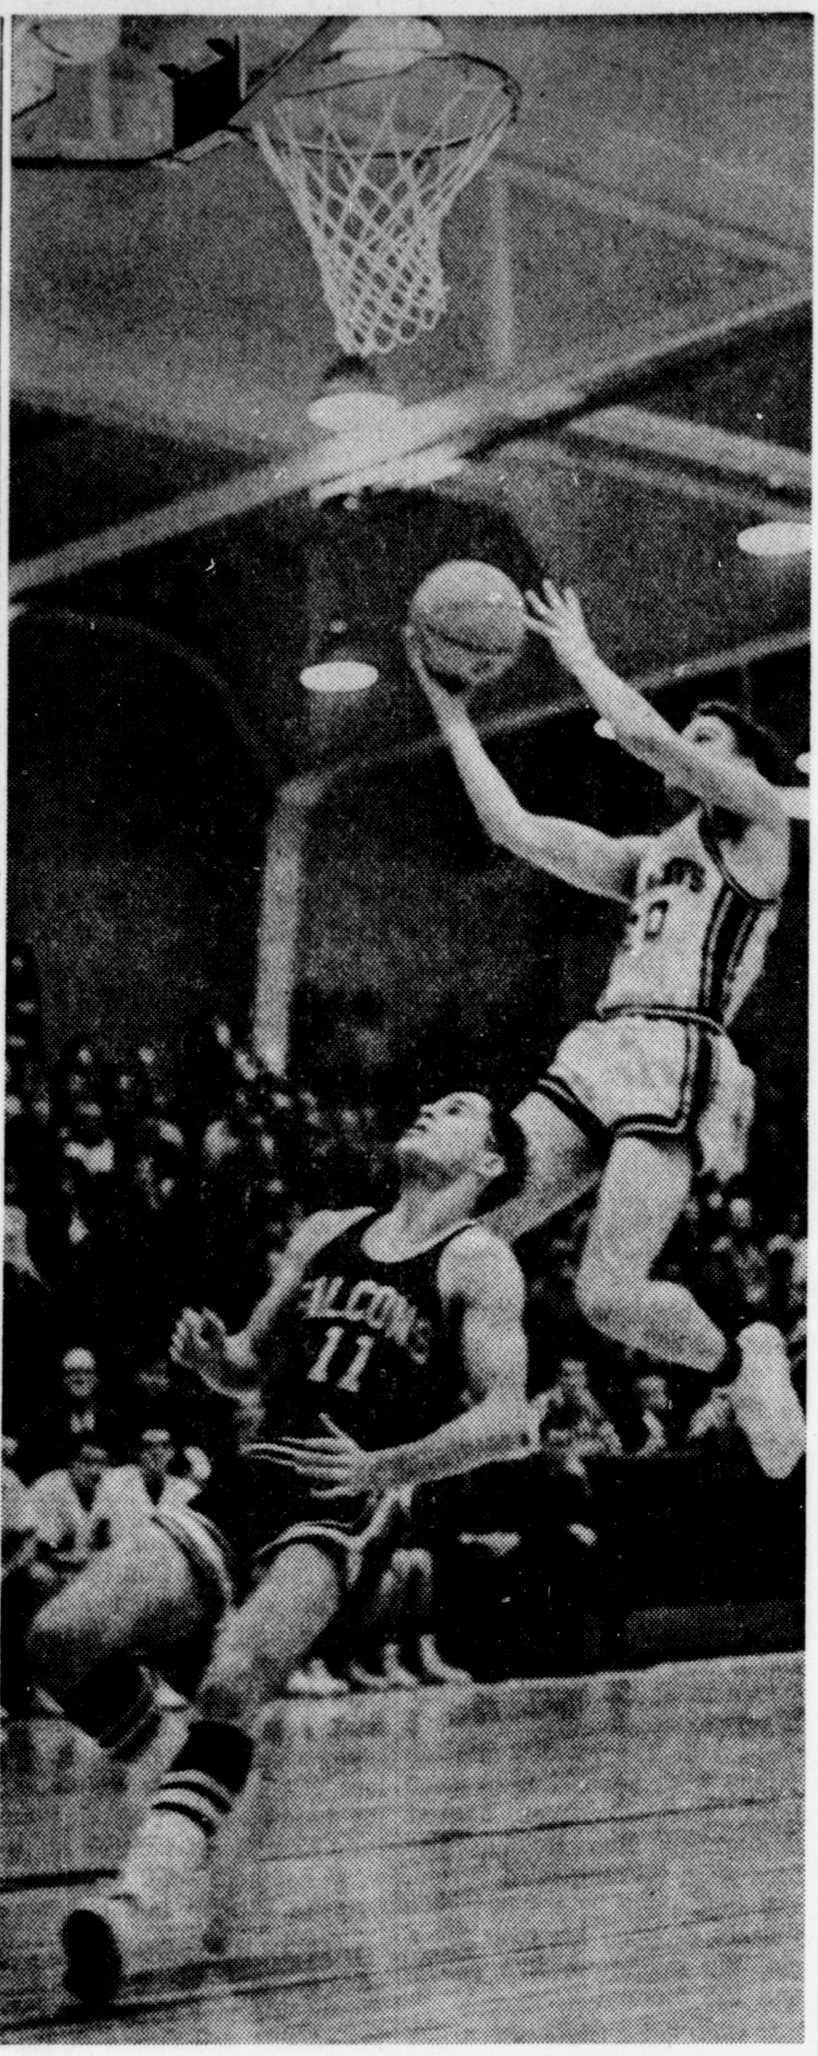
Eight of the bouts were decided by pins in the dual, with Arlington scoring five and Fremd three. The Cards also benefited when Fremd had to forfeit at 120 and 133 pounds.

Winning on pins for Arlington were Todd Shumate at 127 pounds, Anderson at 154, Bill Bergstrom at 165, Weber at 180 and Dick Wells in the heavyweight division. Decisions went to Wakely at 95 and Tim Love at 112 pounds.

For the Vikings, Bob Fiske won on a pin at 103 pounds, as did Mike Menick at 138 and John Bowman at 145.

Yardage Marks

In 1943, Michigan gained an average of 320.0 yards per game rushing—a modern Big Ten record. The passing mark was set by Iowa's Gary Snook in 1964, when he averaged 266.8 aerial yards per contest.



TOO LATE. Forest View's Frank Cavello (11) gets down court ahead of opponent Tom Bastable but not in time to avoid an elevated layup by the Wildcat forward. Despite Bastable's 14-point production, Wheeling came out on the wrong end of a 55-54 decision.

Glenbrook Trounced

Gym Season Opens Happily for Cats

Gathering in blue ribbons in all but one of a dozen events, Wheeling gymnasts coasted to opening day wins in both ends of their encounter with Glenbrook North Friday, the varsity winning 86-46 to follow up an 83-49 frosh-soph triumph.

SOPHOMORE Ed Hawkinson registered the best individual showing of the day, finishing first on both the parallel bars and the high bar and adding a fourth on the side horse and a third on the rings in the lower level clash.

Wayne Selvig's varsity squad came home on top in all matches. Kim Butler was top man on the side horse with teammates Steve Gieger finishing third and Mike Allen fourth.

On the horizontal bar, John Whittington, Dick Rainer and Fritz Hudson finished one, two, four for the Cats. On the parallel bar Mike Bangs in first for Wheeling was pursued by mates Greg Shornden in second and Rainer in fourth.

Rick Orna paved the way to a sweep on the rings, with Lonny Davis and Craig Ovesky the runnersup in second and third respectively.

ON THE TRAMP it was John Grund in first, Charles Milbratz in fourth and Mickey Dyson sixth. Dyson captured the tumbling crown with Shornden in second and Jack Kuffler in third.

In frosh-soph action, Wheeling competitors and their positions were: trampoline, Mike Kivland (1), Gary Morava and Mike Hughes (2) (tie); high bar, Hawkinson (1), Stew Oakley (2), Hughes (4); rings, Bob McCully (2), Hawkinson (3), Oakley (5) side horse, Cliff Hoffman (1), Hawkinson (4), Tom Zasadny (6); parallel bars, Hawkinson (1), Jeff Shornden (3), Morava (4); tumbling, Morava (1), Kniskern (2), Kivland (3).

Falcons' Jayvee Matmen Get By Maine's Demons

The Forest View J.V. wrestlers had a good weekend as they won Friday night by forfeit over Niles East and then finished up the weekend in good style with a 24-22 win over a rugged Maine East team.

The Falcons recorded three pins and three decisions to outpoint the Blue Demons with one fall being the difference in the score. From the 120 pound bout the Falcons were never behind but the score was always close throughout.

Freshman Steve Hansen lost a close 2-1 decision at 95 pounds but Falcon Mike Walden came back with a quick pin in 1:26 to boost the Forest View grapplers into the lead.

From there the Falcons recorded two pins in a row as Brian Wolff downed his man in 1:58 and Bill Sundblom pinned his opponent in 5:18. Bob Budde continued the winning Falcon ways as he bested his opponent 4-1 and then Ron Traub, wrestling at 138, won his match by an identical score.

From there the Falcons dropped three matches in a row with one loss being scored by a fall. Spence Dreischarf gained the last Falcon win of the afternoon at 180 pounds as he outpointed his opponent 4-1.

Pirate JV Mat Team Defeated

Having to forfeit nine of the 12 bouts, Palatine's junior varsity wrestling team fell 55-5 to Glenbrook South last Saturday.

The Pirate JVs, shorted with most of their potential competitors having to work varsity, got their only five points from Steve Ashby. He pinned Glenbrook's Mike Jordan in 5:45 of the battle at 120 pounds.

Titans Top Pirates On Soph Mats

Glenbrook South made it a rough debut for Palatine's sophomore wrestlers last Saturday. The Titans, meeting the Pirates on their own mats, scored a 39-9 victory.

The Palatine points all came on decisions. Art Andrews won 4-2 at 103 pounds, Don Hatch triumphed 7-5 at 120 and Pat Howes made it 6-4 in the heavyweight bout.

Two other young Pirates lost in close decisions, Bill Hathaway falling 3-0 at 127 and Tom Bracken 4-1 at 165.

For Card Varsity

Gym Opener Is Success

For an opener, it was a definite success.

"The boys hit most of their routines and they were well prepared for their first meet," said Arlington High School gymnastics coach Tom Walthouse after his Cardinals ripped Maine South last Friday evening, 83-49.

"We had worked hard," Walthouse continued, "and I thought the attitude and desire shown by the boys were tremendous. The seniors came through as they should and the sophs did very well."

Lee Brown was the individual point leader for the Cardinal varsity, racking up 14 markers with a first on the high bar (5.3, 7.7 routines), third on the parallel bars (7.2, 6.4), and fourth in tumbling (two 3.6 cards).

RICK ATWATER came through with 11 points, adding a second in tumbling (5.8, 5.4) to a tie for first on the trampoline (6.7, 7.4).

Co-captain Art Weidner collected ten points as he ruled the still rings, his specialty, with a 5.3, 5.9 combination and finished fourth on the high bar (4.9, 4.6).

Arlington landed three other firsts with Don Von Ebers coming through with a fine 7.6, 7.5 effort on the parallel bars and co-captain Hank Taylor flashing a 7.0, 6.4 routine on the side horse.

SOPH TERRY HAINES tied teammate Atwater for first place on the trampoline with the judges tagging his routine with 6.9, 7.2 ratings.

Jim Brousseau, another soph, showed well in his varsity debut with a third place (4.2, 5.5) on the high bar.

Other seconds for Arlington were grabbed by Doug Atkins on the side horse, and Rich Carlson on the still rings.

ARLINGTON COASTED to a 88-44 victory in frosh-soph ranks as Bob Gleichman sparkled with a first on the parallel bars (3.7), and seconds on the rings (4.0) and high bar (2.8).

Other firsts for the Cards were picked up by John Isaacs on the trampoline (3.2), Bob Marshall on the high bar (3.1), Kevin Lindsey on the rings (4.2), and Gary Drake in tumbling (4.5).

Arlington's varsity gymnasts will hook up in the rugged Evanston Invitational (see separate story) Friday evening at 7:30 and the two Cardinal squads will travel to New Trier East next Tuesday for competition at 5:00 p.m.

FV Suffers Gym Setback

The Forest View varsity gymnasts failed in their initial bid of the season as they fell to an always powerful Willowbrook team 82-50. The Falcons did not gain one first place in the competition and scored only two seconds in the six events.

The inexperienced Falcons no doubt gained some valuable knowledge as they tangled with Willowbrook as the Warriors will probably be one of the stronger teams in the state.

Mike Damore, one of the better side horse men in the state, finished second in his specialty which is an indication of the competition. Garry Gathman placed fifth in the same event for the Falcons.

ON THE HORIZONTAL bar the best the Falcons could do was a third place and this was taken by Roger Kratowicz. Jim Olmom placed fourth for Forest View. On the parallel bars Len Pergander took a third while Olmon got the fifth place spot.

On the rings the Birds took the fourth, fifth, and sixth places with Dave Cohen, Olmon, and Gathman winning those spots. On the trampoline the Falcons won second (Bill Glab), third (Glenn Owsiany) and fourth (Don Natale).

In tumbling Forest View got third, fourth, and sixth with Olmon, Ed Wilhusen, and Gary Dimas gaining those places.

ON THE SOPHOMORE level the Falcons lost 70½-61½ but put forth a good showing. The sophs captured three first places with two of these being won by Ray Slininka.

Slininka won the horizontal bar and parallel bar competition while Mike Seitz took a first on the trampoline. In tumbling Jim Dagget took a second with Seitz fourth.

Besides Seitz's points on the tramp the Falcons also placed third with Mike Loizzi winning that spot. On the rings Slininka placed second to boost the Falcon effort and the fourth place in that event went to Alan Hafer.

BOB BERGLUND placed third behind Slininka on the parallel bars and Hafer was fourth on the horizontal bar behind Slininka. On the side horse Jim Remsen took second for the Falcons with Walt Alm giving assistance and winning third.

This weekend, Friday and Saturday, the Falcons will travel to Niles North for a meet at 7:30 Friday evening and will then host Niles East on Saturday at 2:00 p.m.

Cardinals Win Soph Mat Meet Against Fremd

Capt. Jack Dabbert fashioned a pin in 32 seconds of the 120-pound test Saturday to spark Arlington's frosh-soph wrestlers to a 32-18 victory over Fremd.

Dabbert was one of five Cardinals to rack up falls during the meet.

Other boys posting pins for the winners were Dick Stanczak at 03 pounds, Denny Meacham at 154, Pat McCoy at 165, and Wally Bednarz at heavyweight.

Cardinal victors by decisions were Gerald Brask at 95 and Greg Smith at 127.

Fremd winners were Chuck Porter at 112, Ed Dolik at 138, Larry MacPhee at 145, and Glenn Wilson at 180.

Arlington's Noel Bauler and Fremd's Tim Gleason were involved in a 2-2 tie at 133.

After League Win

Knights Split; Fall To Touted Evanston

by MARV PRELLBERG, JR.

Prospect's varsity basketball squad came out with an even split last weekend in its two tough cage encounters.

The Knights started the action Friday night in the 1966-67 Mid-Suburban League opener by edging out the host Maine West quintet 58-55, but found the Evanston High cagers to be every bit as potent as advertised and were set back 50-40 the following evening.

Naturally, Prospect's head mentor Dick Kinnemann would like to have claimed victories over both opponents, but at least the hard earned Maine West triumph gave the Knights a good sendoff in their quest for another conference cage title.

THE PROSPECT five had a district height advantage over Maine West with Dave Kingman (6-6) and Tom Lundstedt (6-4) gracing the Knight lineup, but coach Gaston Freeman's Warrior unit kept the Knights going all out during the contest before succumbing by a narrow three point margin.

As the final results indicated, it was the two big men who paced the Friday eve victory for the Prospectors. All-State candidate Lundstedt led the scoring for the locals with 23 points and next in line was Kingman with 18 tallies. This duo also was dominant in the rebounding department, combining to pull down 24 rebounds.

The game statistics confirm the closeness of the contest. Prospect had an 18 for 42 record against a 17 for 41 effort by the Warriors in the field goal shooting division. Each team had 32 chances from the free throw lane, with Prospect making good on one more attempt than did the host school. The personal foul category was even up, 21 apiece.

LUNDSTEDT'S opening tally gave Prospect the lead in the opening seconds of the first quarter, and although being tied several times, the Knights never did fall behind. The Kinnemann quintet led 18-14 going into the second quarter and came out for the second half of play clinging to a four point margin, 33-29.

Kingman and Lundstedt started the Knights rolling in the second half and combined to open up a 41-29 Prospect lead, the largest of the game.

However, Maine West refused to concede defeat and began to slice away at this margin until midway in the last period only four points separated the two teams.

The Warriors crept as close as three points, 56-53, in the final minute of the contest, but Kingman put the game away for the Knights with a field goal in the waning seconds of the encounter for the 58-55 league win.

IN SATURDAY night's tussle at Evanston High, the superior height and rebounding advantage was not available to the Knights. The Wildkits John Turner (6-4) and Farrell Jones (6-6) took this edge away from the Prospect five.

The Mid Suburban League entrants never did hold a lead on the undefeated Evanston regime, but it did keep close enough that a Prospect hotstreak could have turned the tide of the battle.

Unfortunately this hot-streak never did materialize. In fact the Prospect field goal shooting performance against the Wildkit zone defense was definitely not up to par. The Knights hit on only 14 of 44 attempts for a weak 32 per cent record. Evanston shot at a 42 per cent clip from the court to make up for its por 4-14 charity stripe showing.

Prospect was hurt early in the game when Kingman exited after picking up three quick personal fouls.

The Wildkits took a 15-11 lead early in the second quarter and from that point kept in front of Prospect.

The visitors were only four points down going into the final three minutes of combat, but three baskets by the game's high scorer, Turner, erased any ideas the Knights may have had on ekeing out a win in this non-conference tilt.

The weekend split gave Prospect a 3-2 season record.

Prospect Jayvees Split Cage Outings

The Prospect Junior-Varsity cage team never recovered from a poor start in its first contest last weekend, but erased that memory by putting on a heart-stopping finish to claim a win the very next evening.

Coach Don Arseneau's junior Knights were whipped by Maine West 61-49 on Friday evening, but came home with a 58-56 overtime win the next night against Evanston.

Prospect was outscored 32-15 in the first half against Maine West, and this proved too big of a deficit to make up. The Knights outscored the Warriors 34-29 in the second half, but the damage had already been done.

In the battle against Evanston, the locals lost a narrow margin in the waning seconds of the fourth quarter, but Marv Hope's two free throws with 12 seconds remaining in the game gave Prospect a 51-51 tie and forced the contest into an overtime.

It appeared as though the contest would go into another overtime period, until Prospect's Ken Nehmzow was fouled on a shot as the buzzer sounded ending the period. Nehmzow cashed in on the free throw opportunity, and Prospect claimed the exciting 58-56 win.

Christy, Miller Capture Only Cardinal Tank Wins

Lowell Christy and Bob Miller fashioned the only Arlington High firsts last Friday evening as the Cardinal swimmers suffered a 66-29 loss to East Leyden in the dual opener of the 1966-67 season.

Christy, a varsity veteran, clipped off a 1:05.9 clocking in the 100 yard backstroke, and Miller ruled the diving alignment with a 47.75 effort.

The Cardinals did show four individual seconds thanks to John Erickson and Dick Robinson.

Erickson showed a 1:07.5 in the 100 breaststroke and 2:24.6 in the 200 individual medley for his two runnerup positions.

Robinson had a 24.9 in the 50 free and 57.7 in the 100 freestyle events.

East Leyden also won the frosh-soph meet, 69-26.

Coach John Gardner's Cardinal tankers were slated to travel to Lake Forest yesterday (Wednesday). Arlington will journey to St. Viator Saturday afternoon (2:30) and to Maine West next Tuesday (4:00).

Most Paydirt Plunges

Fullback Tony Butkovich, who toiled for Purdue in 1943, set the all-time Big Ten scoring mark that year with 13 touchdowns for 78 points.

Lion Tankers Drop Opener

As far as the swimmers from Marquette (Wis.) High School are concerned, the trip to Arlington Heights last Friday was well worth the time and effort.

It develoepd into a profitable venture when Marquette's 400 yard freestyle relay team splashed to victory in the final event to pull away from a tie and record a thrilling 51-44 triumph.

Heading into the final race, the two squads were deadlocked at 44-all. But the Marquette quartet flashed to a 3:46.3 clocking to head the Lions who came in at 3:49.2.

PAT QUINN of Marquette was the individual standout with pool records in the 200 individual medley (2:14.0) and 400 yard freestyle (4:20).

The host Lions showed two team records thanks to Fred Schmidt and Bill Saigh.

Schmidt splashed to a 2:20.1 in the 200 yard individual medley, almost six full seconds behind Quinn but still a St. Viator mark.

Saigh had a swift 1:05 in the 100 yard backstroke.

COACH CHARLES Mondi's St. Viator entry turned in two strong relay performances despite bowing in the finale.

Saigh, Rick Kalinowski, Kaminski, and Ed Vallely registered a 1:51.3 first place effort in the 200 yard medley relay, almost a full second better than the Lions' winning time in the recent St. Viator Relays.

Harry Frossard, Gary Fern, Marty Wendell, and Bill Richardson teamed up in the 400 yard freestyle event.

Scoring other firsts for St. Viator were Dave Chantry in diving with a 50.95 effort (teammate Mullan was second at 49.-40) and Schmidt in the 100 yard fly (1:03).

Lion coach Mondi cited the excellent splits by Fern in the 400 yard freestyle relay (57.5) and Kaminski in the 200 yard medley relay (27.2).

ST. VIATOR won the frosh-soph meet with ease, 71-24, with some impressive efforts turned in by Mark Abate, Rich Lynch, Herb Klein, Ed Martin, and Randy Bocian.

The young Lions turned in relay times of 2:03.7 in the 200 medley and 1:47.5 in the 200 freestyle.

St. Viator is scheduled to host neighboring Arlington this Saturday afternoon at 2:30 and swim at Lake Forest next Monday afternoon at 4:30.

Wildcats Split On Frosh Mats; Tip Niles West

Wheeling's frosh grapplers emerged from their first week of combat with a 1-1 record, squeezing out a 28-26 decision over Niles West after dropping a 35-23 battle to Deerfield a day earlier.

Five of the Wildcat wrestlers were double winners including Rich LaScola's finale triumph in the heavyweight division against the Indians spelling the difference between victory and defeat.

Trailing going into the last event Saturday, Wheeling needed a win by fall to cop the team triumph. A win by decision would have knotted the final score.

LaScola accomplished the pin, taking just 1:03 seconds. A day earlier he had pinned a Warrior opponent in just 29 seconds.

Others to win in both outings for the Cats were Al Stavros in the 103-pound class (both by decisions), Gary Schweitzer in the 120-pound category (a decision Friday and a pin Saturday), Johnson in the 138-pound division (two pins), and Ken Rainey, 165 pounds, (two pins).

Only other Wheeling win over Deerfield was posted by Bruce Myers in the 112-pound class, via a pin.

Against the Indians, the triumph was also helped along by Mike Raiman (95-pounds, decision) and Jim Knotts (133, pin).

Arlington Soph Wrestlers Win

Pins in the last three weight classes highlighted Arlington's 33-16 soph wrestling victory over Glenbrook South last Friday.

The Cardinals, coached by Bruce Glover, held a slim two-point lead when Denny Meacham flattened his opponent in 1:50 of the third period at 165.

It was all Arlington after that as Jim Ulrich fashioned a pin in 1:45 at 180 and Wally Bednarz a second period fall at heavyweight.

Tops Brass Rail

Sports Chalet Adds To Classic Cushion

It might be that the men on the Sports Chalet bowling team competing in the Paddock Classic Traveling League are just plain anti-social.

Or it might be that they can't stand the pressure of a tight contest.

Whatever the reason, the Sports Chalet team dumped the Brass Rail quintet from second to third place Saturday and increased their own hold on first place by putting eight points between themselves and second place Morton Pontiac.

The Railers were't able to pick up a single point as Joe Simonis and company really cleaned house. Simonis was the big gun in the Sports Chalet scoring punch with an excellent 638 score for the evening.

But Joe didn't do it alone and had plenty of help from Tom Kouros who tumbled the timber at a 611 clip. Those were two of the best series rolled during the night and for the Sports they couldn't have come at a better time.

BUT OTHER changes were taking place in team standings and while perhaps not as exciting, they were changes just the same, which means that somebody was doing something.

For instance, did you know that City Welding is no longer in the cellar and that Jeffery Lanes now holds that dubious honor? Well, that's the way it is with Elk Grove Bowl right between the two of them.

The Sports Chalet group had a fine night. Besides Simonis and Kouros, the other three team members, Frank Graff, Ken Heise, and George Schmidt, all had series of 580 or better. Simonis' effort boosts him over the magic 200 game average and he alone is able to boast that distinction this week.

BUT WALT Lofthouse was doing his level best to stem the tide of Chalet power and he countered Simonis' 638 series with a 638 score of his own. He had three fine games and his 236 was even higher than Joe's 232 effort. Harry Both had a 591 series to be second man for the Railers but other scores did not come up to give the Brass Rail enough support.

Morton Pontiac picked up two points to move one slot ahead of the Brass Rail, but they dropped their match to Elk Grove Bowl and watched the Bowlers gain five points. Angelo Petrarca had the best series for Elk Grove and scored a 597 effort which was high for the match. Jim Kordares also had a good night and had a 561 series.

George White had the high series for Morton with a 557 total and all the other Pontiac scores were consistent with that.

KARLSEN PHARMACY had a good night and gained five points in team standings by downing Bill Cook Buick. A 582 by Ernie Koche was the high series for the match with Bill Smith scoring 581 to give the Druggists a good one-two punch. Ted Geiersbach was high man for Bill Cook with a 568 posting.

City Welding completely handled the Jeffery Lanes contingent and picked up a big seven points in the process. Bernie Hansen had the high series for the Welders with a 601 but fell one short of the match high which belonged to Rudy Casciotti who had a 602.

This weekend at Beverly Lanes, where the Paddock Women's league also is scheduled, Elk Grove Bowl will tangle with Jeffery Lanes while Karlsen Pharmacy will face The Brass Rail. Sports Chalet will battle City Welding and Bill Cook Buick will take on Morton Pontiac.

Lattof Rolls On

Women Show Average Week in Loop Action

It was a so-so week in competition in the Paddock Women's Classic Traveling League with nobody really going wild and nobody really doing that bad.

There was little excitement, but the gals continued to roll consistent games.

Tiny Davis of the Morton Pontiac team had a 597 series but she was the only one close to 600 although Ann Neumann of the Wheel Inn team had a 584.

Still in all, it wasn't as good a week as the gals have had a number of times recently. And places in standings haven't changed enough to write home about. The Lattof Chevrolet team still leads by their seven point margin while Striking Lanes hangs in there in second place. Wheel Inn is in the third place spot and Morton Pontiac has complete possession of fourth.

SYLVIA'S FLOWERS is in fifth place just one point back of Morton and River Rand Bowl is in last place, a full 26 points off the first place pace. Things don't look good for Rand Road.

The Lattof old reliables came through again this past weekend as Vi Douglas and Joanne Christiansen both had their usual fine series. Vi had a 552 mark and Joanne tallied a 537. For River Rand the best they could muster was a 531 series rolled by Gloria Lucchesi. The other River Rand gals were not up for the evening and their scores were average at best.

Lucille Schoenberger rolled a 534 series to lead the Striking Lanes team and keep them in contention. Frances Dax had a 525 mark to help the cause as the Laners picked up four points in their outing with Sylvia's.

FOR SYLVIA'S only Marlene Smith bested the 500 mark and she had a 522 series. The other Flower girls seem to have had an off night which didn't help their standings situation.

The gals from Wheel Inn and Morton Pontiac had the best night as far as scoring was concerned as all five Wheelers were over 500 and four of five Morton girls were over that mark.

Of course, Tiny Davis' 597 was the big mark for Morton and Ann Neumann's 584 was the high for Wheel Inn but Delores Harris, Louise Lass, Winnie Lohse, and Bonnie Kuhn all had good games for the Wheelers and Ruthmary Baurhyte, Vi Herman, and Esther Hugo were all over 500 for Morton.

There were no new marks set during the weekend competition and things leveled off but this next weekend may bring new surprises and excitement.

December 10th's schedule at Beverly Lanes, where the Paddock Men's Classic league matches also will be held, will match River Rand Bowl with Striking Lanes, Wheel Inn with Lattof Chevrolet, and Sylvia's Flowers with Morton Pontiac.

Forest View Gains Split In Swimming

The Forest View tankers split a double dual swim meet held last Friday at Glenbrook South by losing to host Glenbrook 109-71 but winning over Prospect 71-42.

In the varsity 50 yard free style Harry Abrahamson took the first place honor as he covered the distance in 24.5 which is pretty good clocking for this time of the season.

Abrahamson took the second place in the 100 yard free style and Mike Bodozian took a strong second in the 200 yard free style to add to the Falcon point total.

In the 400 yard free style relay the Falcons took the number one spot after Glenbrook South was disqualified for an infraction. The four Forest View swimmers on the relay team were Dave Venlos, Mike Dawson, Greg Hahn, and Keith Brown. The four swam the 400 yards in 3:49.1.

On the frosh-soph level the Falcons lost their bid against Glenbrook South 116-69 but defeated the neighboring Knights 69-50. The young Falcons captured no first places in the lower level meet.

Cat Cagers Tip Falcons In JV Match

Robin Melzer's board-cleaning ability and Jay Newman's hot hand rocketed the Wheeling JVs into a 47-40 decision over Forest View Friday to lift the lid on the conference campaign.

Melzer plucked off 16 rebounds and added 13 to the scoreboard to highlight the win for the hosts. The Wildcats moved into a commanding 16-7 advantage at the end of the first stanza and never faltered.

In the fourth period, Newman helped Wheeling maintain the bulge by bucketing six-for-six at the free throw line. He tallied 18 for the evening to take game scoring honors.

Fred Lauing paced the visitors with 14 pointers.

Pirate JVs Edge Lions

Gary Holloway tossed in 18 points last Saturday to lead Palatine's junior-varsity Pirates to a 55-52 victory over St. Viator.

The Palatine outfit hit 20 of 57 from the floor and 15 of 20 from the free throw line in registering the triumph.

Backing Holloway for the winners were Brian Scholl with 12, Scott Smith with eight, and Bob Mathews with seven.

Soph John Brawley topped St. Viator with 15 points. Reising had 13 markers and 13 rebounds.

Lions Coast To JV Win

carried St. Viator's jayvee basketball team to a convincing 68-40 victory over Maryville Academy Monday afternoon.

Trailing by one point after the opening stanza, the Lions erupted to take a 34-19 lead into the locker room at the intermission.

Bill Reising was high for St. Viator with 12 points. Don Reising tossed in 11 and John Brawley seven.

Longest Runs

The longest run from scrimmage ever in Big Ten competition was a 100 yard jaunt by Mickey Erehart of Indiana in a game played in 1912 against Iowa.

The longest run from scrimmage of more recent vintage is a 96 yarder by halfback Eddie Vincent of Iowa in a game against Purdue in 1954.

'Cats Top Deerfield In Overtime, 71-69

by KEITH REINHARD

Wheeling's hoopsters hopped back onto the win wagon Saturday, slipping past a lanky Deerfield gang in the final seconds of an overtime stanza to record their third win in four outings, 71-69.

Trailing most of the way, coach Mike Owens' charges caught fire with less than two minutes of play remaining and went on to avenge three straight defeats issued by the Warriors during the past two seasons. A last-ditch free throw by Jeff Winterburg propelled the game into overtime 65-65 and Scott Bischoff's final-second antics provided the margin of victory for the visiting crew.

Equally important to the rosy complexion of the outcome was Tom Bastable's continued aggressive play, despite the fact that his slight six-foot frame usually dwarfs him in the key along side of giant centers and husky forwards. Saturday evening it had him bumping heads with 6-7 center Ned Gardner and with the latter usually coming off second best.

BASTABLE pilfered 16 rebounds and joined with Dan Devito to set a fast-breaking game pace that eventually melted the hosts. When Bastable fouled out with less than two minutes remaining in the regulation game, the slack was taken up by his younger brother Jack, playing the same type of aggressive game.

The Bastable brothers accounted for 27 of Wheeling's count.

It was Bischoff, however, nabbing 12 rebounds and pacing Cat scoring with 19 points, who clinched the squeaker.

IN THE overtime, Jack Bastable made it 67-65 with a 20-foot jump after 30 seconds had elapsed. Rick Kadison countered for the Warriors from 15 feet out but fouled Winterburg several moments later and the Wildcat guard slipped in both tries.

Scott Ascher of Deerfield made it 69-all with 1:30 showing, dumping in a rebound. Wheeling subsequently called a time out and came back with the intention of holding on for a last-second shot. This plan went awry when the hosts stole the ball and Kadison tried another of his specialty, an outside jump.

When it failed to connect, Bischoff gathered in the rebound, took several steps, fell victim to Kadison's downfield tackle and earned a 1-1 situation with five seconds remaining. He made good on both attempts.

A succession of free throws paved the way for the overtime situation. Behind two to nine points from the opening whistle on, Wheeling went ahead for the first time when Bischoff put in a rebound with 1:23 showing. Ascher put the hosts one up with two free tosses, then Jack Bastable made good on two of them for the Cats. Jerry Carper of the Warriors countered with a pair, and finally Winterburg, fouled in the act of shooting with 18 seconds remaining, missed his first and made his second to knot it up at 65-65.

Fenton Triumphs

Slow Start Sinks Grove

by BOB NORDIN

If the Elk Grove Grenadiers had played all four quarters like they did the third and fourth in their game with Fenton last Saturday, the outcome might have been much different.

As it was the Grenadiers played ice-cold ball in the first two periods and lost the final decision, 44-36.

The loss drops the Grovers to a 3-3 record for the season after suffering a Friday night loss to Palatine. The Grenadiers, under the direction of Bob Rees, had been somewhat of a surprise as they took three out of their first four games but the past weekend proved to be disastrous.

In the first half the Grovers scored only ten points as visiting Fenton racked up 28 to take a commanding lead. In the second period the Grenadiers made only two field goals for the total period scoring effort. There were only three fouls called during the first half, all on the Grovers, in a game that in some ways resembled a football contest.

THE THIRD PERIOD was all Elk Grove as they worked for 15 counters with Denny Jones gaining the bulk of the total with six. John Knopf hit for three points but throughout the game he was not as accurate as he has been in other outings.

The Bisons were held to only three points in the period as the Elk Grove defense came alive. The fourth period was almost a standoff as Elk Grove gained 11 and Fenton worked for 13. Five of the Grenadier total were earned by guard Gary Pleickhardt as he hit for two field goals and one free throw.

The first two periods were the difference in this ball game as the Grenadiers simply did not play good ball. But when they let loose they did a good job as they contained and outplayed the Bisons in the second half.

Pleickhardt turned in the top scoring performance for the Grenadiers as he tallied ten points. He had three field goals and hit four of six from the charity line. Jones had eight for the night and Jim Oplt gained seven.

The next Elk Grove basketball contest will be Friday, December 9th when the Grenadiers will play host to the Niles West squad in a J.V. battle. A sophomore preliminary game with Prospect will begin at 7:00 p.m.

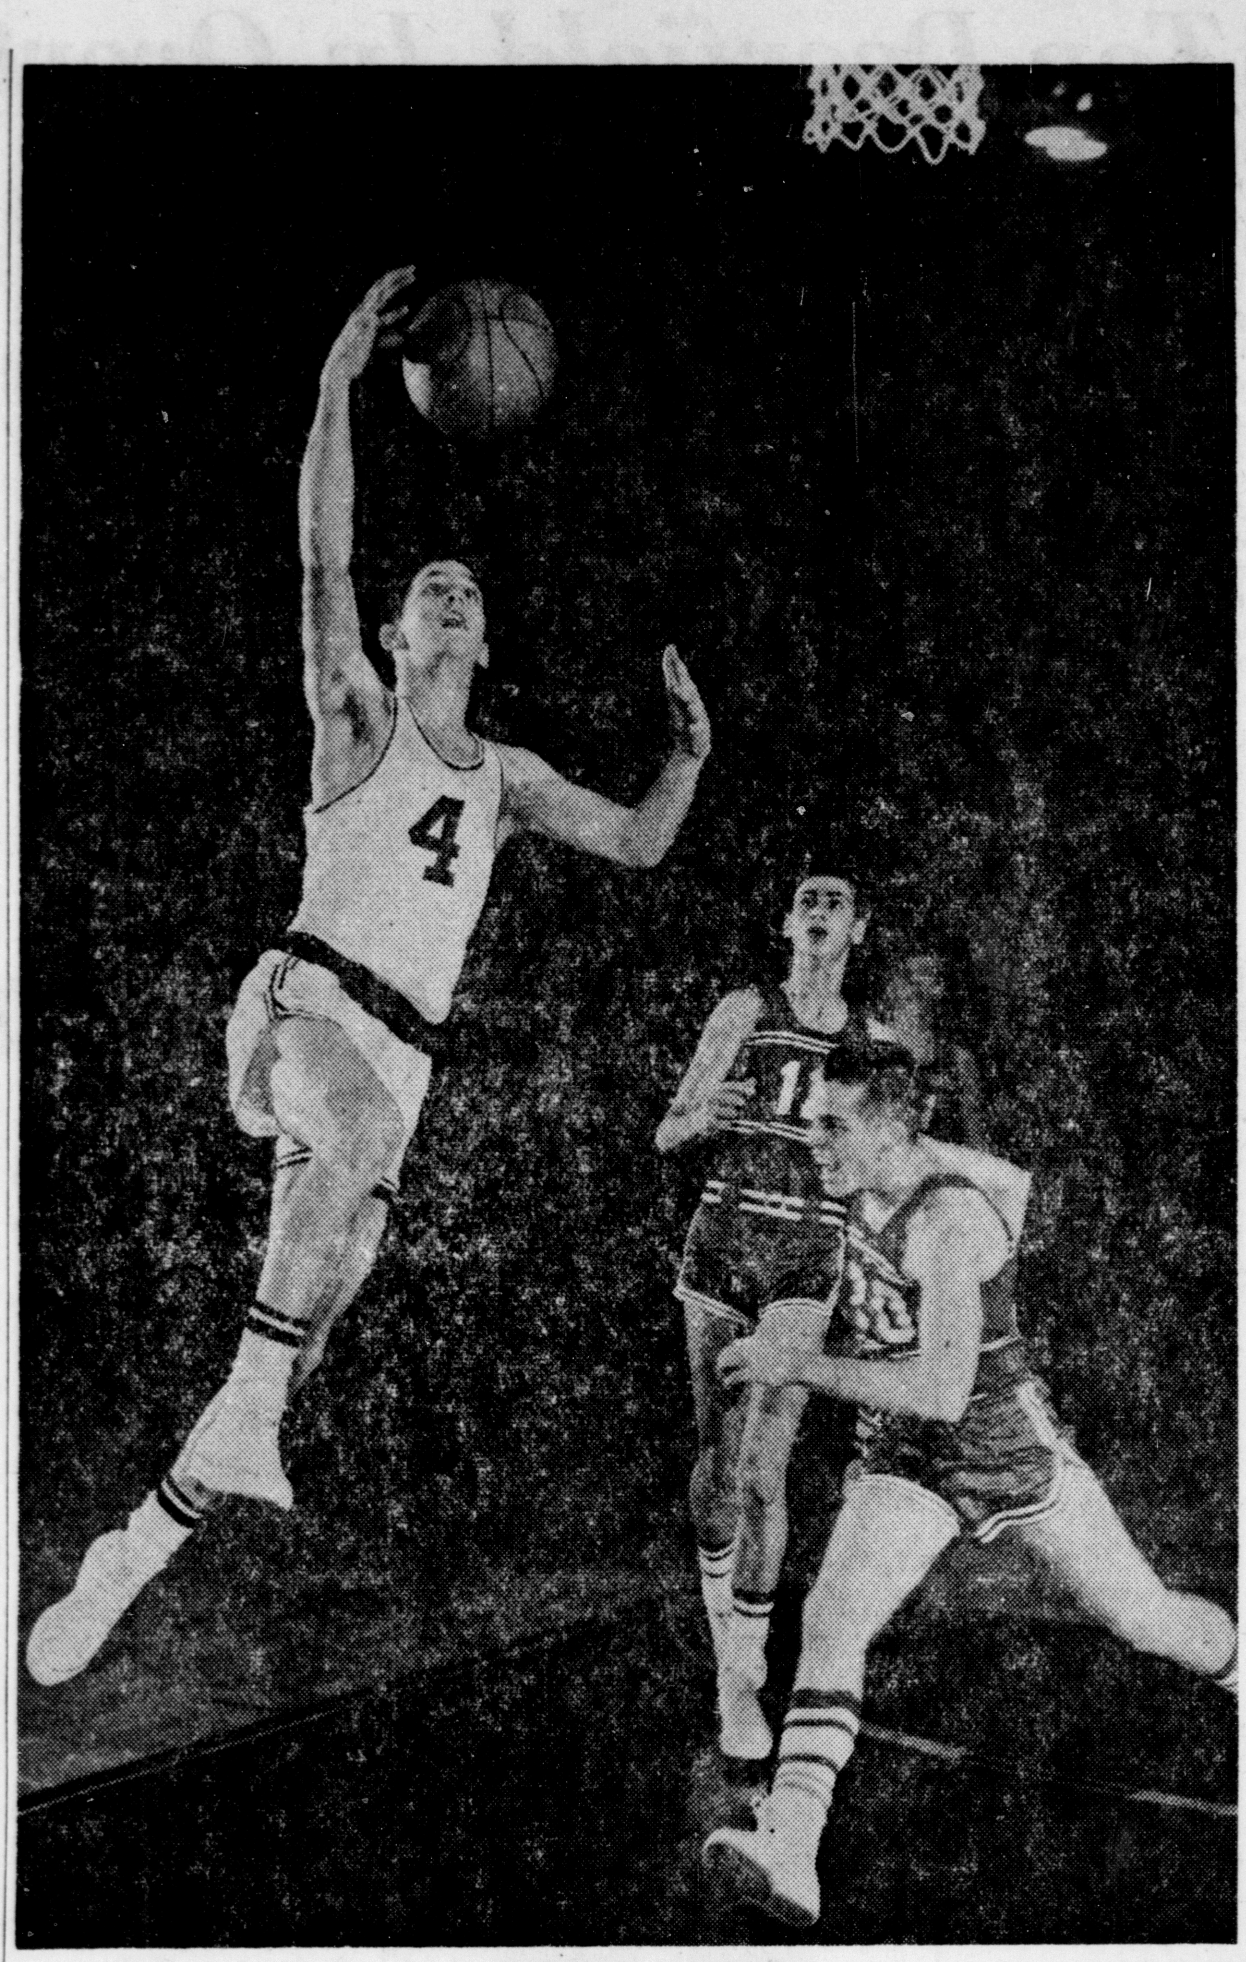
He Got His Kicks

The best season a punter has had in modern Big Ten history was in 1955, when Kevin Kleber of Minnesota averaged 44.2 yards per kick.



JUST TWO OF MANY. Flying through the air with the greatest of ease is St. Viator's Frank Hogan (4) with Palatine's Mike Lea (in background) and John Ekeberg coming up on defense. Hogan put in the basket here and added 24 more points Saturday evening in leading host St. Viator to a 78-51 victory over the Pirates. (Staff photo by Bob Strawn)

Falcons Keep Hex on Wheeling, 55-54

by KEITH REINHARD

Tradition, no matter how lengthy, can sometimes be a difficult thing to upset. Wheeling's cage squad found this out the hard way Friday evening when an upstart band from Forest View issued them their first defeat in three outings, 55-54, to usher in the new Mid-Suburban League campaign.

True, the Wildcat trend toward improvement was observed when the Falcons came to town. After being bombed twice by Forest View their first year in operation and dropping a pair again last season by somewhat lesser margins, it was expected that Cat desire for continued betterment this winter would eclipse even the four-point span of victory honed by Forest View last time.

In maintaining that gap-narrowing impetus, Wheeling failed to take into consideration Bucky Jones.

THE SIX-FOOT Falcon veteran brought unerring accuracy into the match and had ample opportunity to display it at the charity line. In a nip-and-tuck fray decided primarily at the free-throw stripe, Jones dumped in 11 straight to offset a strong Wheeling bid buffered by another six-footer, Tom Bastable.

Ironically, it was the same Bastable who's 14 points and 16 rebounds put Wheeling right at Forest View's heels, that missed on two jumpers in the waning seconds to give the visitors the nod.

The triumph clearly established coach Ken Arneson and the returning MSL co-champs as a contender for the upcoming conference crown. In forging their fifth straight over Wheeling in three seasons, Forest View yielded a five-point first quarter advantage and went into the final half and final period two points down.

THE VISITORS regained the lead shortly after the last quarter commenced and after exchanging the advantage several times, moved into a three-point bulge going into the last two minutes.

Scott Bischoff reduced this to one slim point as the game entered its final minute of play but an effective Falcon stall eliminated any further Wheeling scoring until Bastable's final, futile attempts.

Jones, who tallied 19 to garner game scoring honors, and spunky teammate Frank Cavello, with 14, picked up 17 free tosses jointly to outdo the entire Wildcat quintet. Wheeling didn't have one opportunity to counter the fourth-quarter Forest View surge at the free throw line and hit on only 50 per cent of their tries from there all evening.

While bringing Wheeling's win skien to a halt at two, Arneson's boys also snapped out of their own two-game losing string.

Lion Five Impresses In Win Over Pirates

by JIM NORDIN

Superiority is considered to be determined by the final score of any given contest.

If that is the case it must be determined that the St. Viator basketball team is far superior to Palatine because the Lions easily handled the Pirates 78-51 Saturday on the Lion floor.

The Lions took control early and at the end of the first period of play they had a commanding 18-9 lead that they continued to build upon as the game progressed.

Frank Hogan, Lion guard, had a fine evening and dumped in a total of 26 points for the evening to lead the Viator offense. Hogan hit on 10 of 16 from the floor and was six for ten from the charity stripe.

DAN COLLINS also did a more than creditable job for the Lions as he sank seven of 13 field goal attempts and was four for five from the line for an 18 point effort. Lion Bill Yaeger was also in the double figures, tossing in 13 points for the evening.

For the Pirates only Doug Spruance was able to break double figures in the scoring column as he totaled 13 points for the night. He had only three field goals but hit seven for nine from the free throw line. Dick Smith was the second man for the Pirates in scoring and he had eight points for the night.

The story of the game is told in the fact that the Pirates had only 13 field goals for the evening while the Lions were throwing in 27. The Lions had a fine night from the floor as they hit better than 50 per cent of their shots.

THE ST. VIATOR quintet started right out by putting the pressure on Palatine and never let up throughout the ball game. After jumping out to a quick lead the Lions continued to pour it on and control the ball game.

At the end of the second period the Lions had a lead of 45-24 and the tenacious St. Viator defense had the Pirates at their command. In the first half the Pirates scored six buckets from the floor as the Lions made life miserable.

The second half went little better for the Pirates as the Lions held the driving hand. One Pirate basket in the third quarter came because one of the Lions was called for goal tending but even this help did little for the Palatine cause. At the end of the third period of play the Pirates were down by an almost insurmountable 62-37.

EVEN IN THE FINAL period the Lions outscored the Pirates as St. Viator tallied 16 to Palatine's 14 points.

For the Pirates this most certainly must have been a disappointing game while for the Lions, on the other hand, it was a satisfying and impressive win. The Pirates now have a record of 1-2 for the season while St. Viator has a 2-1 mark.

Just Like Football

Cards' League Cage Debut Is Easy Win

by BOB FRISK

League debuts seem to bring out the best in Arlington High School—and Steve Allen.

When the Cardinals made their Mid-Suburban League football debut, they wrecked a host Palatine eleven, 48-6, with an awesome display of offensive power.

Allen, an All-State quarterback, enjoyed the finest day of his prep gridiron career in that rout, passing for four touchdowns and 359 total yards.

Arlington made another debut last Friday evening and thoroughly enjoyed this introduction to Mid-Suburban League basketball warfare.

COACH TED Wissen's Cardinals jumped out to a 16-2 lead in the first six minutes of play and coasted to an effortless 76-44 victory over the scrappy but outmanned Conant Cougars.

And Allen was the ring-leader in this rout too. He threw in 31 points to equal the top performance of his varsity career, another 31-point effort achieved in regional play last winter.

It was strictly no contest Friday as Conant dug a hole for itself early with numerous floor errors and could never climb out against the more experienced Cardinals.

THE COUGARS didn't score a field goal until guard Ed Johnson fired one in from the deep corner with 1:01 remaining in the opening stanza.

Arlington raced off to a 16-2 advantage in the first six minutes with every member of the starting five contributing, and Wissen's outfit, now unbeaten in four outings, enjoyed a 20-6 lead in the first period break.

Conant committed nine turnovers in that opening period and had 17 at halftime as the visitors clamped on an effective full-court press.

THE COUGARS, who had blitzed Addison Trail in a non-league opener, showed some signs of life on the attack in the second period, but it was too little and too late.

Arlington took a 35-19 lead into the locker room at halftime, and Allen was just warming up. The 6-3 sharpshooter, who can work at either forward or guard with effectiveness, had 11 at the intermission.

The first minute of the third period belonged to Allen. He hit two jumpers and a free throw to ignite still another Arlington offensive explosion.

THE CARDINALS had a 23-point lead (53-30) with 2:46 left in the third quarter and took a comfortable 22-point cushion into the final eight minutes of competition.

Allen tossed in 14 points in the third period as he began to threaten his own career high and even the Arlington school mark for a single game.

The fourth period was strictly for the coaches as they worked with different combinations and got a chance to see some of the reserves in action, fully aware that bench strength is vital over a long season.

ALLEN HAD HIS 31st point with 3:03 remaining and he retired to the sidelines shortly thereafter as Wissen went to his bench for the windup.

Terry Townley, 5-11 senior guard, joined Allen in the double figures department for the winners. Terry tossed in 10 points.

Jim Gracen, 6-7 center who saw extensive service when regular Jim Donchess ran into some foul problems, contributed nine and Dave Lockwood and Steve Conley had eight each.

George Schenck was high for Chic Anderson's Cougars with 10 points. Chris Shadwell, who received a starting nod after his fine relief work in the rout of Addison Trail, followed Schenck with nine, and Johnson had eight after a 26-point night in the season lidlifter.

Over Card Five

Conant Jayvees Win in Overtime

Although the varsity game wasn't much of a contest, there was an exciting junior-varsity struggle staged last Friday evening at Conant High School.

Conant's host Cougars, guided by Bill Laumann, staged a fourth period rally to knot the score and then scored two baskets in overtime for a thrilling 55-51 victory over visiting Arlington High.

Don Schieler hit a jump shot from the side and then fired a perfect pass to Walt Rieble for a layup for the decisive Cougar points in this Mid-Suburban League opener for both schools.

Arlington hit a cold streak in the three-minute overtime and couldn't cash in on numerous scoring opportunities.

WITH R. J. COLLINS leading a first period charge Arlington moved into a quick 14-8 lead, but the Cougars chopped away at the advantage and only trailed by four at halftime, 23-19.

Rieble, the 6-2, 206-pound junior center, had 10 at halftime for the Cougars.

Arlington held a 39-35 lead after three periods thanks to some closing work by Dave McGuffey, and the Cards moved into a 43-37 advantage with 5:30 left in the game when Conant started to fight back.

RIEBLE, Eric Schuster, and John Moffat were the ring-leaders in the Cougar uprising. Conant jumped into a 47-43 lead late in the stanza before Keith Culberson canned a 15-footer and Doug Somers rifled one in from the corner for Arlington.

Conant took the lead again, the Cards tied it up on Larry Wadzita's steal and layup, and then Schieler hit from the side for the hosts.

With 30 seconds remaining Arlington's John Theroux replied to a pressure-packed situation by dropping in two free throws to knot the score at 51-all.

BOTH CLUBS had shots in the closing seconds but couldn't connect, sending the game into overtime.

Rieble was high for Conant with 24 points on ten baskets and four free throws. Schieler had 13, and Moffat and Schuster eight each.

Collins dialed 15 for coach Fran Somers' Cards. McGuffey chipped in ten and Culberson and Theroux nine each.

Arlington will entertain Wheeling this Friday evening and Conant will travel to Palatine in league contests.

Cats Defeat Deerfield In JV Tilt

A nine-point fourth-quarter outburst all but buried a Deerfield quintet as Ted Ecker's junior varsity Wheeling crew posted their fourth straight of the new basketball campaign Saturday, 42-33.

A free-throw by Jim Weber started it off, after the host Warriors had fought back to within one point of the Wildcats 30-29. A subsequent 15-foot jump by Jim Muelhausen, a layup by Weber, two free pitches by Mike Hatten and a close in jumper by Jay Newman during the next four minutes hiked the lead to 39-29 and Deerfield never recovered.

The Warriors had led at the end of the opening period, 14-13, but the Wheeling defense grew taught over the next two quarters, giving up just nine points.

First Win, 60-42

Pirates Drop Grove Squad

by KEN KNOX

The first win was not long in coming for Palatine's basketball varsity, and—as it happened in football—Elk Grove paid the price.

The Pirates gradually broke free in what started as a closely-contested struggle, and ended by throttling the Grenadiers 60-42. The decision evened the records on both sides, for the win was Palatine's first after an opening loss under new headman Norm Jones and the loss was the second in four varsity efforts for Bob Rees' young Elk Grove crew.

The game, for much of its duration, was not a contest of 18 points difference. It remained a battle into the third quarter, when the Pirates—after taking the lead to stay at 6:07 of the second—muffled the Grenadiers with a single field goal and four points total.

That was the crucial quarter, for the Pirates—after building to a nine-point halftime lead—then settled to play the game on their terms. They played for the good shots, and they set up a defense so dense around their own basket that the Grenadiers couldn't penetrate.

TO GET TO that position of command, the Pirates had to gradually wear down the Grenadiers. Though EG led only three times—at 4-3, 5-4 and 18-17—the Grenadiers wouldn't let the Pirates break away. They clung persistently and to the delight of a Friday night home crowd.

In the first period, it was fouls and forward John Knopf that kept them in contention. Both sides were stung with the fouls, with 15 being whistled in that period, and Grove turned eight of them into points. Knopf personally hit six of eight and added a field goal for all but six of his team's points.

The Pirates kept their scoring spread, with all five starters contributing in the first period. That balance, and strong contributions from three reserves, finally started the Grenadiers tottering in the second period.

THE VICTORS used some defensive pressing and controlled fast breaks to finally generate an edge. Helping key the effort—off the bench—were forward Brian McCartney and guards Fred Bahn and John Ekeberg.

McCartney started the momentum at the onset of the second quarter, when he dropped in a fast break layup to put Palatine ahead 17-14, and Bahn—with a three-point play at 2:08 of the quarter—boosted the Pirates to nine in front. But it was Ekeberg who made the biggest contributions, putting Palatine ahead to stay at 19-18 and generally sparking the surge.

The biggest moments as Palatine pulled away came between 6:07 and 2:08 of the second period. The Pirates outscored the Grenadiers 15-5 in that stretch, with Ekeberg and Dick Smith hitting twice, McCartney adding another basket, Doug Spruance—who tied teammate Mike Lea for the night's high with 12 points—hitting one shot, and Bahn his three-pointer. The Grenadiers simply couldn't keep up with the aroused pace of the Pirates, and they never got back into contention.

Palatine widened the gap with its deliberate third quarter, and in the fourth—after both teams had been plagued by fouls was stricken the final blow when three starters fouled out consecutively.

Any hope of coming back then was stifled for the Grenadiers, and the reserves for both sides played it to the end.

Fall Play Goes On TV Videotape

Six members of Palatine High School's fall play, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," travelled to Northwestern University last week to videotape a scene from the play.

Doug Davidson, Jan Maycan, Jim Lever, June Harrison, Bob Carter, and Laura Mundsinger were filmed by members of the senior drama organization at Northwestern. John Terry, production manager at WNWC radio station in Arlington, and a senior at Northwestern, produced the film as part of his senior project, which entails production of a variety show, a quiz show and a play cutting.

Terry's technical crew designed a set similar to the one created for the Palatine stage. The video taping was held in a closed studio complete with cameras, microphones and video screens.

THE CREW was faced with the problem of adapting different voice and stage techniques, as the play was approached as a television show rather than a live play. According to Jan, "After we learned to project our lines for a live audience, we had to learn how to lower our voices to avoid blasting the mike. Doug forgot to lower his."

When the filming was completed, the cast viewed the finished product. June said, "I didn't realize that my voice sounded the way it did or that my facial expressions looked the way they did to the audience."

Terry said he was pleased with the results of the film. After his assignment is graded, he plans to try to sell the film to a Chicago television station.

'Deep in December' Deep in Planning

By TERRI O'ROURKE

With the holiday feeling in the air Arlington High School seniors are completing the plans for "Deep in December," this year's Christmas Ball, to be held from 8:30 - 11:30 p.m. Dec. 17, in the Boys Gym. The ticket sales committee plans to sell tickets for the dance in advance. Members of the senior class will be selling the tickets for "Deep in December" in the foyer during all lunch shifts starting Dec. 14. The cost of the tickets is $2.50 per couple.

"Since this is a traditional time for graduates to return, tickets will also be sold at the door," Jeff Atkins, committee chairman added.

Senior class secretary Debbie Drake, revealed that this year the class board was "considering trying several special conveniences for the students."

Among these is an escort service in which boys will escort girls attending up the foyer steps while their dates park their cars. This will eliminate the need for any girl to wait in snow for a date to return or to try to brave the often slippery steps by herself.

ACCORDING to tradition the crystal ball will again be suspended from the ceiling, reflecting the lights of the decorations.

"The rest of the decorations are being handmade by the senior class," according to Terri O'Rourke, decoration chairman. "Everything except the Christmas tree that is."

The decorations will center around a 15-foot Christmas tree in the middle of the gym which will be decorated with paper chains, cookies, and popcorn strings all made by the seniors.

The stage will be adorned with a sleight surrounded by fir trees. The corner opposite the band will have a 6-foot snowman in it.

"And in the other corner is a surprise!" commented Nancy Bukowski, a member of the decoration committee.

THE REFRESHMENT committee and its chairman, Diane Smith, have planned to serve hot cider and cookies made by the senior girls.

Another surprise in store for the couples attending the dance is that the cafeteria is not being used to serve refreshments.

Music for the dance will be furnished by George Allen and his 7-piece orchestra. (11Y

SACRED HEART OF MARY HIGH SCHOOL

Films Shown

Last night (Wednesday), the French Film "Therese Desqueyroux" was shown at Sacred Heart of Mary HighSchool. The movie, based on the novel "Therese" by Francois Mauric, and directed ty Georges Franju, is the story of a woman accused of trying to poison her husband, a wealthy landowner.

The real value of the film is not the plot, but the artistic style with which it is treated. Franju uses light and darkness to indicate the three major moods of the story; his employment of flashback reveals to the audience the conflict which Therese is going through.

The next film, to be shown on January 4, is "Peace to Him Who Enters," a Russian film depicting human interest during World War II.

Foreign Student

More freedom socially and in the family, less pressure on schoolwork and a freer relationship between student and teacher. These are the impressions of Danielle Danoustier, French foreign exchange student (National Catholic Welfare Conference) to Sacred Heart of Mary High School, concerning life in America.

Danielle, 18, who is making her United States home with Kathryn and Pamela Herdrich, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Herdrich, 106 N. Kaspar, Arlington Heights, arrived in America late last summer. She is from Lyon, France.

Having already graduated from high school in France, Danielle has enrolled in several classes at SHM. The subjects she is studying are American history, sociology, English II, typing, religion, and physical education.

On her return to France, Danielle plans on a career in French economics and politics. After studying a year in Lyon, she would like to continue her education in Paris.

CONANT HIGH SCHOOL

English Student Cited

Rick Ferguson of Conant High School has been cited as one of the outstanding students of high school English in the country. The National Council of Teachers of English has named him a 1966 national winner in its annual Achievement Awards competition.

Of almost 8,300 nominated, more than 800 finalists were chosen. They represent 620 schools from 50 states, the District of Columbia, and American preparatory schools abroad.

In announcing the winners, James R. Squire, executive secretary of the National Council of Teachers of English, stated that the council recommends these students for college scholarships in 1967.

The names of these students are sent to every college and university admissions officer in the country.

Musical Plans Under Way

Tryouts for the forthcoming musical presentation, Lerner and Lowe's popular Broadway hit "Brigadoon" are well under way at Conant High School. The music department production will transform the stage into song, dance and both comic and serious conflict with a Scottish setting.

Over 50 persons have been auditioned for the major roles, and final selections are due to be announced soon. Serving as student director is senior Dyanna Wicklund.

FOREST VIEW HIGH SCHOOL

Varsity Show Tonight

Because of the large number of people who did not have the opportunity to see the variety show last week at Forest View High School, there will be a repeat performance.

Tonight at 8 p.m. in the school theater, this Student Council production, "Kids" will again be presented. Tickets are $1. The variety show is directed by student director Dave Cook, a senior; and faculty advisor Harold Petersen.

CHRISTMAS ISSUE

The student journalists at Forest iew are working hard to put together a special 12-page issue of their bi-weekly publication, The Viewer. The paper will be distributed to all students on Friday, Dec. 16.

A special feature in the issue will be the results of the class Christmas spirit competition. Last week each student had the opportunity to include a one-line Christmas wish in the paper for 25 cents.

The campaign was run in order to make money to publish the extra-large issue. At the end of the week, the class with the most names in its section was designated the winner of the competition.

The total was as follows: seniors, 514; juniors, 280; sophomores, 163; and freshman, 84. The names of all the seniors who contributed will be put on a special Christmas scroll to be sent as a Christmas wish to the fighting forces in Viet Nam.

Besides the student's names in the Viewer, teachers, clubs, office personnel, cafeteria staff and regular commercial ads will appear.

GIRLS VISIT CHICAGO

Last week 25 Forest View girls from the home decorating classes visited the Merchandise Mart in Chicago to see new styles and colors in carpeting and furniture.

Also, in the Art Institute, the students saw the Thorne Miniature Rooms, a series of small scaled rooms created by Mrs. Helen Thorne.

The girls ended their trip with a luncheon at a downtown restaurant.

GERMANY IN CHICAGO

Wellkommen! That was a word heard quite often by the 50 Forest View High School students who went to "Little Germany" in Chicago last week.

This area is famous for its authentic German atmosphere. Most of the shopkeepers speak German, the items in the stores are imported from Germany and even the signs in the windows are written in German.

The highlight of the tour was the authentic dinner at Hessberger's restaurant. The dishes served were Wienerschnitzel, Paprika Raum Schnitzel, Sauerbraten and Bratwurst.

PALATINE HIGH SCHOOL

Latin Club Dinner

Palatine's SPQR, better known as the Latin club, will observe a festival in honor of Saturn, the Saturnalia, Thursday, Dec. 15 at 7 p.m.

The festival was an old Roman holiday, which the Romans celebrated for three days in December. Latin club, however, will not celebrate with "excess of crime and vice" as did the Romans. They will celebrate with a potluck dinner and a few traditional Christmas customs instead.

Aediles Linda Frank and Candy Johnson will prepare the menu and furnish entertainment. The decoration committee consists of chairman Shirley Kline, Cathy Jensen, Joyce Hansen, Jan O'Leary and Karen Bock.

DE Club Project

Palatine's DE Club, under the guidance of Nick Covelli, contributed toward a dinner for a needy Palatine family Thanksgiving Day.

Club members contributed money to buy a turkey and a fruit basket and also brought items of food.

The club made about $100 on its November candy sale, according to Covelli. The profit will be used for the employer-employe banquet in spring.

Club members also participated in the Nov. 20 muscular dystrophy march.

Language Clubs Active

Palatine's language clubs will hold a Christmas party on Dec. 20 from 7:30 until 9 p.m. Each club will provide entertainment of some kind, and will sing three carols including "Silent Night" in the language of the club.

Each club will also bring refreshments and present a Christ-Christmas custom from the country it represents.

Hospital Project

Members of Palatine's Medical Careers club are making stuffed dolls and animals for young patients at Northwest Community Hospital. The gifts will be delivered as close to Christmas as possible.

Madrigals Perform

The a cappella choir and the madrigals of Palatine High will perform at the Elgin State Hospital Sunday and at Randhurst Dec. 20.

The Madrigals sang at St. Paul's Church yesterday and will perform Dec. 15 for Palatine newcomers. '

Ethnic Groups Studied

Palatine's Social Science Survey groups will have the opportunity of studying five ethnic groups in Chicago on an April field trip.

A look at American Indian life in Chicago will include visits to the Museum of Natural Industry, the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the American Indian Center.

View of Chinese and Japanese in Chicago will cover two neighborhoods. A visit to Chinatown will include stops at a Chinese Catholic Mission, a Chinese Protestant church, OnLe-

PROSPECT HIGH SCHOOL

NCTE Winners

For five out of six years, Prospect High School has had either a winner or a runner-up in the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE) award competition.

This year is no exception. Cathy Notari, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul C. Notari of Orlando, Fla., has been selected as a runner up for this award by the NCTE board.

Cathy moved to Orlando this summer, but she competed in this contest while still a student at Prospect. Last spring she was nominated for the competition by several teachers.

She then sent an application, containing biographical information, to the NCTE board. In April she took a variety of achievement tests.

The first two were standardized examinations concerning composition and literary awareness. She also had to write three papers: an autobiography; a prepared composition, done on her own time; and an impromptu composition.

Besides Cathy, Prospect has had an award winner in every year except 1963. Since entering the competition in 1961, they were Rebecca Welsh, runner-up, 1961; Ceinwen Klepper, winner, 1962; Sue Knectel and Adrienne Kulieke, winner, 1964; and Martin Chakoian, winner, 1965.

ELK GROVE HIGH SCHOOL

Two Debaters Score In 4-State Contest

by MARY HUTCHINGS

Two of Prospect's varsity debaters advanced to the quarterfinals in the four-State Debate Tournament, at Gavit High School in Hammond, Ind., recently.

In the two-day elimination Tournament at Gavit High of Mr. and Mrs. William Hunter, 214 N. Dale, Mount Prosprec, and Greg Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Schmidt, 510 N. Maple, Mount Prospect, debated affirmative and negative sides of the question in alternate rounds.

In the preliminary rounds, they defeated Rich East High School's team, which later took first place in the tournament. The tournament was held in cross-examination style, and it was the first time this year that David and Greg have debated the affirmative side of the proposition.

THE DEBATE topic for 1966-67 is: Resolved: That the foreign aid program of the United States should be limited to nonmilitary assistance. So far this season, David has won 17 decisions out of 19, and Greg's record is 13 wins against 2 losses.

Completing Prospect's four-man team were Chuck Hunter, David's brother, and Dan O'Keefe, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. O'Keefe, 213 S. School, Mount Prospect. The varsity team won seven out of ten rounds at the tournament.

Harold McNabb, coach of the varsity team, commented, "Our consolation was that although we did not receive the trophy, we did beat the strongest teams in the tournament."

MOVIE REVIEW

The most potent weapon in war and peace — food. Men cannot live, or fight without it.

So runs the theme of Columbia Pictures' "Alvarez Kelly" produced by Sol C. Siegel. Starring William Holden and Richard Widmark, this is an absorbing and unusual Civil War story.

High School Highlights

It does not relate the epic history of a great battle or famous general, but rather the desperate story of a Confederate officer's furious attempt to raid a Union outpost and gain 200 head of cattle to feed his troops.

The whole success of the plan rests upon Alvarez Kelly's decision to either help the Confederates or remain loyal to the Union and die.

Holden's performance in the title role is exciting, but the character becomes a bit too suave at times. Widmark, as the Confederate officer, is forceful and convincing in his performance.

In vital supporting roles are Janice Rule, Victoria Shaw, Patrick O'Neal and Roger Carmel.

Taking an over-all view, "Alvarez Kelly" is a well made, above average film. It does not become bogged down by scenery shots often used to fill time gaps. The exciting plot moves quickly and nearly every inch of the film is an integral part of the co-ordinated story.

Suitable even for young teens, "Alvarez Kelly" will interest anyone who enjoys excitement and historical fiction.

BOOK REVIEWS
On Lloyd C. Douglas' "The Robe"

"The Robe" by Lloyd C. Douglas (Houghton-Mifflin Company, 1941) is a story of courage, faith, and the quest for an answer.

It is the tale of a Roman Centurion, Marcellus Gallio, banished for political reasons to a land near Jerusalem. He was among those who crucified a Jewish troublemaker known as Jesus. The drunk Marcellus joined in a game of dice and won Jesus' robe.

The story deals with Marcellus' obsession to find out about Jesus. He travels the roads Jesus traveled and finds his task next to impossible because, being a Roman, he is subject to suspicion. Because of his quest, he is forced to sever all ties with his past.

"The Robe" is not a religious comment, but, rather, a compassionate unfolding of a man's decision to turn against his normal way of life and find a place in a strange new world, a world built from one man's philosophy.

The author did much to make this novel readable. It could have easily been a cut and dried lesson, but, instead, it is a well-paced, yet moving story.

His characters are believable and not unlike men and women of today. In fact, this is one of the most impressive points of the book; that a world of nearly 2,000 years ago was not very different from our own. Said one viewer, "It has been said that those who have read "The Robe" are never the same again."

Lloyd C. Douglas is considered one of the most widely read authors of the twentieth century. His other works include "Green Light," "Home for Christmas," "Doctor Hudson's Secret Journal" and "The Big Fisherman."

On Irving Stone's "Lust For Life"

Irving Stone, author of "Agony and the Ecstasy," wrote one novel that seems to be forgotten in the light of his more recent books. This book, "Lust For Life," is a biography of an impressionistic artist, Vincent Van Gogh, whom people of his time called "the madman."

Van Gogh was a man of impact and exploding emotion who knew no barriers in his painting. He drove himself to become perfect in his art, to find fame, love, and a soul-fulfilling appeasement in life . . . in art.

But he was destined to find nothing; for his incredible genius, intrinsic within him to the point of becoming his worst foe, interfered and drove him to violence and insanity.

People fled from him, believing him insane, not grasping the fact that he was eaten out by loneliness. Surely capable of love, he searched for a wife, but no woman would have him and he died in a state of celebacy—contrary to his true nature. Loneliness he could not stand and it killed him.

In ten years he painted 800 paintings and sold only one. People scoffed at him, turned him away—and today one canvas of his is prized and as the work of an individualistic man of unsurpassed ability. But as beautiful as his work was, he found no peace in his life or art. At 37 he died.

Irving Stone has written a poetic portrayal of an artist. The biographical facts are clear and the imaginativeness of the novel is beautiful embellishment. We come to understand what Van Gogh was and why, and his painting becomes even more forceful.

Van Gogh was inflamed with the lust for life and Irving Stone forged him from the past into the present—Van Gogh's rightful place.

RECORD REVIEW

"Bill Cosby Is a Very Funny Fellow—Right!" Besides being a fact, this is the title of a recent Warner Brothers album.

Cosby has a marvelous, out-of-the-ordinary sense of humor. In this album he covers everything from subways through hoof-and-mouth disease to Superman.

According to zany comedian Allan Sherman, "Bill Cosby's 'Noah' (last three bands on side one) is a masterpiece, even though nobody has heard it yet."

Of course, you know the Biblical story of Noah's ark, but you've heard only a one-sided account. Cosby gives a warmly funny twist to the story . . . from Noah's side.

When is tragedy funny? When the tragedy is a discussion of hoff and mouth disease between an intelligent cow and a dumb cow.

If you are one of the hundreds of people who become nauseated at the very thought of a razor blade or hair dressing commercial delivered by one of the country's leading athletes, listen to "Little Tiny Hairs" and "Greasy Kids' Stuff," and you'll see the brighter side of those advertising masterpieces.

Cosby also takes his audience behind the scenes to eavesdrop on a pep talk between a coach and his team in "The Pep Talk."

One of the funniest cuts in the album is a small bit about "Karate." In this cut you'll learn how not to use the art of self defense. What's the strategy of Karate?—Cosby says "It's all in the yell."

"Bill Cosby Is a Very Funny Fellow—Right." Recorded live, the album is a sophisticated fit of hysterical laughter.

Making of the Blue Spruce

Of all the evergreens, the spruce is the most noble and of the spruces the blue spruce is the most striking.

In the right location a specimen blue spruce can do much for a landscape. Because of the blue color it can add depth to a landscape. Shallow lots look many feet deeper when a blue spruce is planted in the background.

It is so much admired that it is almost over used. In small sizes it is sometimes used as an entrance planting, under picture windows, or along walks. Unfortunately the tree soon becomes large and crowds the landscape. Few people realize that the toy-sized blue Christmas tree can reach heights of 60 — 70 feet with a proportionate spread.

THE PRODUCTION of the blue spruce is an interesting story. They are produced by either seeding or graftage. When seeds of a blue spruce are sown, only a small number give any hint of blue. The majority exhibit a characteristic Christmas tree green. Those that exhibit a hint of blue are transplanted to a special section in the nursery. Here they are grown and observed for a few growing seasons.

Many of the trees that showed promise of bluing develop into a muddy shade of grey or return to a dusty green color. Those that still exhibit the blue color are selected and again transplanted to a special section Here the most blue specimens are called "shiners" and sold to the public.

If grafting is performed, cuttings are taken from named varieties of blue spruce such as Thompson, Mission, Koster, Hoope or Moerheim. Grafting is used because spruce cuttings are extremely difficult to root.

Three-year-old, pot - grown Norway spruce seedlings are used as the root stock. In the early spring, six-inch spruce cuttings are side grafted to the understock by wrapping with strips, waxed string or, formerly, with raffia. The grafted plants are then covered to graft height with peat and kept in a cool greenhouse until the grafts mend. The top green of the understock is then cut back and the blue spruce is allowed to take over. At this point, 30 to 90 days after grafing, a nurseryman may lose as many as half of his grafts.

By spring the plants can be set in the field and staked. The hand operation of staking and tying is essential if a straight perfect specimen is to be produced. Two or three seasons after grafting, small plants are ready for sale.

AS WITH SEEDING, the production of blue spruce by grafting is very slow and often with a very low percentage of survivals.

You can thus well admire a perfect blue spruce specimen. It may have been hand picked from thousands. It's also interesting to remember that these plants have already survived such a rigorous screening process that survivors are extremely hardy and vigorous.

They demand little when you plant them in fall. Just avoid fertilization at planting time, plant at the same depth they were grown in the nursery, and give them plenty of water during the first few months after planting. (O

Zone-Controlled Heating Popular

Zone-controlled heating and cooling is a popular feature in high-rise office buildings, the Illinois Assn. of Plumbing - Heating- Cooling Contractors reports.

That's because it enables each tenant to determine the temperature he wants in his own quarters, and even to vary the temperature from room to room if so desired, since each zone has its own thermostat.

THUS, THE temperature in rooms occupied by one person can be kept at one level, that in rooms occupied by several people at another, that full of heat-producing office equipment at still another. Storage room temperatures can be kept at a minimum.

Not only are people more comfortable under this arrangement, the Illinois association points out, but there are substantial savings in fuel costs.

'Family Plumbing Contractor' Urged

Every houshold should have a "family plumbing contractor" just as it has a family doctor, the Plumbing-Heating - Cooling Information Bureau points out. His number should be kept and everyone in the family old enough to read should know where to find it in case of an emergency.

If you don't have a family contractor now, you can get the name of a qualified firm near you from the local chapter of the National Assn. of Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Contractors.

THIS ASSOCIATION is nearly 90 years old, which makes it just about the oldest group in the building industry.

Its motto is "we sell, install, service and guarantee," and its activities include upgrading public health and sanitation standards through strong building codes, apprenticeship training programs and public health education. (O

Car Wash Necessary In Winter

"If you value your car, keep it clean during the winter months," warns Bill Eick, proprietor of Eick's Bensenville Car Wash.

Street salt and ice are harmful to car finishes and should be washed off regularly, Eick pointed out. Salt deposits in the crevices of a car's body can gradually break down the coating of paint, leaving it vulnerable to rust.

Car owners who take pride in a clean, shiny car during the summer should be doubly careful to protect its beauty and value during the winter months, Eick concluded. (CR

Work

"Whatever your task, work heartily, as serving the Lord and not men"
Colossians 3:23

To some people, work is an ugly word. To some, work implies physical labor . . . a job that cannot be done without getting your hands dirty, without perspiring, without a blister or two.

Within your physical capabilities, never fear honest work. There can be great satisfaction in doing well any task that needs doing. The man who digs a ditch, if he digs it straight and true, can be proud of the job he has done and, especially gratified, if he is secure in the knowledge he returned a full day's work for a full day's pay.

Do not concern yourself over things that you cannot do; spend your time doing well the things you can.

Clark Vows Crackdown On Water Pollution

Atty. Gen. William G. Clark has announced a major effort to curb waterway pollution in Illinois by seeking criminal penalties against pollution offenders.

Addressing a statewide conference of Illinois state's attorneys in Chicago, Clark urged the 102 county prosecutors to join in "an all out declaration of war on violators before it is too late—before the state's 275 rivers and streams are turned into flowing cesspools that leave the state permanently locked in a liquid network of pollution."

Clark announced that he will press for both civil and criminal actions against pollution violators.

IN ADDITION to continued civil actions filed by the state, the attorney general said he will immediately forward copies of every civil complaint to the state's attorney of the county in which the violation occurred, so that further action can be considered under the criminal code.

He pointed out that the Illinois criminal code provides a fine of up to $1,000, up to a year in jail or both under a "reckless conduct" statute in which public safety is endangered.

Clark said the pollution crackdown not only applies to the serious offenses, but "even an individual who throws a banana peel into the water" may be guilty of committing a "nuisance" under state statute and can be fined up to $100. Subsequent violations can result in a jail sentence up to three months.

Page Aide Calls Task Force Report 'Political Document'

Points of controversy in the Illinois Task Force on Education's work were brought up — and challenged — at an Illinois Education Association divisional meeting in Bensenville last Thursday.

John Kirby, spokesman for the Task Force's co-sponsoring state superintendent of public instruction, cited the areas of disagreement when asked to discuss the Task Force report by the DuPage County professional association.

His talk, which made no mention of other Task Force study areas, prompted Elmhurst teacher Miss AudrMay Pence to point out from the platform, "Mr. Kirby touched on very few of the areas we covered as members of the Task Force."

Miss Pence was one of five women — and the only grade school teacher — named to the 57-member "blue ribbon" committee asked by Gov. Otto Kerner, the School Problems Commission and Kirby's boss Ray Page to study state school needs.

KIRBY DID not serve on the Task Force, but several other members of Page's staff did. Among them was John O'Neill, associate superintendent of public instruction and a former Arlington Heights resident.

Kirby, who spliced his comments on the Task Force "arguing areas" between several long jokes, charged that the Task Force was a "political document and not an educational document."

"It has not documented the action it requests, and it has invaded the field of political action," the former Republican state auditor candidate added.

MAJOR AREAS "where consensus could not be reached" within the Task Force, Kirby told the IEA's DuPage County divisional representatives, were:

—The method of selecting a state board of education,

—The role of state aid in encouraging formation of larger, unit school districts.

"Everyone agrees there should be one," said Kirby of the state board of education. "The majority suggests that the board be appointed and have the authority to appoint a state superintendent."

"The minority (including Page and Kirby) wants a state board to be elected — to represent geographic areas," Kirby said.

Kirby said that the first tentative Task Force report, on which public hearings were held this spring, recommended semi-mandatory unification of school districts with use of a state aid "carrot" to encourage unification.

THE FINAL Task Force report is expected to put much less stress on unification of school districts while still recommending increased state aid.

"Documentation" which Kirby says is so far lacking is expected to be included in the Task Force's final published report, due Dec. 20.

At that time the Task Force committee, using part of the $230,000 appropriated for its work, is expected to make available both a popularized report and a fat hardback technical report compiled by a research staff headed by Prof. William P. McLure of the University of Illinois. (A15

Catholic Educator Plans No Dissent

The Catholic schools' representative on the Illinois Task Force on Education won't file a minority report criticizing Task Force recommendations after all.

Rt. Rev. Msgr. William McManus, archdiocesan superintendent of schools, had told the Task Force executive committee that he planned to file a minority report.

He did not, he told Paddock Publications Monday, because he decided his objections were not that "crucial."

THE TASK FORCE, a 57-member "blue ribbon" committee set up by Gov. Otto Kerner, the School Problems Commission and the state superintendent of public instructions and funded with $230,000 in tax funds, will make its formal report this month on Illinois' elementary and secondary education needs.

Monsignor McManus gives the Task Force credit for being the first such body to recognize contribution made by non-public schools within the state.

A veteran of other school studies—at the federal as well as the state level—Msgr. McManus told Paddock Publications he did not consider the pending Task Force report to be as well done as those of the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

"THIS IS understandable," he added. Problems of higher education are less complex than those faced by Illinois' elementary and secondary schools and the agencies administering them, the Catholic educator declared.

Monsignor McManus considered filing a minority report "questioning" Task Force recommendation regarding school financial needs and provisions for kindergartens.

The Task Force report will recommend that each school district offer kindergarten if parents want it and that state reimbursement be provided to school districts with kindergarten pupils. At present schools receive no state aid for kindergarten classes.

The Task Force report, however, will not recommend that kindergarten attendance be made compulsory, the Catholic educator said.

IF IT HAD, he would have opposed it, he told Paddock Publications.

"I'd be opposed to lowering the compulsory attendance age as an intrusion on parental rights," the monsignor stated. "Some parents feel they can give children that age a better education at home. Others would like a less structured program, perhaps in a cooperative right on their block," the Catholic school man pointed out.

"For the State of Illinois to say that every local school district should offer kindergarten is one thing. But to say that kindergarten attendance be a requirement for entering first grade is something else. I support the former. I would not support the latter!" he declared.

The Catholic school superintendent says he thinks the Task Force also went astray in putting so much emphasis on the need for spending and in its estimates of teacher availability.

HE SAID HE made a strong pitch at the Task Force final session on "the fallacy of thinking that the more you spend, the better schools you have."

"Schools could be greatly improved," the monsignor asserted, "if we'd just make better use of the master teachers we have."

Assigning master teachers to larger classes and assigning them non-professional help would be far better, the Catholic educator said.

"This is an age of specialization and the schools are far behind in seeing this," he added.

"ONE GLARING defect" in the Task Force report, Monsignor McManus says he noted is its "unrealistic estimate" of the teacher labor market.

"The Task Force takes the position that we have to hire many more people," the Catholic school man told Paddock Publications.

He said that assumption that more teachers will be available was made without any knowledge of the profession's supply.

Self-Service Postal Substation Dedicated

Residents of Mount Prospect have a new 24-hour-a-day, self-service postal sub-station.

Located in the Southwest parking area of Randhurst shopping center, the new unit was dedicated Saturday morning at ribbon-cutting ceremonies by Donald L. Swanson, Regional Director of the U. S. Post Office Department. The ribbon was cut by George R. Busse, president of the Mount Prospect Chamber of Commerce.

The new facility is one of the first of 100 self-service units to be established in shopping centers throughout the nation. While designed to serve a limited function compared with the services provided by a regular manned post office, the new service offers stamps and envelopes and postal cards through vending machines.

Also included are bill and coin changers, scales and mail boxes, plus a free 24-hour-a-day direct line telephone for assistance to persons requiring additional postal information.

THERE ARE complete facilities and instructions for mailing parcel post packages, including a machine that sells the minimum insurance policy of $10 on parcels. There is a specially designed depository for parcel post and two boxes for letter mail which can be used by pedestrians and motorists.

Swanson, in his dedication address described the new units as ". . . a way of bringing the post office to the people rather than requiring the people to go to the post office."

"They (the new postal units) are a recognition on the part of the Post Office Department that it is often inconvenient — in some instances almost impossible — for many people to get to a post office during normal business hours," he said.

Mount Prospect Postmaster Theodore Geocaris, who spoke briefly at the ceremonies, stressed that the new self-service units are but one of several mechanized methods the Post Office Department is using ". . . to put tools in the hands of the public and postal workers to see that the ever-increasing volume of mail is collected and delivered with the utmost speed and efficiency."

Other mechanized tools used are optical scanners which seek out the ZIP code on envelopes, read the numbers and pass the letters along to sorting machines which can channel 36,000 pieces of mail into the right slots. In the near future, Geocaris added, the latest in data processing equipment will be utilized to measure mail flow so that management decisions can be made ". . . on the spot instead of waiting days for reports gathered manually."

CIVIC LEADERS present at the dedication included Harold Carlson, general manager of Randhurst Corp.; Paul Dasso, president of the Randhurst Merchants Assoc.; Richard McCarthy, promotion director of the association; John Nelson, manager of Montgomery Ward and Co., and vice president of the association.

Also, Ralph Palubicki, superintendent of mails at the Mount Prospect Post Office; Rev. Ronald Kalas, assistant pastor of St. Raymond Church, Mount Prospect, and Rev. William R. King, pastor of John Calvin Presbyterian Church of Prospect Heights.

Music was supplied by the Mount Prospect High School band. Following the ceremonies, guests adjourned to Randhurst Corp. offices in the center for coffee and rolls. (Rh Robert J. Nast, administrator, said, "There is still a waiting list of two weeks or more for hospital patients." (B10

A Home Is No Better Than Its Neighborhood

THE WORLD ...of Real Estate

PADDOCK PUBLICATIONS
Real Estate Section

Q. Friends have cautioned us about buying a house in a subdivision, However, the prices are attractive. How can we judge a subdivision so we don't get stuck?

A.—All things being equal, a home's long-term value rests primarily on the quality of its neighborhood or subdivision. Lending institutions are as vitally interested in this as you are.

Good subdivision planning avoids future trouble and expense for all concerned. Overcrowding, inadequate sewers and water facilities, and other problems are the result of little or no land planning in the first place. Modern subdividing is being more and more widely understood for what it really is —community building in which an integrated community instead of the individual lot is the unit for planning. The end result should take into consideration not just homes but schools, churches, shops and other necessary facilities.

Homes in low or medium cost subdivisions should be no more than 40 minutes from the homeowner's place of employment, and no more than four miles from a major shopping center, three and a half miles from churches, two and a half miles from a high school and within walking distance to a grade school and local shopping center.

THE SITE SHOULD avoid railroad tracks, rundown commercial or industrial areas, smoke and other nuisances, fire hazards and cemeteries, and airports.

Sites that slope moderately are better than steep or flat land. The best designed dubdivisions follow the land, fitting the topography, running along natural drainage courses and thus creating a pleasing variety of curvilinear street patterns. Grading is kept to a minimum.

The traffic flow should permit easy access to homes from the subdivision's entrance, without jams. This means too, no traffic hazards caused offering shortcuts through the subdivision. Good design also calls for sharp differences between minor streets, feeder streets, and major thoroughfares. Streets of single family homes should have a minimum pavement width of 26 feet, of multi-family dwellings, 32 feet, and feeder streets, 36 feet.

LOT SHAPES should be generally regular, with no acute angles. The side yard on at least one side of the house should be big enough for a driveway in which one or two cars may be parked. Minimum lot size is established by local regulations, but I personally think the average two-story house should have a lot of at least 60 by 120 feet.

A good subdivision designs variety into its layout by increasing and decreasing the building setback, and varying the sideyards. However, it is rarely advisable to vary setbacks of adjacent houses on small lots by more than 10 or 15 feet, nor should sideyards be decreased to less than seven or eight feet.

Finally, are the subdivision's water and sewer systems hooked to a public system, or designed to do so in the future?

And are the power lines brought in from the rear on easements, with service lines carried underground? They should be, if possible.

Q.— AS A veteran of the war in Viet Nam, would I be entitled to any reduction in real estate taxes if I buy a home?

A.—It all depends on where you live. This privilege is generally a state or local matter. Most communities granted some form of tax reduction to veterans of World War II and the Korean War, and it is likely that many will do the same for veterans of the current conflict.

Call your local tax office and inquire about the veteran's tax abatement. You must qualify by filing the veteran's application form and showing proof of your military service.

The Law Serves You

A Public Service of the ILLINOIS STATE BAR ASSOCIATION

What are the legal responsibilities of a guardian of a minor child?

Under Illinois law, there are two types of guardians — the guardian of the person of a minor child and the guardian of the minor's estate and property. They may be one and the same person.

According to the Illinois State Bar Assn., the guardian of the estate is charged by law with the care, management and investment of the child's estate. Income and profits from the estate must be applied as authorized by the court for the comfort, support and education of the child.

THE ESTATE guardian must either be a person who resides in Illinois or a corporation qualified to accept and execute trusts in Illinois.

The person appointed guardian of the person of a minor child may be a non-resident or a resident of Illinois. This guardian is responsible for the child's personal care, welfare and upbringing.

Under the law, a guardian may be appointed for any minor —a boy under 21 years of age or a girl under 18 — whose natural parents are deceased or unable, unfit or unwilling to give the child the care, comfort, education and support to which the child is entitled.

In that event, any reputable citizen of Illinois may request the court in the county in which the child resides to appoint a guardian or guardians. After a hearing, the Court will appoint a guardian for the person of the minor and, if necessary, a guardian for the estate.

If the child is over 14 years of age, he may nominate his own guardian of the estate subject to the approval of the court.

THE GUARDIAN makes an annual report to the Court of his acts and of the income and expenses for the ward, and is liable for any waste or mismanagement of the ward's funds.

When the minor reaches 21 (or 18 for girls), the guardianship ends and the guardian reports the fact to the Court and turns all the property over to the ward.

For And About Teenagers

HE'S ALWAYS THOUGHTFUL AND SWEET...

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I need help from someone other than my friends or parents. I can't talk to them or make them understand. Last winter I met a boy. We started to date. I fell in love with him and he said he loved me. We went 'steady' for six months, the most wonderful months of my life. He taught me what it meant to have a good time. He painted my name on his car, and was always thoughtful and sweet. The last three weeks we went together all he wanted to do was go somewhere and park. I told him this was wrong, that we would carry things too far and this was something I did not want to do. He agreed. For about a week, he was the same friendly and thoughtful person. Then, he broke up with me. He said he still loved me and wanted to date me, but not so seriously. That was more than a month ago. I haven't heard from him. I saw him at a football game with another girl, who was wearing a diamond and a wedding ring. A friend of his said he had "run away to be married." Should I ask him the truth? And, the real reason he broke up with me?"

OUR REPLY: Be patient. The truth will 'out' before very long. And, you know the reason he broke up with you. You told him you were not inclined to waste your time parked on a country road. We believe that in time you will be glad things turned out this way.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address you letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS. COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE. FRANKFORT, KY.

Robinwoods West, a new town home community featuring "country club living" is now open, it has been announced by Jay Felner, president of Robinwoods West, Inc., developers of the 435-home community.

Eight model homes are on display in the wooded area 2.1 miles west of Barrington Road on Lake Street. They are grouped around the Robinwood Club, a community recreation center offering a complimentary lifetime membership to each resident in the new suburban development.

Designed by Salvatore Balsamo, architect, the traditional homes use antique brick, colored aluminum siding, mullioned windows, and shutters to lend an early American atmosphere to the entire community.

The homes, located in clusters around landscaped lawns and flower beds, give Robinwoods West an aura reminiscent of early New England and its town-house 8 out the green villages. To retain this concept, the developer has located the curvilinear streets and all parking areas at the rear of the homes. Owners may enter through private, fenced-in patios near the kitchen work areas.

The models, furnished by Gene E Dreyfus & Associates, feature both ranch and two-story styles. They contain one to four bedrooms and range in price from $13,990 to $22,990.

MOST OF THE town homes have full basements and 1½ baths. They employ gas, forced air heat and are built with ceramic tile, copper plumping, and hardwood floors throughout. Each kitchen contains NuTone cabinets, RCA Whirlpool range and refrigerator, lighted fan hood, and vinyl asbestos flooring. Color-matched washer and dryer are also available.

The builder offers central air-conditioning as optional in all of the homes.

The Amherst model is a one-story, one-bedroom ranch. The Bristol home has similar floor plan but offers a full basement.

The Clinton, a one - story ranch, gives the owner a choice of second bedroom or a den overlooking the green. The Danvers home has two bedrooms on the second floor. Its kitchen features an inside-outside look with the breakfast area and patio separated by sliding-glass window wall.

The Easton, also with two bedrooms, is designed with the master bedroom running the full width of the home. Closets in both bedrooms are built across the entire width of the end walls.

THE FAIRFAX model shows three bedrooms, separate dining room, and a first-floor powder room.

The Glen Cove, also with three bedrooms, adds a Mr. and Mrs. dressing room entering a two-way compartmentalized bath.

The four bedroom Hampden is distinguished by its "living kitchen," an arrangement comprising kitchen, dining room, and family room, all overlooking the rear terrace.

Monthly payments, including interest, start at $96 with 30-year, F.H.A.-insured mortgages available. The payment also covers all maintenance charges. Robert Carlson, Vice President, Robinwoods West, Inc., stated:

"WE WANT TO make Robinwoods West a true leisure-life community. By taking care of all the maintenance chores for an owner — removing the trash and snow, cutting the lawns, even repainting when necessary —we free him to swim, play tennis, or just relax at the Robinwood Club."

The 7,000-square-foot club, centrally located in the community contains two meeting lounges, kitchen, teen-room, and offices for the Robinwoods West Association managers.

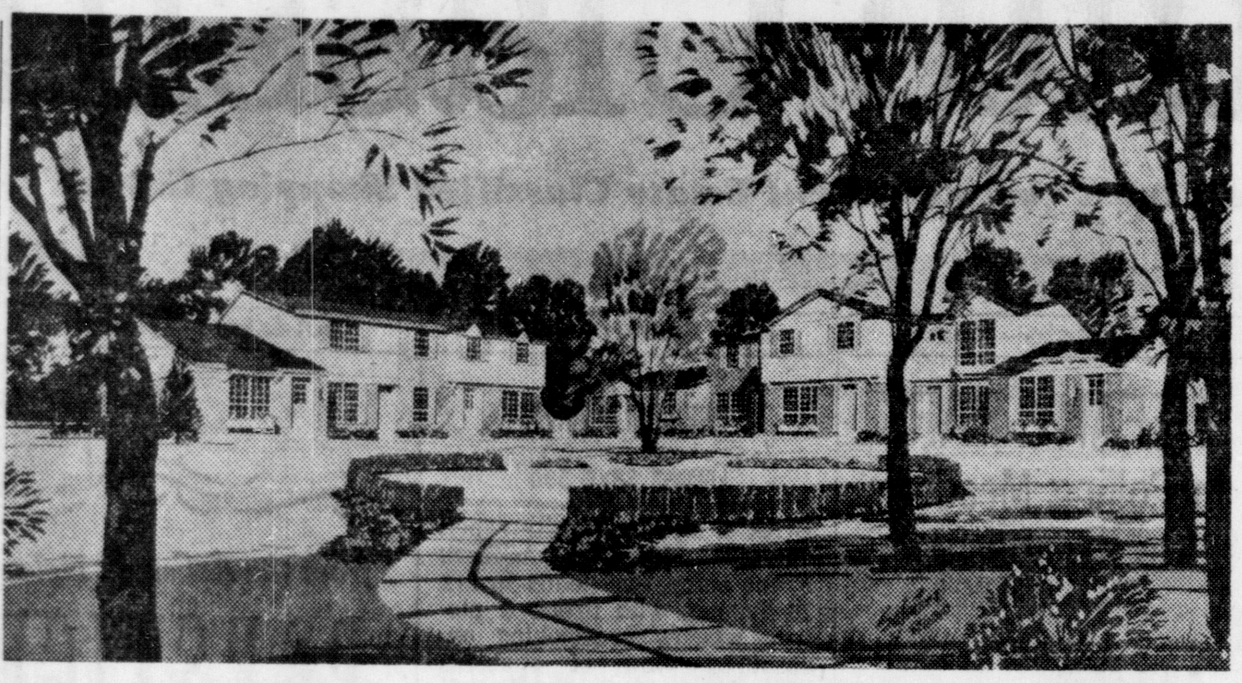
The main lounge overlooks a formal garden with reflecting pool and fountain. Another fountain sprays into a tots' wading pool which adjoins the adult swimming pool, bath house, and sundeck at the rear. The club grounds also have courts for volleyball and basketball, as well as a reserved area for guest parking.

Home purchase entitles the owner to a lifetime membership in the Robinwood Club. All social activities in the community center will be in charge of a full time Social Director.

ROBINWOODS West is in the Elgin school district. Churches of all denominations as well as three neighborhood shopping centers are nearby. The community is in Streamwood, three-fourths mile from the Chicago-Milwaukee commuter train and close to the Northwest tollway.

The $8 million development was financed by Percy Wilson Mortgage and Finance Company.

The model homes are open daily from 10:00 a.m. till 7:00 p.m. Gates, in traditional style to blend with the early American architecture in the new town home community, mark the Lake Street entrance to Robinwoods West. (Rel



ARTIST'S RENDERING of the traditionally styled town homes in Robinwoods West, a 435-home community on Lake Street approximately two miles west of Barrington Road in the western suburbs. Of antique brick and colored aluminum siding, the homes range in size from one to four bedrooms and sell for $13,990 to $22,990 with the purchase price entitling the owner to a lifetime membership in the Robinwood Club, a community recreational center. Wide lawns and formal landscaping distinguish the front views with streets and private parking confined to the rear near kitchens and fenced-in patios.

Built-in Wet-Sink Bar Is Featured

"Be it ever so spacious, no kitchen ever seems to have enough counter space at party time to take care of both food preparation and the host's drink-mixing," says William W. Kennedy, vice president of Kennedy Development Co.

"That's why we build-in family room bar closets, with wet sinks, for families that like to entertain. It practically eliminates kitchen confusion."

Two of the five model homes in Northbrook's Charlemagne, Kennedy notes, "Pavilion" and "Kenton," feature built-in wet-sink bars. (Rel

Garage Interiors Should Be Finished

"Why not admit it? The garage doesn't add much beauty to the modern home. Far from it—especially when the doors are open! Yet a garage is a necessity, and the problem is how to prevent its displaying an interior like that of a 1925-style summer cottage."

This is the reason, says William W. Kennedy, his firm includes with every home it builds a garage that is completely finished and painted inside.

"The garage is often at the front of today's home and faces onto the street," he says.

WHEN THOSE double doors are open, the sight of an unfinished interior can spoil a home's appearance.

"Of course, every home would look much better without an attached garage. But garages are here to stay and we try to make them look their best."

Charlemagne in Northbrook, where five model homes are open, is the newest Kennedy Development Co. building program. (Rel

Festival of Lights Hanukkah—Observed

The week-long celebration of Hanukkah, the Festival of Lights, will be celebrated with family services at Beth Tikvah Temple, 275 Hillcrest Blvd., in Hoffman Estates at 8 p.m., Friday, Dec. 9.

The joyous Jewish holiday, which began yesterday (Wednesday) at sundown and will continue through Dec. 15, is celebrated in Jewish homes by the lighting of the Menorah, a special candelabrum for eight candles. A single candle is lighted the first night and on each succeeding night another is lighted until eight are burning.

Rabbi Hillel Gamoran, spiritual leader of Beth Tikvah, will lead the services. He will be assisted by two students of the religious school who will read, Diane Levy of Hoffman Estates and Gay Spector of Elk Grove Village. A traditional musical program, including the festival hymn, "Rock of Ages" will be presented by the 25-member Junior Choir directed by Mrs. Samuel Shore of Hoffman Estates.

FOLLOWING SERVICES, the seventh and eighth grade classes of the religious school will perform a pageant titled "A Light To Live By."

As Hanukkah is a time for parties, games, songs and gift giving, holiday assemblies followed by parties will be held by the religious school classes on Saturday and Sunday mornings, Dec. 10 and 11. Mrs. Sidney Miller of Hoffman Estates, principal of the temple religious school, will supervise the assemblies.

The Menorah, symbol of Hanukkah, signifies religious liberty. It marks the overthrow of Syrian rule in Palestine in 165 B.C. by a tiny Jewish army led by Judah Maccabee over much larger Syrian forces headed by King Antichochus. The Jews revolted under Syrian oppression which forbade the practice of Judaism and observance of the Sabbath. After three years of war they gained their independence and religious freedom by overcoming Syrian armies.

ACCORDING TO legend, the Jews re-entered the temple, which had been defiled by the Syrians, to rededicate the house of worship by kindling of the Eternal Light. When they sought to light the lamp they found only a small amount of oil for the lamp, which they expected to last only a day. A miracle occurred, however, when the oil in the Menorah placed by the Holy Ark, lasted for eight days and nights.

The word Hanukkah — or "Chanukah"—in Hebrew means "dedication," which is the theme of the festival, dedication to religious liberty achieved by the successful rebellion. The children play a game during the holiday with a small top-like toy that spins and is called a dreidle. The dreidle has four Hebrew characters which in English stand for the words "a great miracle happened there," referring to the burning of the oil.

Congregation Beth Tikvah, founded by a dozen families in 1957, who met in a Hoffman Estates elementary school building, now has a membership of more than 160 families from 15 northwest communities. Some 300 children attend the religious school staffed by 20 teachers. The temple was dedicated in 1963. Merwyn Dan of Arlington Heights is congregation president. (A-15

Herald on Display In USIA Centers

Copies of the Arlington Heights Herald are currently on display in U.S. Information Agency information centers all over the world as an example of outstanding American community and suburban newspapers.

The Herald was a winner in the 1966 National Newspaper Association Better Newspaper Contest. At the request of USIA's overseas libraries, the association has assembled 90 sets of prize-winning weeklies and dailies—more than 2,000 individual copies in all. It is the first time that foreign nationals have had an opportunity to view examples of nonmetropolitan U.S. newspapers at the USIA centers.

IN MANY instances the exhibits will be used as the focal point of newspaper seminars. At La Paz, Bolivia, for example, a nationwide seminar brought together 80 Bolivian newsmen, who had the opportunity to look over the exhibit and discuss it with U.S. newspapermen taking part.

All the newspapers were donated to USIA, which handled packaging and shipment to its overseas libraries and information centers. (A-15

Data Processing Course Answer to National Need

If students of a planned two-year, data processing program at William Rainey Harper Junior College satisfactorily complete the course, they should be adequately prepared to enter a job market in which there is a nationwide need for more than 450,000 workers.

According to a recent national trade journal article, only 150,000 people are actively employed in the field on a national basis, while over 600,000 trained workers could be placed.

Roy Sedrel, director of data processing for the junior college, will present his recommendations for its proposed computer and data processing facilities at a college board meeting to be held tonight at 8 p.m. in the administration building of High School District 214, 799 W. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect.

IN HIS PRESENTATION Sedrel will analyze and explain his proposals and approach to the program with the use of charts and graphs. Discussing the vast potential of data processing, Sedral said that various manufacturers of computers and data processing equipment have noted a rapid increase in the growth and use of data processing technology in the Chicagoland area. Three major types of personnel are needed in the field — programmers, machine operators and service equipment engineers.

Sedrel said the school administration expects to have a two-year data processing occupation program underway with the opening of classes in the fall of 1967.

He noted that three courses probably will be offered, related to such occupational skills as programming, systems analysis and design, machine operation, key punching and related clerical skills.

He pointed out that Harper College plans a complete analysis and evaluation of the student's abilities and desires in the field prior to his enrollment. A vocational guidance counselor will work with each student to assist him in choosing the program for which he is best suited and to assure that he will not spend a great deal of time in school and then find he can not get a job because he can not perform adequately in his chosen program.

UNIQUE AT Harper College, the data processing program, according to Sedral, will be broader in scope than that of many colleges in the state. It will utilize all the program's potential within the administration of the school to increase accuracy and release time for administrative heads, in the classroom, and for the counselors.

For example, computers will be used in the classroom to grade and analyze examinations, thereby providing professors with invaluable information for improving their preparation of tests. Other illustrations are the use of the computer in analyzing student's abilities, or the use of computers in the ilbrary as an aid to research and indexing.

Data processing is one of at least six two-year programs to be offered at Harper College that will prepare students to enter the business or professional world.

The primary objective of these programs is to provide the student with marketable job skills. At the same time the curriculum will be designed to instill within those students who plan a two-year college curriculum to continue their education, at least part-time or at evening college.

ROY SEDREL, 33, brings wide experience to his position of director of data processing and research at the college.

He holds a B. A. degree in accounting from Drake University and did graduate work at the University of Iowa in educational administration. He worked in the field of educational data processing for about eight years, including employment by the state department of public instruction in Des Moines and at the Iowa Educational Information Center at the University of Iowa.

He served as statewide systems coordinator of data processing of the University of Iowa and, in that capacity, worked with local school administrators. He assisted last spring in setting up three regional administrative data processing centers for local schools. Funds for these centers were allotted and set up under Title III of the National Education Act of 1965. (B10

Jaycees To Ring For Vets

Three hundred members of the Chicago Junior Association of Commerce and Industry (Jaycees) will volunteer as bell-ringers for the Salvation Army today and Friday.

Representing more than 100 Chicago area business firms, the Jaycees hope to raise $12,000 for Christmas festivities at the veterans' hospitals.

Since the first year of the project in 1944, the Jaycees have collected a total of nearly $200,000 for the Salvation Army.

Wearing signs reading, "Remember Your Gift for our Hospitalized Vets and Handicapped Children," the Jaycees will replace Salvation Army attendants at kettle locations in the loop and neighborhood shopping centers, at the Northwestern, Illinois Central, Union, and LaSalle Street stations and the Howard Street elevated station.

Summer Science Program Is an All-Year Project

By BILL EVEN

For the last four summers, St. Viator High School has sponsored a Summer Science program for scientifically inclined students. Held throughout the month of July, an average of about 20 students have participated in the last few sessions.

The main idea behind the course is to give the participant more freedom for experimentation than he would normally have in the classroom. This is done by the assigning of specific projects to the individuals and letting them work on their own with full access to the school's equipment.

The course works in a 3-year cycle and covers the realm of experimental science from basic physics to meteorology. Last year the subjects covered were electronics and physics, both atomic and nucleur.

AFTER LECTURING on Mondays Fr. Phillip Kendall, moderator of the course, would assign the specific experiments and help the students with the necessary equipment and background.

Last year, however, the programming of the course was changed slightly. Impressed by the excellent potential and results given by some of the experiments, Fr. Kendall and Fr. Arnold Perham decided to carry out the projects fully through the school year.

Fr. Perham, head of the mathematics department at St. Viator, is currently working with these students on what could easily be considered top-level research. He cited some of the projects as examples.

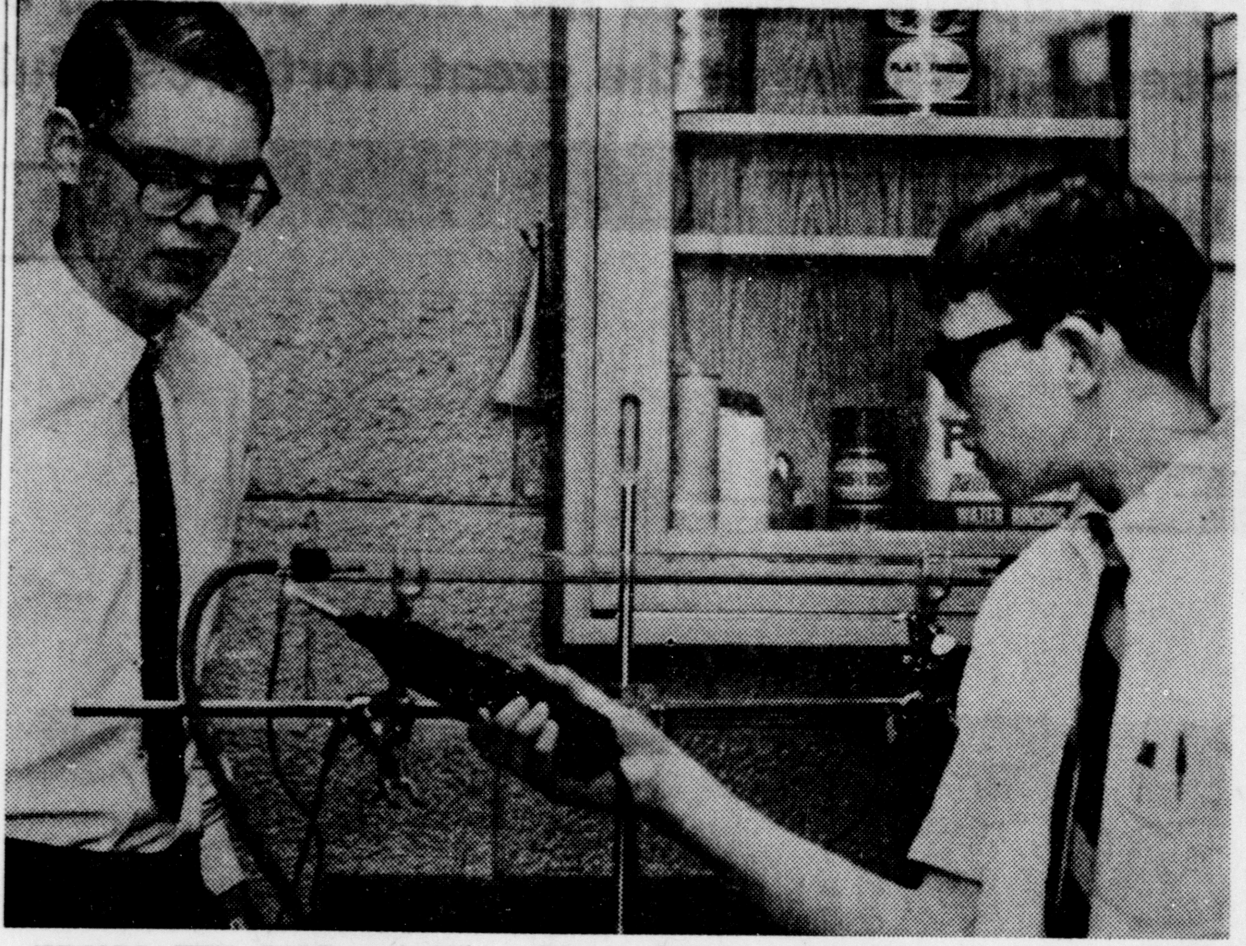
Bill Kushner, a junior at St. Viator, recently presented to the school's senior physics class the results and description of his work in analyzing the resistance properties of semi-conductors.

Sophomore Dave Woods is presently investigating liquid crystals and their properties. Junior Jim Ligman is working with principles of the Stefan-Boltzmann 4th-power law.

TWO OF THE most important projects are being done by juniors Mike Albers and Fred Schmidt. Mike Albers is studying different phenomena and discharge properties in a partial vacuum; Fred Schmidt is working to determine the speed of ion migration.

Although some of the projects are being completed now, Fr. Perham expects to have all the projects completed, organized, and written up by the first week in March.

At that time the results are to be entered in research contests sponsored by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, The Future Scientists of America, and the Illinois Junior Academy of Science.



JUNIORS KEN DALE and Mike Albers observe discharge properties of a partial vacuum. Mike began his work with discharge phenomena ast summer at St. Viator High School's summer science program.

Palatine Christmas Concert Is Dec. 18

The band will perform six numbers including themes from "Nutcracker Suite." The a cappella choir will sing six numbers such as "The Little Drummer Boy" and "Masters in This Hall." The frosh girls chorus and the soph-junior-senior girls chorus also will perform.

A highlight of the concert will be the madrigals' performance of "Twas the Night Before Christmas" with costumes and set. The concert will close with a massed number, "O Filli et Filiae."

This is antiphonal work arranged for a cappella choir and girls chorus. The band will accompany the choral groups with an arrangement of the number, written by their director, David Reiser.

A concert assembly will be presented to the school at 8:30 a.m. the following day. (11Y

3 Attend Elmhurst 'Day'

Two Rolling Meadows residents and one Wood Dale resident were among the 500 high school students from throughout the country who attended the second annual Elmhurst College Senior High Day Saturday.

They are Bonnie Buchholz, 3605 Finch Court, Rolling Meadows; Henry Juske, 3505 S. Bluebird Lane, Rolling Meadows; and Susan Wojcik, 207 Robin Lane, Wood Dale.

THE PROGRAM was planned by Chads C. Skinner, director of admissions, to give the students an opportunity to learn first-hand about college in general and Elmhurst in particular. The visitors talked with professors in the major fields of study about the academic programs of the college and what they offer for placement in industry, business and graduate school.

The students toured the campus, saw the Elmhurst College film recently shown on WGN-TV, and attended a program provided by Elmhurst students.

Entertainment included guitar playing by Bobbie Thomas of Villa Park, a sophomore, and his father, both well-known performers on the WGN-TV National Barn Dance.

Cathy Daly, a Mount Prospect freshman, also played the guitar and sang folk music. (16Y

Fremd Variety Show To Span the Globe

by CAROLYN JOHNSON

Fremd High School students will present their annual variety show Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. at the school.

Admission prices for this "journey around the world" will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

The cast will be introduced in the first number, "Faraway Places," the show's theme song. Neil Pierson will narrate his impressions of what he sees as he travels.

A COASTAL city in South America is the first stop. Jim and John Templeton take bongo drums and a flute duet through their paces and Mary Andersen dances her interpretation of "Whipped Cream."

In Kansas City, John Tindall sings "Kansas City" and Kris Krieble sings "I Can't Say No!" Bonnie Burrows, Chris Koetler, and Donna Burrows do an acrobatic version of "Everything Is Coming Up Roses."

The Boys Octet dig up an old barber-shop number, "The Way You Roll Your Eyes" and that is a weird treat in itself. To end the Kansas City survey, Gay Porchelli gives a piano monologue.

And then to Vienna, where Bob Hanna plays the beautiful "Romance in D." In London, Sarah Longman solos "As Long As He Needs Me" and Shirley Visher tap-dances her way through a cocky "Anchors Aweigh." John Tindall pops up again with Barb Gieffers in France to "Whistle A Happy Tune."

After France, there is Ireland where barmaids Connie Flora, Carolyn Pierce and Barb Hagen sing a medley of Irish folk songs. Then to New York and San Francisco and, of course, Chicago.

This is Fremd's first large production since becoming a 4-year school. (16Y

Holiday Concert

In the spirit of the holiday season, the choruses and bands of Conant High School will combine for their annual Holiday Concert Dec. 18 at 2 p.m. in the gym.

Selections from the Boy's Ensemble, the Freshman Chorus and the Girls' Advanced Chorus will include "Birthday of a King," "Winter Enchantment," "White Christmas" and an interesting three-part chant, "Do You Hear What I Hear?

Concert choir, in blue robes, will present a popular Christmas spiritual, with an unusual arrangement, "Go Tell It On The Mountain."

A MODERN composer will be represented with Thompson's "Alleluia." The choir will also present a unique collection of music from other lands, bringing together such lands as Mongolia and Germany.

The 46-piece Cadet Band will present a movement from "Quiet Christmas," a contemporary number by Bella Bartok, and "Balladair."

Conant's Concert Band, numbering 60 instruments, will present La Gassey's "Sequoia, March Hongroise" by Hector Berlioz and the "Twelve Days of Christmas." A popular favorite of the winter season, "Sleigh Ride," will also be presented by the band under the direction of David Hans. (16Y

Three One-Act Plays Highlight Drama Night

THE SANDBOX, one of three one-act plays to be presented tonight and Saturday at 8 p.m. by Willowbrook High School (Villa Park), features Tom Kupsky as The Musician and Jil Arven as Grandma.

The Willowbrook chapter of the National Thespian Society presents Drama Night tonight (Thursday) and Saturday. Three one-act plays will be presented at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Edward Albee's brief play, "The Sandbox," is the story of a couple who bring Grandma, an 86 year old woman, to the beach. A clarinetist is ordered out onto the stage and commanded to play. A young man in a spotlight is doing his daily dozen silently.

As Grandma begins to weave her rather dismal history between the indifferent patter of the husband and wife and the sympathetic sounds from the clarinet, and as she prepares to die, the athlete turns out to bear a close relationship to her.

The players are The Young Man, Tom Kupsky; Mommy, Diane St. Louis; Daddy, Mike Bailey; Grandma, Jill Owen; and The Musician, Dave Scott.

"Everyman," the finest example of the English morality play, was translated from its Dutch original and produced in England about 1529. In Everyman, there is a moral, an interesting story, and excellent characterizations.

Death comes for Everyman who begs for lenience and prolonged life. Death grants him a few precious hours to prepare for the end. Everyman appeals to Fellowship, Kindred, Cousin, and Goods, but they refuse to accompany him on his fateful journey.

Good-Deeds and Knowledge are ever faithful, and Confession strengthens Everyman's faltering steps as he approaches the grave. A host of angels sings a great choral as Everyman finally is received into Heaven.

The cast for Everyman includes Messenger, John Farrell; Death, Jack Hedquist; Everyman, Art Ahrens; Fellowship, Gerry Gall; Cousin, Mike Fleming; Kindred, Marcia Ohlman; Goods, Mike McDonnell; Good Deeds, Carol Constien; Knowledge, Donna Farquhar; Confession, Dennis Taggart; Discretion, Joan Friton; Strength, Lynn Mosteller; Five Wits, Cathi Bertram; Beauty, Jody Hemwall; and the Angels, Linda Webster, Linda Gustaveson, and Wendy Farnham.

"A Sunny Morning" by Serafin and Joaquin Alvarez Quintero is a comedy of sentiment and wit. The setting is a retired corner in a park in Madrid. It has to do with an aged couple who years before had been in love. The four characters of the play are Dona Laura, Kate Ruehr; Petra, Miriam Martz; Don Gonzalo, Ed Cefala; and Juanito, Al Weiger. Blame Cheating On the Cheater

Why does a student cheat?

This question has often been asked by startled educators and parents across the country as it becomes more and more apparent that classroom cheating has reached fantastic proportions.

The scandals involving the Air Force Academy and several other major colleges last year serve to illustrate this point. A recent poll of high school and college students revealed that over 40 per cent of them cheated regularly and admitted it.

Why does a student feel impelled to cheat? What could possibly cause 40 per cent of this country's youth to be wilfully dishonest? Who is to blame?

There are several "stock answers" to these questions. The embattled educational community claims that the terrific pressure on students from their parents to get good grades and to get ahead in the world causes the average student to become a cheater. Teachers also maintain that the parents do not care enough HOW the student gets the grades as long as they are high.

IN TURN, ANGRY PARENTS accuse the schools of making the "almighty A" the god of education. They deny that they put pressure on students—it is the school that does that. These parents often argue that rules and regulations are too lax and that students are practically encouraged to cheat by this laxity.

In the midst of these accusations and charges stands the dishonored cheater, silent and unscathed. He makes no excuses, but merely listens in silence to those people who argue over his guilt.

And there are the answers to the questions. While it would be ridiculous to discount the stock answers, it would be foolish to accept them as the absolute base of the problem. The ultimate responsibility for cheating must lie with the student who cheats.

There is no question that today there is much pressure exerted on students to achieve. It is a well-known fact that a successful education may be the determining factor in a successful life.

But when the proverbial chips are down, it is the student himself who must make the choice of being an honest person or a cheat.

IT IS THE STUDENT HIMSELF who must decide whether he will make a moral decision at that moment or not.

Perhaps if this fact were realized by a greater number of people, there would be fewer incidents of cheating. A person would be much more hesitant about cheating if he knew that the full responsibility for it would be placed on him rather than on some misguided parents and teachers. While these people may influence the student, he determines his own course of action.

If a few more people would punish Johnny rather than themselves, Johnny might be less inclined to be dishonest.

Let's hope so. —Jim Moran

High School's Policeman Helps Improve an Image

By SHIRLEY SERINI

"We like Mr. Gonzales very much. He has enhanced the image of the police officer in addition to giving us a tremendous service," Dr. Donald Thomas, principal of Elk Grove High School, said in speaking of Jose Gonzales, the first police counselor in District 214, stationed at Elk Grove.

Gonzales has been at Elk Grove since its doors were first opened in September. He provides service in two areas that could not be adequately taken care of in previous years: accountability and counseling.

OFTEN THERE are several students marked absent for one period during the school day. Gonzales is responsible for finding out where these students are during this time. He interviews them to find out why they were not in class. Usually they can give an acceptable excuse. But this system helps to discourage and avoid "ditching."

He is also responsible for patrolling the school grounds to make sure that people who do not belong are not there. He also provides advice on certain types of legal matters.

He also provides a counseling service for all those requiring it. A friendly smile and the desire to understand and assist are the weapons he uses in trying to break down the traditional wall of suspicion often connected with a policeman.

"The days of the Keystone Cop are over . . . we are working more towards specialization," Gonzales said.

He reasons with and talks to the youths. If he feels it necessary, he will make house calls. He tries to find out why the person did what he did. He tries to prevent him from doing it again.

Gonzales volunteered for the job. He was chosen by the school from among two other volunteers. Prior to his appointment at Elk Grove High School, he was a camp counselor for two years and he worked at the old Hull House, a social settlement, for five years. He has been a policeman at Elk Grove Village for 13 months.

HE IS WELL accepted throughout the school. The idea of a full-time policeman is not too popular, but, in the words of a freshman, "A cop like Mr. Gonzales is OK!"

"I think more schools should have programs like this," says one sophomore.

"He's a nice guy," says one junior. "It's a real good program, too. Since kids know that there's an officer in the building, they're more careful about what they do."

"He's a sweetie!" exclaimed one junior girl.

"It's a fine program to be encouraged in District 214 schools," is the opinion of another junior.

A freshman says, "He's doing a real good job."

Another junior adds his comment. "I think he's swell. It's a good idea to keep the kids in control."

A FRESHMAN likes his mannerisms. "He's nice . . . I like him best . . . He helps a lot . . . He talks to you instead of yelling."

Another frosh added, "It doesn't bother me . . . just as long as there aren't too many of them — (policemen)."

In one junior's opinion, "He's OK for the people who need it."

But, as in everything, Gonzales is not totally accepted, nor is the program.

"I don't see what the purpose of it is . . . it's ridiculous," said a junior.

"The kids feel tied down," said a frosh.

Another junior thinks the program is, "demanding too much of the individual students."

"IT'S TOO STRICT" added another junior.

"It stinks," is the opinion of two juniors.

One freshman thought the program should be used in the Chicago schools but not in the suburbs.

The program has both pros and cons, but the majority seems to favor it. It is beneficial to both students and staff and is helping to mold the teen for his future by guiding him when he needs it most — now, in the years when he is forming his opinions and patterns of behavior. (16Y

FVHS Students Tour Dixon State School

By MARYANN BUCZEK

Have you ever wondered how sheltered your life is? One hundred Forest View High School students were given a very clear picture of how unconscious they are of people's problems when they toured Dixon State School last week.

Dixon, which was the destination of a sociology field trip, is one of five institutions of its kind in Illinois. It is devoted to the care and training of the mentally retarded, ranging in age from 1 to 94 years. Built to accommodate 3,200 people, Dixon now houses 5,000.

First on the agenda of the trip was a 15-minute introductory explanation of the school, its policies, and its goals. The visitors learned that although overcrowded and understaffed, Dixon is the largest and most progressive institution of its kind in the world.

They were also told that the biggest problem in handling mentally retarded children is in convincing the public that these people are not dangerous or insane. Perhaps they are the victims of environment, brain defects from birth or physical diseases; but in nearly 80 per cent of the cases, science can pinpoint no real causes.

THE FOREST VIEW group was divided into seven study sections, each of which took a 2-hour tour of the grounds and some of the buildings on the campus. One of these study groups went to an infirm cottage, a cottage for Mongoloid children, an occupational therapy building for women and the hearing and speech therapy department.

In each infirm cottage, devoted mainly to wheel chair cases and those patients who cannot be housed anywhere else, overcrowding is evident. However, the cottages are clean and well cared for.

In a small cottage in the section of the campus known as Children's Village are about 24 Mongoloid children. These little ones are about as lovable as any child can be. Bright and alert, they crave affection.

The occupational therapy building is set up like an art school. It is organized into several departments and is usually filled with people. Women who have a childish mentality demonstrate their worth as they create rugs, samplers, clothes and toys. They also roll bandages and fold laundry.

EACH OF THE workers is given a task with payment upon completion. The work turned out by these patients can surpass things done by many people in our community. Intricate patterns are woven and hooked into rugs and wall plaques, most of them suitable to grace the most costly and modern of homes.

The patients are friendly and very proud of their work. They are eager to show samples to visitors or to explain, however slowly, the processes involved.

In the speech and hearing department, patients' hearing is tested with efficient electronic equipment. Every patient who demonstrates a hearing loss is given a hearing aid and taught how to use and care for it.

If speech correction is necessary, the patient is given as much time as he needs, or as the teachers can give him. Electronic equipment, tape recordings and telephones are some of the tools used in the therapy sessions. Each patient is handled individually.

Even though the residents must live with only the basic essentials in food and clothing, they appear to be happy. The competent staff tries to help their speech, or perhaps appearance, but there is nothing disgraceful or reproachful about the differences.

ALTHOUGH Dixon's facilities are not the best at present, the institution is making great progress in its attempt to educate the mentally retarded.

Many of the residents at Dixon could become useful, working members of the community. All they need is the chance for education and training.

Steps are being taken at Dixon and its four sister schools to create that chance. Programs are improving; the public is becoming informed through literature and trips like Forest View's field trip.

Despite all its handicaps, Dixon is taking an overwhelming step forward. (16Y

Hootenanny Offers Folk Song Variety

By JOY ANDRUP

Prospect High School's Folk Music Club will present its annual Hootenanny today in Prospect's Little Theatre.

The Hootenanny will provide a variety of folk songs and talent. Seniors Dave Studstrup and Jim Barton, who perform at the Salt Box in Elk Grove; and sophomores David Mattson, Bruce Rose and junior Mary Willwerth, who played in the Variety Show, will provide experienced talent.

Dave and Jim will sing "John Hardy," Violets of Dawn" and "That's the Way It's Gonna Be;" the traditional folk song "500 Miles" will be given by senior Mary Edwards; "Peanut Song," a nonsense song, and "Crooked Little Man" will be sung by freshmen Jan Hertel and Nancy Braun.

"VERY LAST DAY" will be done by sophomores Larry Wonders, David Stein and Howard Todd; Bruce Rose, David Mattson and Mary Willwerth will sing "Other Side of This Life" and "If Tomorrow Wasn't Such a Long Time;" senior Larry Stein and sophomore David Stein will sing "Kisses Sweeter than Wine."

Officers of Folk Music Club are president, Larry Stein, a senior; and secretary-treasurer Kathy McElligatt, a junior.

Mrs. Janet VanLear sponsors the Folk Music Club. (11Y

Canned Food Drive Scheduled Next Week

by MEREDYTH BUCKHOLZ

The 1966 Forest View High School canned food drive, under the chairmanship of senior Norma Eckert, will take place next week.

Again this year, the canned goods collected will be distributed to needy families in this area by Elk Grove Township authorities.

This is the fourth annual Student Council-sponsored drive and will again feature competition among the four classes to see which can collect the most canned goods.

Last year about 16,500 pounds of canned goods was collected, according to Burton L. Showers, student activities director.

TO HELP spur the donations among the students, there will also be interschool competition with Elk Grove High School, which recently challenged Forest View. Also, Forest View has challenged Wheeling, Arlington and Prospect high schools.

"The winning class and winning school each will be awarded the satisfaction of having been able to help those less fortunate than themselves," Norma said.

She also stressed that whether a prospective doner is associated with Forest View or not, all canned contributions will be accepted gladly next week at the Elk Grove township hall.

Rules as established by the Student Council service committee pertaining to the school contest are as follows:

Food may be deposited before and after school only; students may not leave school to purchase food during the day; all cans must have labels; dog food cans are not acceptable nor is food packaged in glass.

Boots, Beards and Bathrooms; Student Excursion to U. of C.

by SHIRLEY SERINI

One early morning last week found Elk Grove High School Principal Dr. Donald Thomas bidding farewell to 73 juniors as they embarked upon an all-day excursion to the University of Chicago.

The students are all members of Mrs. Suzanne Borenstein's English III classes. Mrs. Borenstein and student teacher Chrissy Rieman accompanied the group.

The first item on the agenda was a two-hour tour of the campus, including many of the school's 125 buildings.

These included the Rockefeller Memorial Chapel, the largest church on campus; the extensive Harper Memorial Library, Mandel Hall; and the smallest church on campus, the Joseph Bond Chapel.

One junior commented, "I have never been in so many churches in one day in all my life!"

THE TOUR also included a 15-minute stop at the Oriental Institute to see the wonders of early Egyptian civilization.

The final stop before lunch was at Robie House, built by famous architect Frank Lloyd Wright. The house, though unfurnished, presented an exciting example of modern architecture.

The house was designed with emphasis on horizontal lines, which, the designer believed, best exemplified the Midwest landscape.

Several juniors tried the old how - many - people - can - you - get - in - a - phone-booth trick, only using one of the several Robie bathrooms. Ten people fit comfortably, with room for another dozen at least!

THE TOUR WAS concluded at 11:30 a.m. with lunch at the Woodward Commons. After a delightfully defrosting meal, the students braved freezing weather once again for a scavenger hunt. The three classes were in competition with each other.

The list included such items as a briefly written description of the ceiling of Mandel Hall, the Dewey Decimal number of the "Scarlet Letter" in the card catalog in Harper Library, the number of pews on the left-hand side of the ground floor of Rockefeller Chapel, and the number of people who walked through the front door of the president's house between 1 and 1:15 p.m.

Each team had one hour 15 minutes to accumulate as many of the items as possible and each person had to have at least one other person from his team with him at all times or he was disqualified.

One pair of hunters in the second period class arrived at the president's house 35 minutes early. At exactly 1 p.m., members of the other teams had not yet arrived, so they rang the front bell, and when the maid answered the door, politely asked her to step out for just a moment, hastily explaining to her the conditions of the scavenger hunt.

Somewhat hesitantly, she stepped back in, wishing the two luck. No one else found out about the foolery until the hunt had been completed and all other teams had the total number of people entering the president's house wrong by one.

ALTHOUGH THE game ended in a three-way tie, everyone enjoyed himself immensely, while meeting some of the college students and becoming familiar with the campus.

Fifteen students received passes to sit in on math, history or humanities classes. They found these classes very interesting, unusual—and difficult. Georgine Banks was called upon to answer a question. Naturally, the material was far above her head, so she could not answer.

Terri Brenner was amazed at the liberal attitude prevalent in the classes. She attended a humanities class. "Students were smoking and some girls wore slacks," she said. "Some students came in the middle of the class, but the professor paid little attention to them . . . it was a very stimulating atmosphere . . . I liked it . . . it was very interesting."

Jim Payne also sat in on the humanities class. "The book they were discussing sounded very interesting," he commented. "They studied it intensely. I wish I could have read the book beforehand, so I could have better appreciated what the professor was saying . . . it was very interesting."

The thing that struck most EGHS students was the way people acted and dressed on campus. There was a large variety of boot-and-beard-wearing students. One girl was walking barefoot in the freezing weather.

MINI-SKIRTS were a frequent sight, along with white stockings and knee-high boots. Several boys wore beards. One boy explained how he got thousands and thousands of miles of travel on one pair of $11.16 Batman boots.

Another boy gave a short lecture to a pair of girls who told him they "had to" find something. "You don't have to do anything!" he informed them.

The trip was interesting, fun, and profitable to all involved. It was a tired, but happy, 73 students who arrived back at Elk Grove High School at the end of the day. (Y16

St. Viator High Open House Dec. 11

by JIM MORAN

St. Viator High School will sponsor an open house for the parents of incoming freshmen on Dec. 11 from 3 to 5 p.m. Every organization in the school is taking part and preparations are being made to accommodate an expected crowd of over 1,000 people.

The coordinator of the project is the director of student affairs, the Rev. Eugene Mierzwinski, C.S.V., who said, "The purpose of the event is to acquaint the parents with the functions and operations of the school, thereby showing them what their sons are getting into. We also would like to present the school generally in the best possible light."

The afternoon will open with an assembly in the auditorium. The school principal, the Rev. Francis Williams, C.S.V., will address the parents and explain to them the goals of St. Viator. The dean of discipline, the Rev. Paul Gilgallon, also will speak, and explain some of the rules and regulations of the school.

AFTER THAT, the parents will be taken on a guided tour of the school. The various student organizations will have displays in many of the rooms and each will be given a period of time in which to make a verbal explanation of their activity.

This part of the project is being sponsored by the Student Council. "We want the parents to understand just what our extra-curricular program has accomplished," said Ed Erbach, the executive president of the council.

"We have some very positive and important achievements which we think they should know about."

After the tour, refreshments will be served in the cafeteria by Pride, the service club. The refreshments are being prepared by the families of students under the direction of the Booster Club. (11Y

It has all the beauty of the ugly one.

A beautiful air-cooled motor that you don't have to worry about all winter, because it can't freeze. Beautifully situated in the rear of the car for better traction on sand, snow and ice.

Glamorous gas mileage (about 27 miles to the gallon.) Voluptuous tire mileage (about 35,000 miles to the set.)

Sensuous synchromesh transmission in all 4 forward gears, to make it shift smoothly.

Exotic independent suspension on all 4 wheels, to make it ride smoothly. (When one wheel goes over a bump it doesn't affect the opposite wheel.)

The VW Fastback also has a few additional charms all its own.

It goes a little faster. (84 mph.) And it gets up there a little faster. (0 to 70 mph in 28 seconds.)

There's a bit more room in the back seat of the Fastback than there is in the bug. And a good bit more trunk space. In fact, a whole extra trunkful.

It even costs more.

But that's still nothing compared to cars that have most of their beauty where you can see it.

Ann McGrath Named Fire Ball Chairman

Ann McGrath of Prospect Heights has been chosen general chairman of the Wheeling High School 1967 Fire Ball, which is sponsored by the Spokesman, student newspaper.

Chairmen of the individual committees are Connie Andrew, Prospect Heights, queen selection; Melani Van Petten, Prospect Heights, refreshments; Donna Polony, Prospect Heights decorations; Maryann Keeney, Mount Prospect, tickets and publicity; Gary Castle, Arlington Heights, arrangements; Bob Stilwell, Wheeling, band; and John Bruning, Prospect Heights, and Wayne Schennum, Arlington Heights, snow sculpturing and ice skating.

The second annual Fire Ball will take place Jan. 7. This date was chosen to celebrate Epiphany, the day that the Magi arrived in Bethlehem. Music will be provided by Gary and the Knightlites, who performed at the Fire Ball last year.

AMONG THE activities planned for the Fire Ball are ice-skating, a snow-sculpturing contest, a contest between classes to collect the most Christmas trees, and a bonfire, to get rid of the Christmas trees after they have been collected.

Finalists for queen will be selected by the faculty from the nominees chosen last week in homeroom. The queen must be a member of the homeroom which nominated her, and she must have an over-all "C" average. She should take part in school activities and must possess the qualities of leadership and dependability which make her worthy to be a WHS queen.

Students attending the Fire Ball will vote for the queen by dropping their tickets into one of the five boxes (one for each candidate) which will be located near the door. (11Y

Monkey Talks Up Elk Grove Pep

by SHIRLEY SERINI

High School Highlights

"Dr. Carter, noted animal lover, has just returned from Africa with the only living, talking monkey. Anyone interested in housing this rare specimen for a day or two, please come to Room 318 after school any time."

Thus ended the announcement and began the Elk Grove Student Council's efforts to promote school spirit. The project was a tremendous success as students tried to find Room 318 to apply to house the homeless creature for a day or two.

The only problem is that there is no room 318 in Elk Grove High School; nor is there a Dr. Carter, but there is a talking monkey.

In fact, this monkey, Uncle Charlie, is now being raffled off to someone who will provide him with a permanent home. Yes, after a several-week stay at Elk Grove, Uncle Charlie found the need for a place to "hang his hat."

Uncle Charlie made his first public appearance Dec. 2, at the pep assembly held in the EGHS gym, having had a full day of visits to the individual classrooms. Everyone immediately fell in love with this tiny bundle of fur and personality, and, although he hadn't said anything yet, the 10-cent tickets sold rapidly.

The proceeds are being used to buy canned foods to give to the needy as Elk Grove and Forest View high schools are competing in a canned food drive next week. (16Y

Stage Show Marks A 'Conant' First

A Conant High School first is well in the making due to the combined efforts of the modern dance club, choral ensembles and the dance band. Under the leadership of student director, Kathy Molbeck with assistants Renee Rzeppa and Joyce Hughes, the groups will present a stage show in the cafeteria.

Scheduled for 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, Jan. 13 and 14, the show will include live accompaniment for such dances as the can-can, the flapper dance and others. The Conaires will entertain with a variety of folk numbers and old and new melodies.

Also participating will be the Conettes and the newly formed barbershop quartet, composed of Jon Ellithorpe, Marshall Hjerstedt, Frank Getz and Earnie Sanders. Attractive costuming will grace the show.

ALTHOUGH the theme of the show will be kept a secret, music, dance and skits will be schemed around a time sequence from the 1850s to the present. Greg Klopf will serve as master of ceremonies. Comic presentations will be provided by Frank DeMore, Mike Romaniw, Ray Zabielski and Gail Helsper.

Junior Mike Modes is responsible for the script, with Miss Susan Nehring advising. David Hans will direct the stage band in special numbers. Mrs. Barbara Olsen is working with the dance numbers, while John Van Hook is preparing the vocal participants.

Tickets will go on sale after the holidays. (16Y

Arlington Debaters Win Second, Third

Arlington High School Varsity debaters came home with a third place trophy and the junior-varsity earned a second place at the Proviso West High School Invitational Debate tourney this weekend.

At the tournament the varsity affirmative team of Sandra Meinhardt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Meinhardt, 208 S. Reuter Drive, and Douglas Uselding, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Uselding, 1416 N. Highland, won two debates and lost two.

The negative varsity team of Lydia Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Wilson Jr., 520 S. Patton, and Karen Richard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richard, 814 S. Evergreen, was undefeated in four rounds of debate.

THE VARSITY'S total record of six wins and two losses tied it with eight other schools for first place. The tie was broken on the basis of speaker's points and Arlington was awarded third place.

In the junior varsity level of competition, Arlington's affirmative team of Bob Crockett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Newell Crockett, 711 E. Fairview and Tom Devine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Devine, 410 N. Mitchell, had a 3-1 win-loss record. Craig Howard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jere Howard, 926 N. Dryden, and Jeff Fairfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fairfield, 315 E. Oakton, Arlington's negative team, were undefeated in four debates.

Because of the junior-varsity's win-loss record of 7-1, they were awarded the second place trophy. (11Y

Winter, In Picture And Word

"KEEP IT SIMPLE." That's the advice Gil Krohn of Arlington Heights gives those planning to decorate the exterior of their homes for Christmas. Krohn creates simple but attractive Christmas trees by using chicken wire nailed to a wood frame and then filled with evergreen twigs. (Staff photo)

Christmas Decorating Tips

'Tis Time for Trimming

by MARY B. GOOD

Planning on primping the house with holiday sparkle? A tastefully decorated home exterior weaves a festive holiday spell that conveys pleasant memories of oft-told tales—the star of Bethlehem, a Christmas carol, the littlest angel and others.

Communities from Maine to California bedeck themselves with garlands of evergreen boughs and twinkling bulbs at holiday time, and lighting contests like Arlington Heights' "Operation Sparkle," taking place this Christmas, are further incentive for exterior decorators to plan prize-winning displays.

First place winner of previous Arlington community lighting contests in both 1958 and 1959, Gil H. Krohn gave some pointers to area residents who are seriously eyeing prizes in the "Operation Sparkle" contest, as well as those decorating for their own enjoyment exclusive of any contests.

HE MENTIONED that help is not often readily available from the library or area bookstores on the specialized subject of outdoor decorating techniques, although electric light manufacturers, such as General Electric Co., do publish pamphlets with ideas on how to use their products.

To help others in creating effective displays, Krohn said: "Keep your display simple, unified, and tasteful. Spotlight on one focal point and have everything else compliment it. One string of lights properly hung is more effective than a hundred haphazardly scattered."

A lovely effect can be achieved by careful arrangement of tiny, Italian outdoor lights on a favorite tree, much like that produced on Chicago's Michigan Avenue at Christmas time, but on an individual scale.

CHILDREN, IN particular, delight in seeing the trees and hedges about their home aglow with lights. Many themes like Santa's sleigh, toyland, angels and creche scenes have inherent child appeal.

A whimsical idea that could be utilized, if there is snow on the ground, is a snowman dressed in different colored lights. If using this idea, remember to assemble the light strings so that they avoid touching "Frosty the Snowman" or you may wind up with a lighted puddle of water.

Christmas lighting need not be elaborate in order to achieve effectiveness. An illuminated wreath or evergreen swag hung at an entrance does much to convey a friendly welcome and speaks a message of cheer to the casual passerby. Simple decorations are often the most eye-appealing. It's the planning and the way you put your ideas to use that counts. The artistic urge to create manifests itself particularly well in clever holiday decorations.

THE USE OF spotlights is becoming more and more popular, partly due to its dramatic effect. Spotlights are relatively easy to set up and not nearly as time-consuming as unraveling knots, assembling and checking lighting strings. Spotlights can be conveniently camouflaged with evergreen branches or a blanket of snow, weather permitting.

In planning your display take into account the architecture of your home. On an older home, a fresh approach can be achieved by illuminating the interior of an open porch, rather than framing the outline of the home exterior. A home of modernistic design and/or a shaker roof, stone work or other interesting texture may well benefit from playing up these features.

Avoid spotlighting drab or obscure outside wall areas. If your home has a picture or bay window, it sets the stage for a kaleidoscope of Christmas tree color. Utilize columns, arches or gables to best advantage, as well as available landscaping features and any fixed decorative pieces such as iron work, lamp post, planters or trellises.

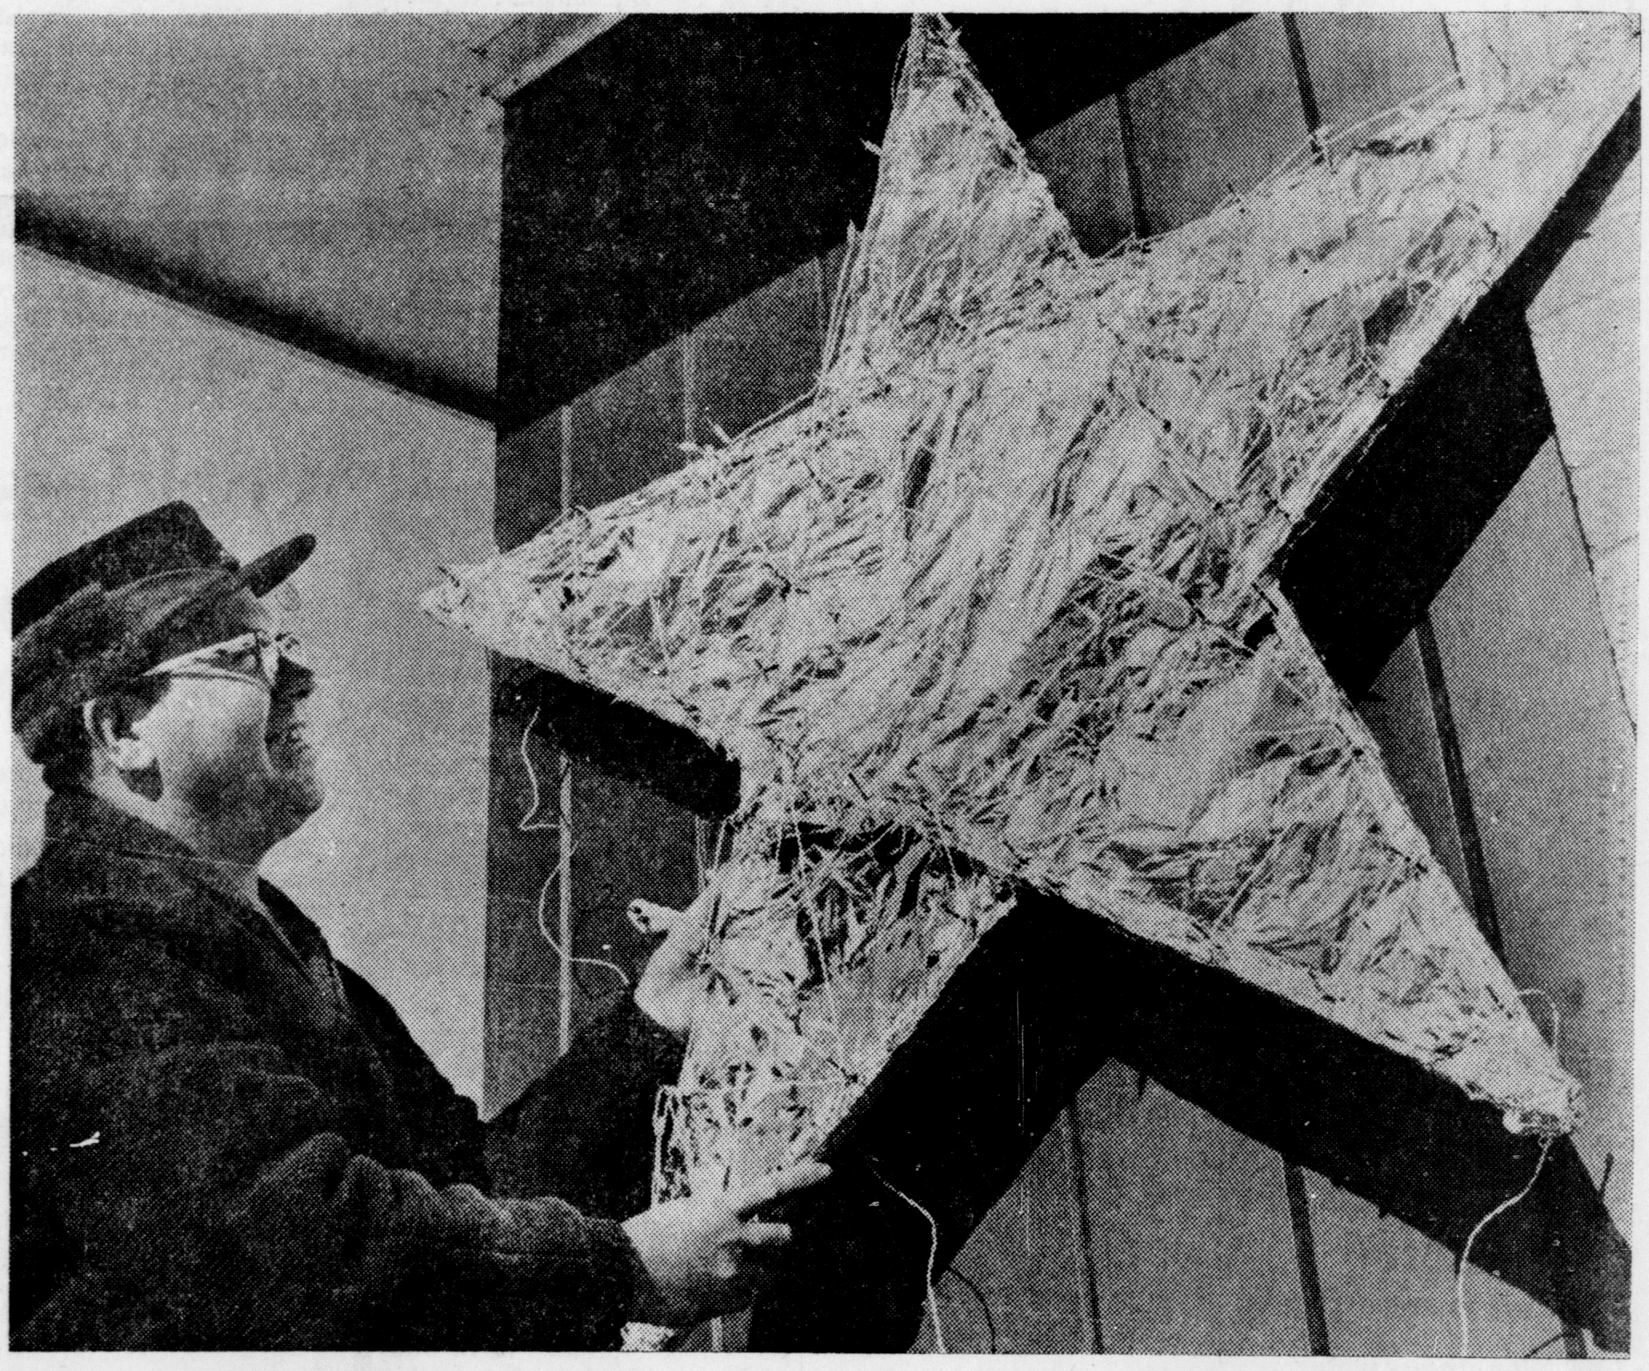
IF YOU PLAN wooden "cut-outs," the craftsman in your family must put his sabre saw to work early on this task. He should have available waterproof glue, exterior grade plywood or hardboard and perhaps lacquer for weatherproofing, depending on the type of cut-outs he is using.

There are a variety of craft patterns on the market utilizing paint-by-number patterns for yard display. They consist of waterproof materials that will stay in good condition for many seasons. Among those available are a three-car choo-choo, Santa, his reindeer and sleigh and a choir boy and angel, ranging in price from $1 to $3.

A booklet picturing the various projects can be obtained for 50 cents from P. O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

IF YOU'RE NOT in the paint-by-number mood, door panel sheets are printed in full color, all ready to glue, cut out and hang. These must be lacquered to protect against the elements unless otherwise stated by the manufacturer. Door panel sheets are available in department and variety stores. Garage panels as well as door panels are available with your name imprinted for a personal touch from many of the mail order houses.

The only limits to the usage of outdoor Christmas decorations are the bounds of your own imagination. Rely on your purse and your ingenuity to be your guidelines, and a happy holly hanging to everyone!



LIGHTING IS IMPORTANT in decorating a home exterior effectively. One string of lights properly hung does more than a hundred lights scattered at random. George Kempsell of Arlington Heights transforms a simple aluminum foil star into sparkling beauty by trimming it with lights. Growing in popularity because it is dramatic and easier to use than strings is the spotlight, which can be camouflaged with evergreen branches or snow. (Staff photo)

A Cause of Conflict:

The Prime of Life Crisis

At the very moment that adolescents are struggling to achieve their adult identity—with all the heartache that entails for them and their families — their parents are living through a struggle just as shattering: Facing the fact that their youth is over, that middle age is overtaking them.

These two struggles, and not just the orneriness of youth, often lie at the heart of the conflict between adolescents and their parents, according to observations made at a recent medical meeting in Washington, D.C., by Dr. Edward J. Hornick, associate professor of psychiatry at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York City.

Dr. Hornick pointed out that parents going through the "prime of life crisis" are forced to realize that they are not going to achieve their youthful dreams. Without being aware of it, they sometimes try to make their children fulfill their frustrated ambitions. Conflicts result.

THEN, TOO, just as the adolescent boy or girl is reaching the peak of physical development, the parents have to acknowledge their own thickening middles, lined faces. Envy and jealousy may then affect the relationship of parents and adolescent, Dr. Hornick warned.

The burgeoning sexuality of the adolescent, compared to the diminishing sexuality of the parents, may be exceedingly distressing to the latter. When parents set limits for their adolescent children are they doing so for the benefit of the adolescent? Or, the doctor asked, are they a projection of the parents' own sexual fears?

The father who is defeated at tennis for the first time by his gangling 18-year-old may react harshly to his son's request to borrow the family car. Similarly, the mother beset by menopausal fears even as she admires her daughter's ripening figure, may be outraged by her daughter's request for a new dress. What are the causes of the parents' emotion? The adolescents' demands — or something else the parents can't face?

EXAMPLES of parents suffering mental or physical breakdowns when their children leave the family nest are numerous, Dr. Hornick observed. Mothers frequently experience depression serious enough to require medical attention when their sons go off to college. Fathers sometimes have heart attacks soon after their daughters move into their own apartment.

All this is not to say, Dr. Hornick pointed out, that adolescence is not a stormy, difficult period in our society. It is. But parents who come to terms gracefully with their own middle-escense are apt to be able to enjoy (and bear) their children's adolescence.

Holiday Bazaar

Holiday fun is in store for members of St. Peter's Catholic parish of Itasca Saturday.

Doors will open at noon for a Christmas luncheon and bazaar.

Santa Claus will be present to delight the small folk, and older children will be able to test their skills at breaking a pinata.

STUDENTS OF St. Peter's Catholic School will entertain the adults. There also will be booths selling handmade articles, baked goods and candy.

The Christmas festivities are open to the public as well as members of the parish.

Mini-Parties Are 'In'

For Hostesses This Season

This is the year of the "mini-skirt." And this is the season for the "mini-party"—a "minute-man affair that insures maximum results for minimum efforts. Your house, of course, is already in holiday dress. And refreshments are simplicity itself because you buy them at the store or let your guests prepare their own.

THE MINI-MADRIGAL: on more and more college campuses, the Madrigal Dinner is an annual tradition. These are very elegant and elaborate affairs, complete down to the apple in the roasted pig's mouth. But try today's mini-version for a welcome change from the usual "At Home" or "Open House."

Make or buy your "figgy pudding" (plum and date both come in "tins." as the British cousins say). Mix a batch or so of wassail to serve piping hot. Then deck your halls with congenial guests.

You might also serve "nottes and datys"—the nuts and dates so treasured by medieval courtiers. And do buy or borrow some madrigal records to help invoke the spirit of Merrie Olde England. Or just play Christmas carols throughout your Mini-Madrigal.

THE COOKIE EXCHANGE: To perk up neighborhood relations, perk a big pot of coffee and buy or bake your Christmas cookies. Then ask your guests to bring along a dozen of their own favorite cookies, plus the recipe.

Each guest takes home a dozen different cookies from the assortment on the table and as many recipes as she cares to copy.

THE SHAM-PAGNE HOUR: A mother-daughter affair is one of the nicest parties to give during this busy season. It's one the guests always enjoy, especially when the daughters are home from school for the holidays.

So set your table agleam with silver and candles. Add flowers and all the feminine "fancies." Serve nuts, mints, cookies and other Christmas goodies—plus the feature, "Pink Sham-pagne."

To make this mock bubbly, just mix a big bottle of chilled ginger ale with every can of frozen pink lemonade concentrate. Or sparkle up your favorite pink fruit punch with ginger ale. Either way, serve it with a flourish — in your prettiest punch cups or very best stemmed glasses.

THE PICNIC IN THE SNOW: Will they love this in December as they did in May? Yes—and even more so.

Teenagers especially relish this out-of-season novelty. So fill the thermos with piping-hot cocoa, pack up your picnic basket and don't forget charcoal for the grill. In short, have yourself a regular summer picnic.

Take your guests down by the pond for a post-skating party—or right out to the backyard picnic table. Each guest's a chef, of course, for the highlight of the evening: "cooking - with - your - mittens -on"—burgers-a-go-go.

With Care It Will Keep

Your Holiday Poinsettia

A homemaker's thoughts of floral decorations at yuletide turn naturally to the traditional flower of the Christmas season, the poinsettia.

Known scientifically as euphorbia pulcherrima, meaning most beautiful, the poinsettia is a showy tropical shrub native to Mexico, Central and South America. The actual flowers of the plant are small in size, yellowish and beadlike, clustered within the bright red bracts or modified leaves, which many people think of as the flowers. Besides the more familiar scarlet poinsettia, there are the velvety pink and the lovely white varieties.

The poinsettia was named after Joel R. Poinsett, statesman and U. S. Secretary of War, who in 1825 was appointed the first American minister of Mexico. He found this attractive plant there and sent it to the United States. In 1836, botanists named the plant poinsettia.

A POINSETTIA plant received during the holidays can be kept in excellent condition, if you follow a few simple rules. Place the plant in a room, near a sunny window, where a constant temperature between 65 and 75 degrees is maintained. Avoid any chilling of the plant, as this will cause the leaves to become yellow and drop.

Be sure to give your poinsettia plant an abundance of water while blooming.

Dry air, fluctuations of temperature, gas and insufficient light affect them adversely.

WITH A LITTLE care, your plant can be carried over to flower again next year. The plant should be watered normally until half the leaves have dropped; then watering should be gradually reduced until the soil is completely dry. At this time, the plant must be placed in storage at a temperature of about 60 degrees.

About the middle of April or in May, cut the plant down to six inches, remove from the pot and repot in new soil, using a mixture of three parts loam, one part leafmold, one part sand and one and one-half parts well decomposed manure. Resume watering, and when the new shoots begin to develop, cut off all but one main shoot.

WHEN THE weather is settled and warm, take the plant outdoors to a sunny location and set the pot in the soil up to the rim. Turn the pot every week or so, to keep the roots from growing into the soil beneath the pot.

In the fall when the temperature drops to 60 degrees, bring the plant indoors, keeping it on the back porch for several weeks before placing it in the living room; water it lightly until it has become accustomed to the indoor conditions. The poinsettia will normally bloom during the latter part of December or in January.

A poinsettia brochure is available upon request at both Lincoln and Garfield Park Conservatories, Chicago.

How Yule Tree Got Its Start

Decorations for the traditional family Christmas tree are attributed to several sources.

One story has Martin Luther putting candles on an evergreen to represent the stars on Christmas Eve. Another tells of St. Boniface when he was a missionary in Germany in the 8th Century. Trying to discourage a pagan regard for the oak, he led a group of people into a forest and gestured at a fir tree. He said it pointed to the Christ Child and commanded them to take fir trees into their home as a sign of worship.

ANOTHER STORY credits medieval German drama with the origin of trimming and lighting a Christmas tree. In their plays, the Germans used decked-out fir trees as the "tree of Paradise," representing the Garden of Eden. When authorities frowned on public displays of this sort, the tree was used in the home; a custom gradually evolved of decorating it at Christmas time with cookies, fruit and eventually, candles.

The custom was introduced in England in 1841 by Prince Albert, Queen Victoria's German husband. German immigrants brought it to America, and the first United States Christmas tree is dated 1832, in Cambridge, Mass. (S

Week's Best Food Buys

Fryers join pork and lamb as the featured food fare in more area outlets. Improved livestock receipts are responsible for market cost skid.

Pork is particularly plentiful with 69-cent center cut pork chops again common. Loin and rib end roasts are featured in a 49-59 cents a pound range. Bacon quoted lowest at 59 to 69 cents a pound for major brands. Lamb leg roasts are competitive at 69 to 79 cents. Shoulder roasts start at 49 cents, chops at 59.

TOP GRADE fryers are selling at 25 to 29 cents a pound. Eggs are quoted lower again. Fresh fruit continues the top produce value.

Here are the more common Chicago area food values:

Poultry: whole fryers, fryer parts.

Meats: pork chops, pork loin and shoulder roasts, spareribs, bacon; lamb leg roasts, lamb shoulder roasts and chops; ground beef, stew meat, beef rib roasts.

John McCullough Completes OCS, Marries in October

Shortly after completing Army officers candidate school, John Edward McCullough, son of the Roy C. McCulloughs, 334 Cumnock Road, Inverness, Palatine, took as his bride, Kathleen Sharon Phelan, daughter of the John P. Phelans of Grand Island, Neb.

As former residents of Lancaster, Pa., the Phelans chose St. Anne's Catholic Church in that city for the marriage of their daughter. Kathleen and John were married on Oct. 29 in a noon-time nuptial mass with Rev. F. M. Mongelluzzi officiating. White glads and chrysanthemums with palms formed the setting for the double ring service.

THE YOUNG couple both attended Pennsylvania schools. The bride was graduated from the School of Nursing—Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia and until her marriage was a staff nurse at the same hospital. Mr. McCullough was graduated from Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pa. in 1965, and in October 1966 completed OCS in Eustis, Va. He is now a second lieutenant in the Army and he and his bride are residing in Williamsburg, Va.

For her marriage the bride chose an imported white slipper satin and chantilly lace gown styled with portrait neckline edged in chantilly motifs, fitted bodice, modified empire waistline, long, pointed sleeves and an A-line skirt ending in a semi-cathedral watteau train of chantilly. A petal crown headpiece held her silk illusion veil and she carried a cascade of white roses with ivy. Mr. Phelan gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Patricia A. Phelan served as her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaid was Barbara Miller of Warminster, Pa., a nursing school classmate of the bride.

THEIR FLOOR-LENGTH gowns were in blue French crepe fashioned with batteau necklines, fitted bodices, modified empire waistlines, elbow-length sleeves and sheath skirts with trains. They also wore petal crown headpieces which held circular illusion face veils, and their flowers were cascades of yellow spider mums with pompons in shades of gold.

Edward A. Caine of Laurel, Md., a fraternity brother of the groom, served as best man and ushers were Timothy C. Phelan, brother of the bride, David Claussen of Stratford, Conn. and J. Dennis Nelson of Covington, Va., both fraternity brothers of the groom.

The reception was held a tthe Holiday Inn in Lancaster after which the couple left on a one-week Canadian honeymoon. For the wedding Mrs. Phelan chose a pink knit dress with capped sleeves, matching accessories and a hat in contrasting shades of pink. Mrs. McCullough chose a light gray wool 2-piece dress with green velvet hat. Both mothers had orchid corsages.

Before attending college, the groom was graduated from St. Peter's Preparatory School in Jersey City. (S

'Workless Bazaar' Raises Money for Trinity Guild

A bazaar that really wasn't a bazaar at all took place Dec 1 at the Christmas tea sponsored by the Women's Guild of Trinity Lutheran Church of Rolling Meadows. There were no aprons, no holiday decorations nor homemade "goodies" for sale, but guild members have already totaled up their proceeds.

Because of the busy hustle and bustle of Christmas preparations, the guild came up with a fund-raising idea that would involve a minimum of work. The result was a "workless bazaar booklet" lined with money pockets which each member brought to the tea after enclosing checks and cash for the items she would have purchased. There was even a pocket for the rolls and coffee that would have been served.

The Guild's Christmas tea is an annual event planned as a social get-together, with this year's entertainment provided by a choral group from Arlington High School. (S

Color Your Home 'Safe'

What color is safety? At a street corner it's the red of the stop sign. Near a school it's the yellow of the caution sign. On a curve it's the white of the double center line. The safety colors of the road are painted protectors we're all familiar with. But what is the color of safety in the home?

More accidents occur in the home than anywhere else. So why not do as Acme Quality Paints suggests, and "Color Code Your Home for Safety"?

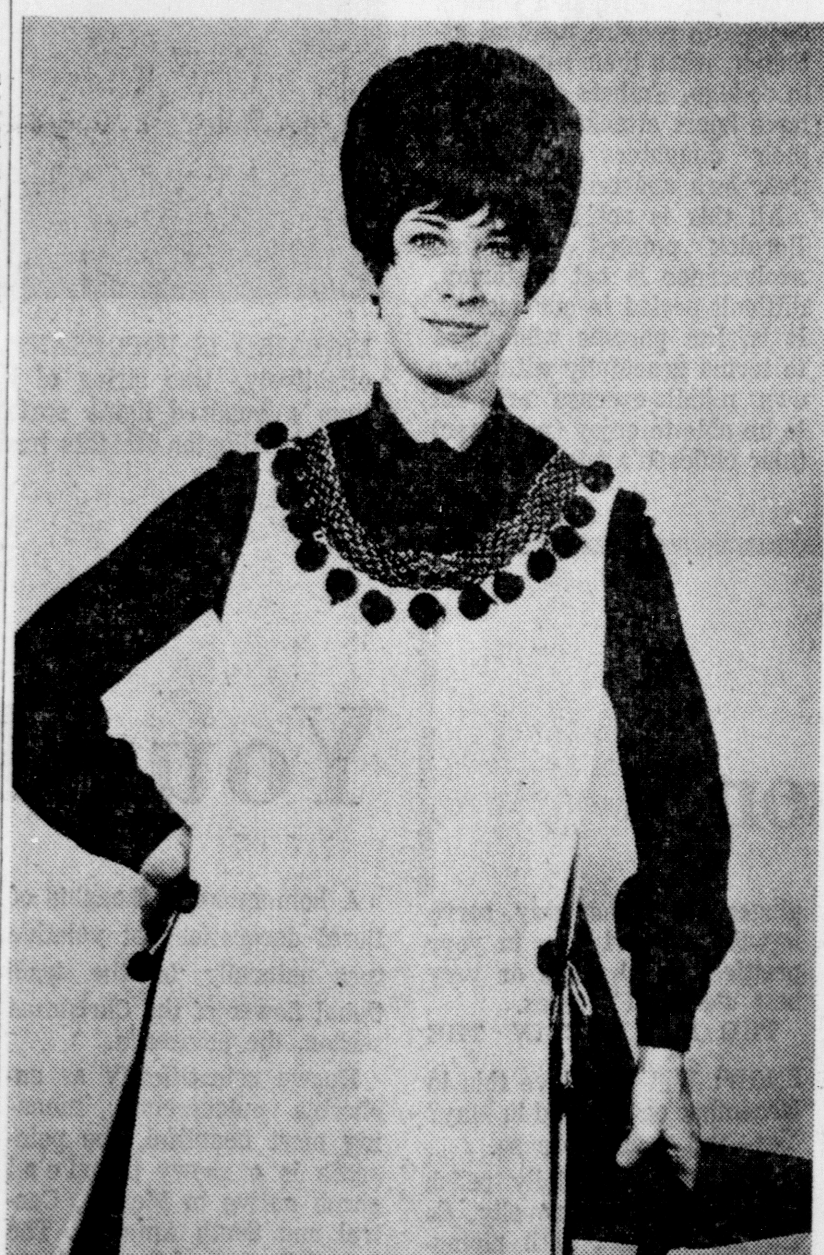
FOR EXAMPLE, those basement steps cause many a slip twixt the top and the last. Try painting the top and bottom steps a bright color, like red or yellow, so that the climber will always know when he's finished his climb.

Have you ever skinned a shin while groping for a light switch? Save yourself a lot of agony by coating switches with a reflective enamel. Reflective paint on the doorknobs of cellars, attics, stairwells and dark hallways is also a good idea.

If there are small children in your home, be sure to use only a completely safe paint like all surface enamel on doorknobs, as well as door frames, windowsills, stair rails and other spots that tiny teeth are apt to chew on.

SPEAKING OF hallways, Acme recommends that you "color them light." Light-colored walls offset any lack of illumination and make corridors not just safer, but more attractive too.

Finally, paint your home's safety equipment. Fire extinguishers are traditionally red; first aid kits are bright green. You take it from there and see how colorful living safely can be! (S



AN APRON THAT YOU'VE SEWN yourself is the easy solution to gift problems. For a party apron choose sparkling white cotton pique or lustrous cotton satin, and trim the scooped neckline with black pompon braid. Use a basic shift pattern to make up your own design or write National Cotton Council, Box 12285, Memphis, Tenn., for instructions.

Stress Can Trigger Illness

Bacteria and viruses alone don't cause disease. Disease also can be triggered by social and psychological stress.

A striking study by psychiatrist Dr. Arthur Z. Mutter and psychologist Maxwell J. Schleifer, Ph.D., of the Boston University School of Medicine compared the recent history of 42 children aged 6 through 12, hospitalized with such illnesses as rheumatic fever, meningitis, croup and pneumonia, with a group of 45 children in good health and of similar age, race, religion and family background. Here's what they found:

More of the sick youngsters (67 per cent) had lost someone they cared about than the well ones (46 per cent).

THE FAMILIES of the sick children were more likely to have a family member whose health, mood or behavior was disturbed. Among these might be a mother suffering menopausal depression or a moody father who drank a good bit or a rebellious adolescent brother.

The mothers of the sick children seemed less adequate as parents.

More than half the sick children had gone through changes that were moderately or seriously threatening to them (a parent's serious illness or death). None of the well children had experienced a serious change.

Dr. Mutter emphasized that emotional stress, while not causing physical ills, seemed to trigger them. (S

by Dr. W. W. Bauer

What have winter sports to do with the doctor in the kitchen? Well, it's like this.

The more inactive you are in the season when the temptation is to hole up and keep warm, the more likely you are to get fat if you keep on eating as you did while you were water skiing, hiking, playing golf or tennis or working in the garden.

Winter exercise is just like eating less, and it can be a lot more fun.

MAYBE YOU'RE tired of hearing that the calories you take in must remain in balance with the energy you put out if you wish to maintain that desirable weight which keeps your clothes fitting and your silhouette attractive, instead of looking like the fat woman who was described as having double chins — all the way down.

The growth of winter sports in the United States is one of the more encouraging signs of the times. It proves that there is fun to be had outdoors as well as in, without necessarily spending the winter on a tropical beach.

Skating is available almost anywhere, and there is skiing within easy distance of many localities. For those tied too closely to their work, these sports are possible only on the weekend. But there are other alternatives.

FOR THE CITY dweller, there are municipal and other pools for swimming, and moderately priced facilities for handball and other regular gymnasium activities. And there is always walking and tramping, in the country, if possible. As a last resort, one can always do formal exercising in his bedroom, if he has the will power.

Lists of activities have been pubilshed which show the amount of walking, stair climbing, piano playing, horseback riding and a score of other activities necessary to burn up a given number of calories.

At first glance these are very discouraging, but actually they are not so bad if one realizes that the given activity does not need to be carried out all at once. It adds up.

FOR THE average person who is not situated so as to be able to take time for sports or regular exercise routines, the best winter activity is walking.

Obviously the suburban dweller cannot walk miles to work or back home. But he can walk to the suburban station instead of having his wife drive him, and he can walk back home from there. Maybe he can even persuade his wife to walk with him.

Instead of driving on short errands, walking is better. Even the shopping can be done on foot with the aid of a cart for heavy packages. We all did it during the gasoline shortages in wartime, and it did us more good than harm.

The undeclared dividend from more winter activity is a more liberal diet without the penalty of those added pounds. This dividend is payable as you go.

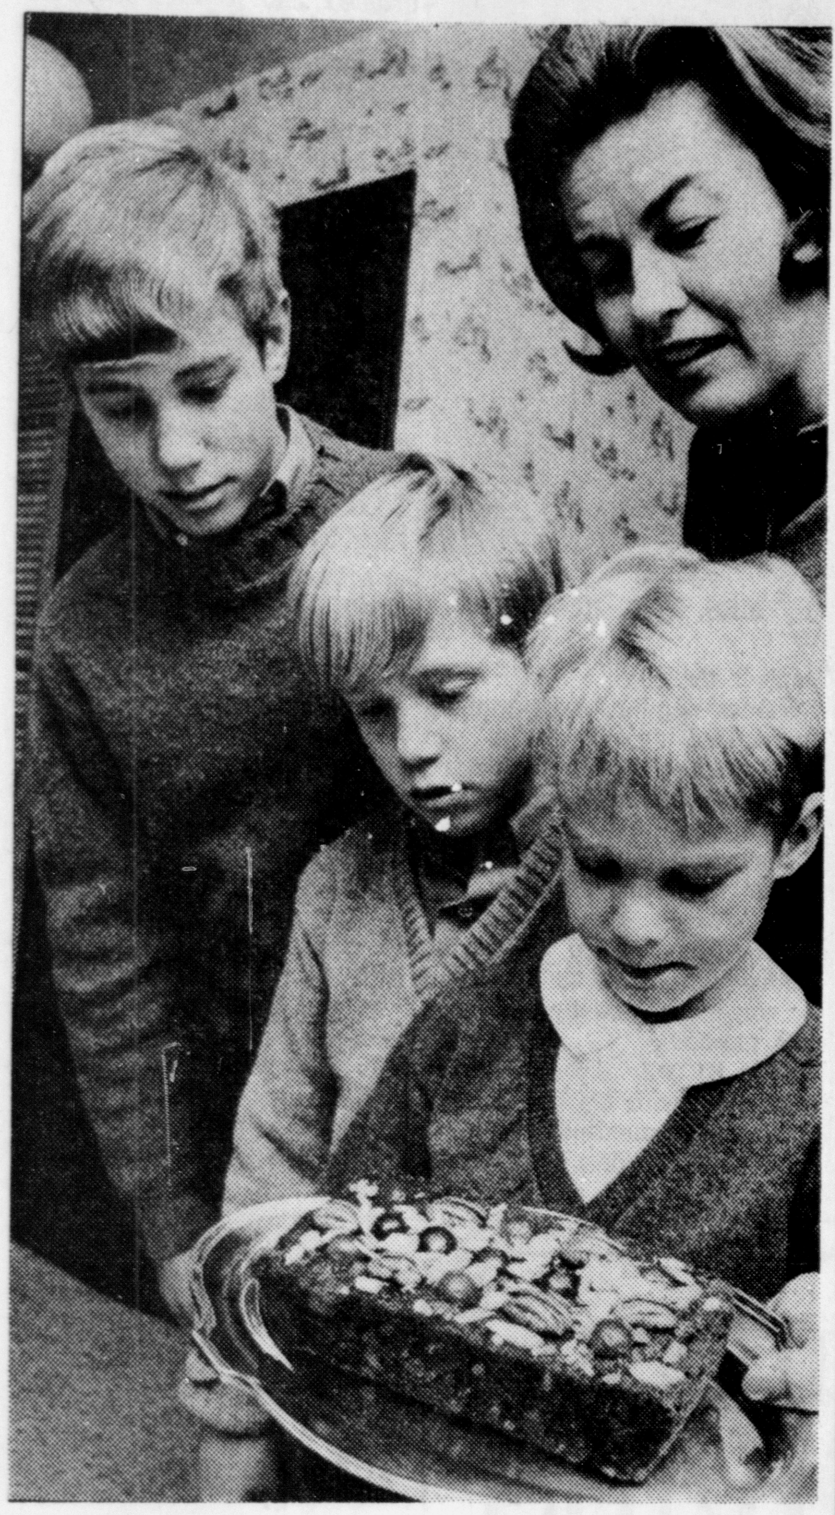
Say 'Merry Christmas' with This Fruit Cake



BILL, JIM AND TOM KELLY admire the elegant fruit cake prepared by their mother, Mrs. William P. Kelly of Arlington Heights. Francie Kelly makes several of these cakes a few weeks before Christmas and allows them to mellow in brandy-soaked cloths. Dark, rich and full of candied fruit, dates, raisins and nuts, these flavorful cakes are excellent to serve to holiday callers or give to friends as gifts.

Meringue Cookies Filled with Dates

by LOIS SEILER

Dark and sweet and a treat to eat is the elegant fruit cake made every holiday season by Mrs. William P. Kelly of Arlington Heights.

"We like lots of fruit and very little cake," Mrs. Kelly explained, "and so this recipe suits us perfectly."

Mrs. Kelly has been preparing this cake for 15 years; thus it has become a tradition in her household. She makes it for gifts as well as for the family.

Chuck-full of candied fruit, currants, raisins, dates and nuts, the cake is flavored with five spices plus rum or brandy (brandy being preferred by this cook.)

"I usually start baking the cakes after Thanksgiving, allowing at least three or four weeks for them to mellow," Francie Kelly explained.

BECAUSE THE batter is so heavy and stiff and because there is such a large quantity of ingredients (one recipe makes three cakes), Mrs. Kelly uses the top of her roasting pan to stir the ingredients together. She places a pan of water in the bottom of the oven when baking the cakes to keep the tops shiny.

After they are baked, she decorates the cakes with candied fruit dipped in corn syrup which makes them adhere to the top of the cake.

She then wraps them in rum or brandy soaked cloths and stores the cakes in air tight containers.

Once a week Francie pours about three tablespoons more brandy over each cake and seals them up again. They are really well-flavored by Christmas!

HEAVY, MOIST and rich, this is an excellent dark fruit cake that delights holiday callers and family alike.

When the Kellys lived in New York, they often bought special date-filled meringue cookies at a bakery. The family loved them, and Francie searched and searched until she found a recipe that approximated these cookies.

Called Moonbeam Kisses, they consist of merely five ingredients: egg whites, sugar, chopped almonds, dates and vanilla.

Baked on brown paper for 18 to 20 minutes, the cookies are chewy and delicious. They are an asset to any holiday cookie assortment.

THE KELLY children have a favorite recipe that they enjoy preparing for Christmas. It is for Ice Cream Cone Trees, i.e. ice cream cones which are frosted and decorated to look like Christmas trees.

"We always made these at home when I was a girl and had our tree decorated with homemade goodies. Now my children enjoy doing the same thing," Francie commented.

A ribbon is tied around the wide mouth of the cone to form a handle, and then white frosting is spread over all. Before it hardens, the trees are "trimmed."

"Children can use their imagination and decorate the trees with a variety of tasty tidbits such as cinnamon red hots, silver petites, colored sprinkles, popcorn, chocolate jimmies, etc.," Francie remarked. "Then the frosted trees may be filled with candy and hung on the tree."

THEY ARE lots of fun for the Kellys' three sons, Bill, 13, Jim, 9, and Tom, 6.

Cooking is just one of Mrs. Kelly's many interests. In addition to her homemaking activities, she has been typing manuscripts for a writer from New York for the past eight years. She also belongs to the Scarsdale Estates Book Review Club and is a member of the PTA board at Dryden School.

The Kelly family moved from New York to their home at 751 Burton Place in Arlington Heights three years ago. They are members of Our Lady of the Wayside Catholic Church.

DARK FRUIT CAKE

- 1½ cups butter
- 1½ cups brown sugar
- 6 eggs, separated
- ½ cup whole blanched almonds
- ½ cup whole walnuts
- ½ cup quartered pecans
- ½ cup candied cherries or more
- 1 cup currants
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 cup dates
- 1 cup candied pineapple
- 1½ cups mixed candied fruit peels
- 1½ cups flour
- 1 tablespoon mace
- 1 tablespoon cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon cloves
- 1 tablespoon allspice
- 1 tablespoon nutmeg
- ½ cup brandy or rum
- 1½ teaspoons baking soda
- 2 tablespoons water

Cream butter and sugar. Add beaten egg yolks.

Dredge all fruit and nuts with half of the flour. Add gradually to the creamed mixture. Add remaining flour which has been sifted with the spices. Then blend in the brandy or rum.

Fold in stiffly-beaten egg whites. Dissolve baking soda in the water and add to the batter last.

Line three loaf pans with brown paper and butter the paper. Turn the batter into the pans. Bake in a slow oven, 250 to 275 degrees, for 3½ to 4 hours. Place a pan of water in the bottom of the oven. (This will keep the tops of the cakes shiny.)

REMOVE CAKES FROM OVEN and place on a rack. Let them cool in the pans for a half hour. Remove from pans; carefully peel off paper. Let cool thoroughly.

To decorate the cakes, dip the bottoms of candied cherries, candied fruit or nut halves in light Karo syrup to make them adhere to the top of the cakes.

Wrap cakes in cloths soaked in rum or brandy. Put in air-tight containers and store in a cool place, or wrap in foil and store in refrigerator. Once a week pour 3 tablespoons more brandy or rum on top of each cake. The cakes should mellow for about 3 weeks before being served. Yield: 3 fruit cakes.

MOONBEAM KISSES

- 2 egg whites, beaten
- 1 cup sugar
- ¾ cup chopped almonds
- 1½ cups chopped dates
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Beat egg whites until quite foamy; add sugar gradually, beating until stiff. Fold in almonds and dates. Blend in vanilla. Mix carefully, keeping meringue as puffy as possible.

Drop by teaspoons onto ungreased brown paper. Bake 18 to 20 minutes at 250 degrees. (Do not overbake; cookies should be chewy, not dry.) Yield: Approximately 3 dozen.

ICE CREAM CONE TREES

- 10 to 12 sugar cones
- 3 cups confectioners sugar
- 1 unbeaten egg white
- ½ teaspoon lemon juice
- Little water

Tie a ribbon around the wide mouth of the cone to make a handle.

Mix together the sugar, egg white and lemon juice until smooth, using just enough water to make the mixture of spreading consistency. Frost no more than 2 cones at a time, and decorate immediately before frosting hardens. Trim the trees with cinnamon red hots, silver dragees, colored sprinkles, chocolate jimmies, popcorn or the decoration of your choice.

The trees may be filled with candy and hung on the Christmas tree.

Barbara Rasmussen Bride Of Childhood Sweetheart

Although Barbara Rasmussen moved from Easton, Pa., while a young girl and grew up in Arlington Heights, it was at a wedding last summer that she was reunited with a childhood sweetheart, C. David Howell, whose parents, the Chauncey D. Howells, still live in Easton.

Barbara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Bruce Rasmussen, 432 S. Waterman, and David had been "steadies" in third grade in Easton, and, despite the years' separation, their romance re-kindled among happy reminiscences.

THEY WERE married Nov. 26 at 2:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church, Arlington Heights, in the glow of candlelight. Pink glads and white mums accented the altar as the couple repeated their vows before Dr. Paul L. Stumpf.

A reception followed at Flick-Reedy Co., Bensenville, and the couple left for a honeymoon in Mexico City and Acapulco before settling in Chicago.

THE BRIDE, a graduate of Arlington High School and DePauw University, is attending Northwestern's graduate school of business administration while working for Arthur Young Accountants in Chicago. The groom was graduated from the University of Virginia, attended Tulane University and was then graduated from Villanova University Law School. He works for Harris Trust and Savings Bank in the city.

MRS. C. D. HOWELL

Shades of pink and burgundy surrounded the bride as she stood at the altar for the double ring rites. Her attendants were all gowned alike in burgundy chiffon over satin, styled with a gently scooped neckline, long pouf sleeves and floor-length skirt. They wore matching feather hats, and each carried a single long-stemmed large pink glamellia.

THE BRIDE carried white glamellias with ivy in her bouquet, complementing her semi-fitted sheath dress of white crepe worn with a cage overdress of illusion net. The overdress was appliqued with snowflake daisies centered with tiny pearls. A band of tiny pearls braided into a scalloped coronet held her tiered veil of silk illusion.

Mrs. W. Hunt Dumont of Bloomfield, N. J., was matron of honor, preceded down the aisle by five bridesmaids. They included Mrs. Robert Rasmussen of Painted Post, N. Y., sister-in-law of the bride; Mrs. John H. Grundy of Anniston, Ala., the groom's sister; Mrs. Robert Fischer and Miss Margaret Monsen, both of Chicago, and Mrs. Thomas Schadt of Evanston.

CHAUNCEY D. Howell Jr. of New York City was his brother's best man, and 6½-year-old Bruce Rasmussen of Painted Post, N. Y., carried the rings for his aunt's wedding.

Seating the guests were Richard Rasmussen of Arlington Heights, the bride's brother; Thomas J. Andre of Doyles town, Pa., W. Hunt Dumont, J. Thomas Fowler of Boston and Lee Hettinger of Chicago.

Witnessing her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Rasmussen was attired in a pale pink silk suit with a beaded shell, matching accessories and a pink cymbidium corsage. Mrs. Howell wore a pale blue brocade dress and coat, matching accessories, and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses. (S

PI BETA PHI

Pi Beta Phi Alumnae Club, serving Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and surrounding communities, is holding its annual Christmas party Wednesday, Dec. 14, at 8 p.m. Hostess will be Mrs. Samuel Clark Jr., 454 Banbury, Arlington Heights.

MRS. E. R. FOSTER JR.

Pi Phi's look forward to this party as the "really fun affair" of the year. Traditionally there are stacks of colorfully wrapped packages from which, in a grab bag manner, each member ends up with one to open. Most are clever, original creations of members, perhaps a wreath for the kitchen, a decoration for the mantel or a Christmas apron.

Mrs. D. W. Starek of Arlington Heights is chairman of hospitality for the evening.

Any Pi Phi's new to the area are invited to join in the festivities by calling Mrs. Robert Lollar, 255-5594.

ALPHA OMICRON PI

Members of Northwest Suburban Alumnae of Alpha Omicron Pi have been asked to delay wrapping their Christmas gifts until after Wednesday, Dec. 14, in order to take advantage of clever ideas from Mrs. Thomas Johnson of Arlington Heights.

Health Expert Gives Cold Weather Advice

A warning to "take extra precautions to guard against the injuries cold weather can cause" has been issued by Dr. John B. Hall, director of the Cook County Department of Public Health.

"It doesn't always require below freezing temperatures to cause injuries to the body," he said. "Frostbite, trench foot and chilblain," he explained, "can occur in either severe or mild weather providing conditions of moisture, wind and length of exposure are just right."

"Chilblain," Dr. Hall said, "is probably one of the most common of cold injuries. With women's fashions such as they are—mini-skirts and thin stockings do not offer adequate protection against strong winter wind with near or below freezing temperatures."

USUALLY chilblain appears as a reddish or bluish area on the skin. When the area is warmed, there is an itching or burning sensation and on further exposure to cold, these same sensations may return.

Frostbite, in minor cases, looks like small, white or wady appearing patches on the skin. When the area affected is warmed, it becomes mottled and may be swollen and have blisters.

Trench foot can occur in temperatures as mild as 60 degrees (Fahrenheit), but it depends on length of exposure, dampness and lack of foot movement. Once trench foot has affected a person, he may have pain, sensitivity to cold and excessive sweating for several years.

FOR PREVENTING cold injuries, Dr. Hall offered these suggestions:

Avoid tightly fitting garments, gloves or shoes which interfere with blood circulation.

Do not allow the feet to remain wet for long periods.

Change wet footwear, stockings or gloves as soon as possible.

Protect, where practical, all areas of the body when there is high humidity or wind and freezing temperature.

Keep circulation moving by changing position frequently or simply exercising arms and legs.

If any part of your body begins to feel excessively cold or numb, seek warmth or some type of shelter immediately.

Warming cold areas of the body by immersing in water which is just above normal body temperature is preferred over rubbing with snow or placing in cold water.

IF A PERSON suspects he has been injured by the cold, Dr. Hall urged getting in touch with the family physician immediately.

"Delay in this respect may only cause further suffering," he said. (S

Film Shows Paintings Done By Pre-Communist Chinese

"Christ in the Art of China," a filmstrip showing Christian paintings done by pre-communist Chinese artists, will be featured at the Christmas meeting of the Northwest Suburban branch of the American Association of University Women. Additional Christmas spirit will be brought to the meeting by the AAUW Choral Group which will sing a selection of Christmas songs. The group, directed by Mrs. R. C. Cooper of Mount Prospect, has been singing for many years, and traditionally performs for the branch at the December meeting. A guest violinist, Miss Louise Landgraf of Des Plaines, will accompany one of the selections.

Nutrition Is Next Topic In LaLeche League Series

Nursing mothers do not need a special diet, but all mothers do need a well-balanced one. There is no nutritious food a nursing mother should avoid.

"Can I eat chocolate, cabbage and fresh fruits?" the nursing mother may ask. "Of course," says Mrs. Quentin Ford, leader of the Arlington Heights group of LaLeche League, which is sponsoring a meeting on this subject. The session takes place Tuesday, Dec. 13, at 8:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Raymond Hornbostel, 2112 E. St. James Place.

"NUTRITIONAL Know-how for the Nursing Mother" is the third chapter of the league's manual, "The Womanly Art of Breastfeeding," which will be the text of this meeting. It is the fourth in a series of monthly meetings on breastfeeding.

LaLeche League mothers are dedicated to helping other women to successfully nurse their babies. Mrs. Ford may be called at CL 3-9506 for further information. (S

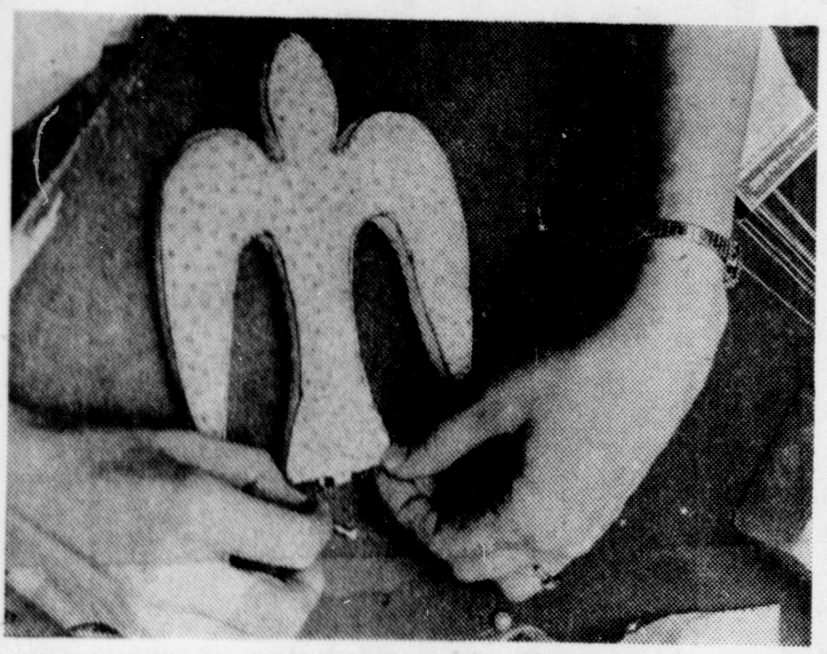
'Chrismons' for Yule Tree



"CHRISMONS" NOW HANG on the Christmas tree at the Lutheran Church of the Cross in Arlington Heights. Taking their name from Christ and Monograms, the ornaments are meaningful as Christian symbols. Mrs. John Verdico and Mrs. Roy Swenson were two of the women from the church who helped create the white and gold ornaments. The chrismons were first seen by many when the congregation held its annual Christmas smorgasbord Tuesday. (Staff photo

Decorate Soft Drink Containers for Holiday

Christmas is the season to delight not only the heart but the eye. Everywhere the glitter and glamour of the holiday appears, from the tinsel that dangles on the tree to the silver bells that decorate the door.

One of the newest ideas for a sparkling Christmas is pop trimmings. Taken from soft drink cans, bottles and bottle caps, these decorations are easy and fun to make.

Try trimming your own Christmas pixie using a pop can as the base and pipe cleaners for the arms and legs. Punch holes in the can and insert the pipe cleaners, then thread them with bottle caps. Put the finishing touches on the pixie by decorating the can, spraying the bottle caps gold; and adding a head made out of a stuffed sock.

ONCE YOU'VE been inspired, there's no limit to the Christmas trimmings you can make. A Jolly Santa Claus just seems to spring up around a pop bottle base. A white beard made out of cotton balls, plus a belt, felt hands and a face are all you need to bring Santa to your house.

CREATE your own "pop" art for Christmas by trimming a soft drink bottle with cotton and felt to make a jolly Santa Claus.

Arrange these Christmas characters around the base of your tree or put them in a lighted window for extra Christmas cheer. Then take a few paper cups, spray them gold and add pipe cleaners for lovely Christmas bells to hang on the tree.

Sock-cessful Gifts With Imagination

In this year of knee sock popularity, one or more pairs will be a welcome gift, particularly when they are disguised as adorable mascots, bearing still another pleasing item.

A "Cowardly Lion" is a pair of lion-colored knee socks of Creslan acrylic fiber which give him his cuddly look and feel. His body is a box of dusting powder; his head, a round compact, a jewelry box or even an extra pair of socks or mittens — all gifts to delight teens.

Younger girls will be enchanted with Octavia the Octopus. He is a lavish gift, indeed, since he's made of four pairs of colorful knee socks, and his head is one of those warm, lightweight caps knitted of Creslan.

The third member of the trio is a pair of rich red socks made into a Santa Claus with the help of a can of hair spray.

Holiday Lunch

Old Orchard Country Club will be the setting for a Christmas luncheon Tuesday, Dec. 13, for Palatine Homemakers' Extension Unit. Members will meet at noon for the party, which includes an exchange of gifts for secret pals.

Mrs. E. M. Upland and Mrs. L. H. Larson are co-chairmen, assisted by Mrs. J. E. Medek.

Packing Tricks

When you travel, taking suitcases slightly larger than the sizes you actually need is just good planning. Souvenirs, gifts and other travel purchases soon fill up the empty holes. Here's another packing tip: Plastic sandwich bags make excellent covers for shoes in a suitcase. The bags let you pack shoes snugly without dirtying other items around them. (S

It's Cheaper

Think twice before giving up on your old home. A complete remodeling may cost only one-fourth as much as a new house, yet will have the conveniences and fresh look you most want—in the neighborhood you really don't want to leave. (S

Use Planters

Planter of evergreens on the wood deck eliminates a weary winter look. Mugo pine stays at a manageable 4-foot height, combines well with low junipers. For spring color, add lily-of-the-valley, pansies, campanula isophylla to trail over the planter's side. (S

Wool Blankets Are Safe Holiday Gift

Wool blankets are a "safe" holiday gift in more ways than one. They are bound to please the recipient — what family won't appreciate a fine blanket? But even more, wool blankets provide the additional safety of fire resistance.

Experts have long recommended wool blankets for smothering fires. But don't try it with a blanket made of synthetic fibers which may flare up or melt causing severe skin burns.

A wool blanket is a gift that offers warmth and lightweight comfort for years and years.

AS MARGARET Dana, a nationally sy dicated columnist put it, "There are, simply, three basic types of fabric. You might picture them as: first, a comb of honey; second, a loaf of fresh, warm bread; third, a sponge.

If you apply pressure to each of these, what happens? The honeycomb breaks, spilling the honey, and can't be put back together again; the soft, warm bread compresses, but comes back to some degree into shape; but the sponge jumps back to its original structure; and keeps on doing it over and over again.

IN THE SAME way some fabrics are warm until over-use crushes the fibers and spills the air—forever. Some are partly crushed and lose some air. But wool is like the sponge—it rebounds over and over again."

New processes are now making wool blankets machine washable, giving them a practical plus as a holiday gift.

To be safe in buying a gift blanket, look for the "wool mark" awarded by the Wool Bureau to quality tested products made of "the world's best . . . pure virgin wool." (S

'Wine Night' for St. Edna's

In keeping with the gaiety of the approaching holidays, St. Edna Women's Club of Arlington Heights will present "A Wine Night" for the ladies of the Club, at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 21, at St. James School Hall, Arlington Heights Road.

According to Mrs. Raymond Jennings, club vice president and program chairman, Christian Brothers will present a film on the mysteries of wine making, followed by wine-tasting test, in which all may participate.

The St. Edna Choir, under the direction of Mrs. William J. Gasser, and consisting of the members of the parish, is now in the midst of rehearsals for the Christmas masses. Joseph Buzelli, choir organist will play for the masses on Christmas at MacArthur Junior High School, Schoenbeck and Palatine Roads, Prospect Heights. (S

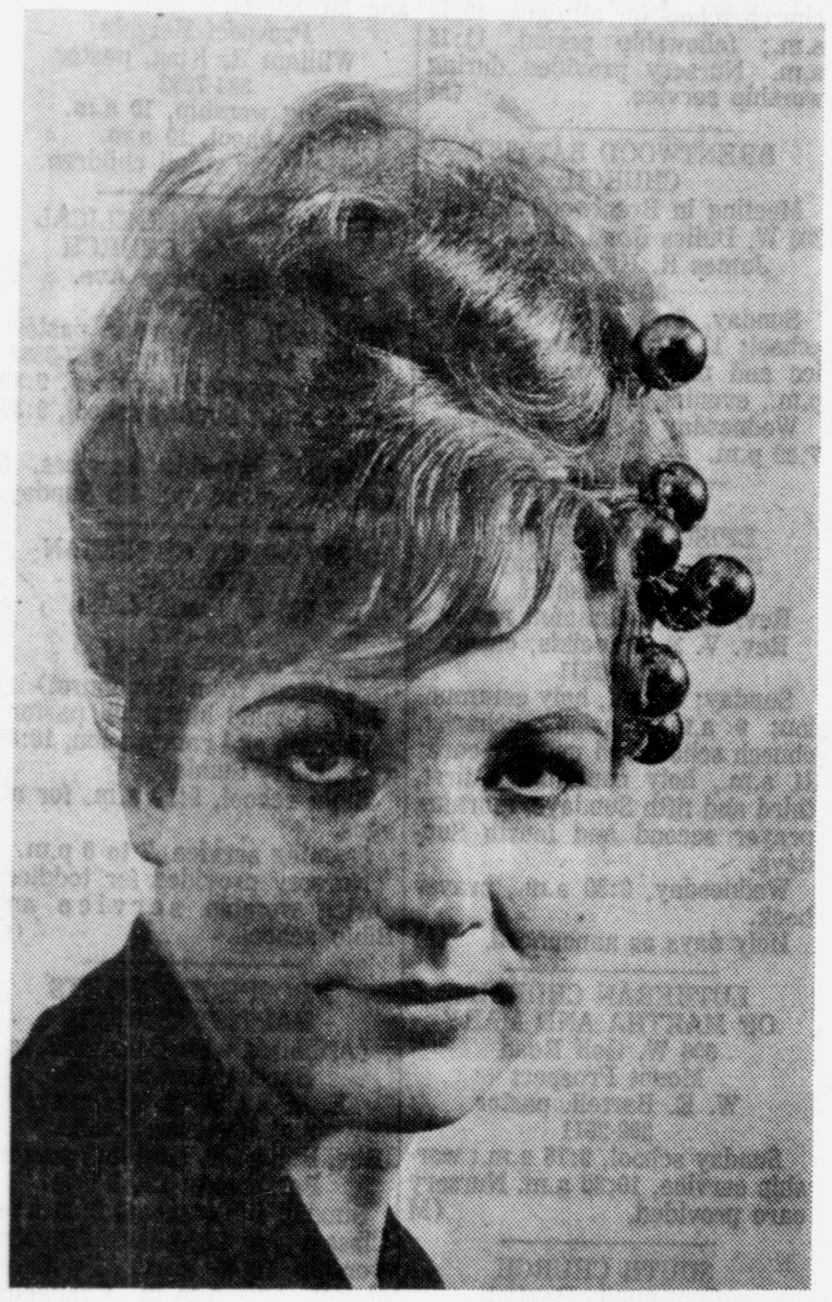
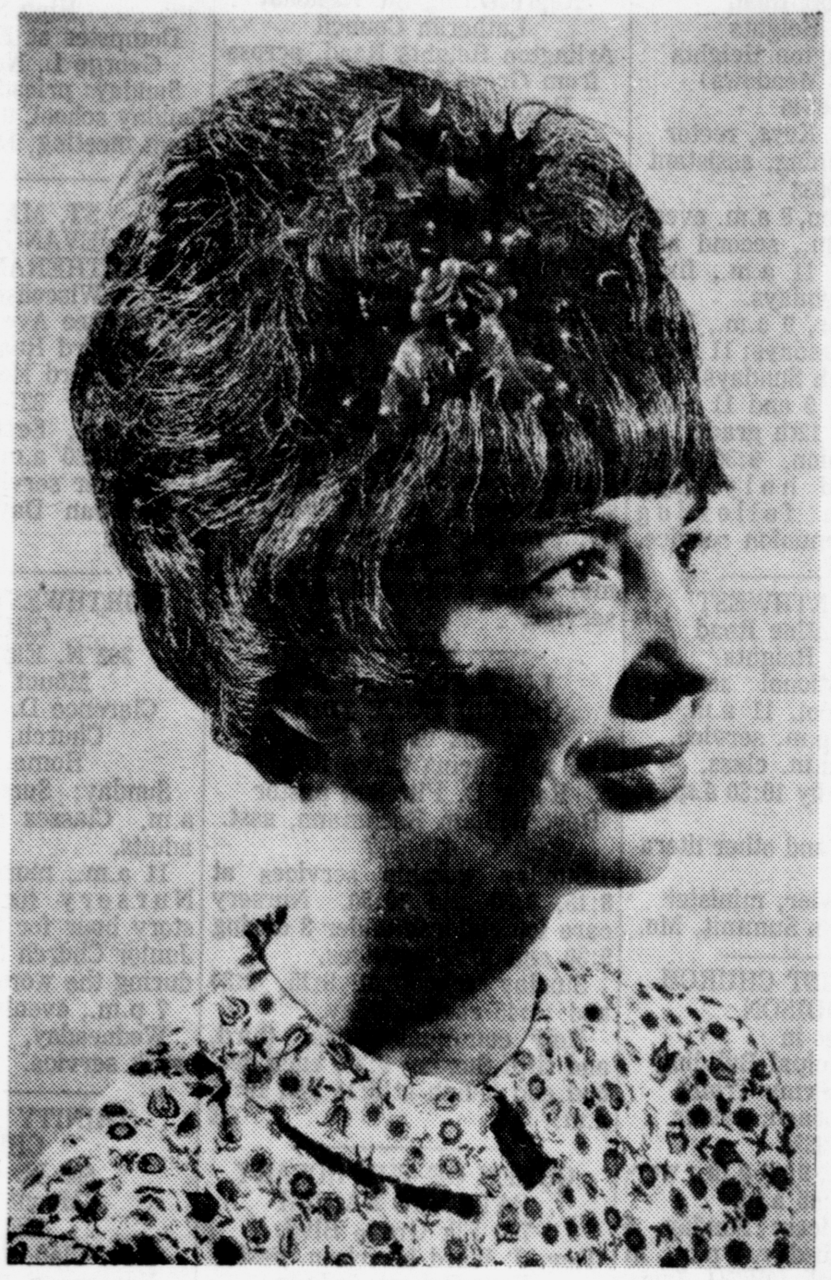
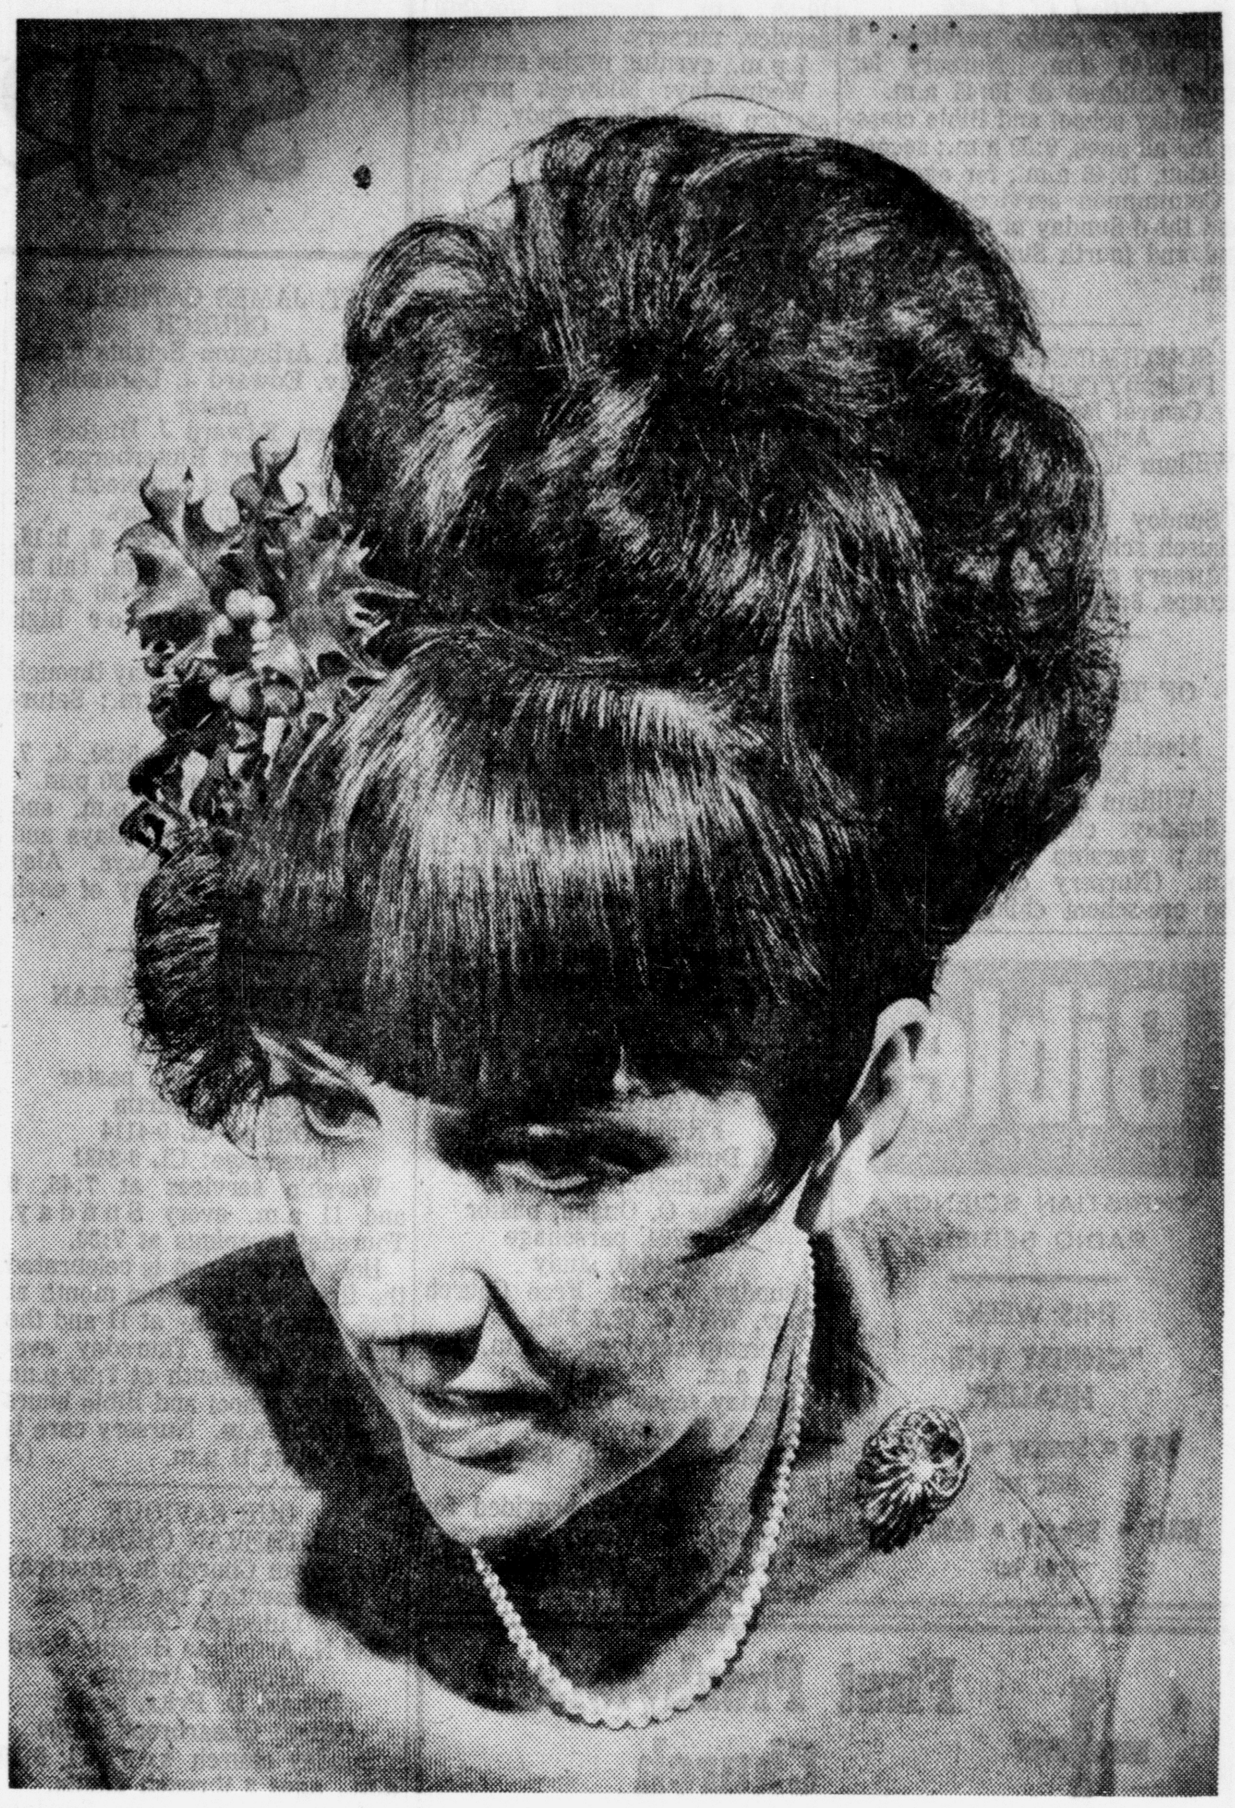
Hair Styles for the Holiday Season

Curves Are the Fashion







Photographs by Bob Strawn

The higher the curve in your hair, the more "in" the style for the holiday and winter season, according to the official hair fashion committee of the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association.

And "add on," say these experts. That means hair pieces—a potiche, a braid, a false mane, even a fall. For that special holiday touch, stick a sprig of holly or a Christmas ornament in your hair.

Nape hair must be short and closely fitted, says the hair fashion committee. Height is off to one side, usually dressed into a flare of soft curves, and the other side is dressed closely to the head.

Cissy Cole, in center models a holiday hairdo featuring "dancing" waves. Her hair swoops back from the sides, swirls in the front and is worn close to the nape. For a holiday touch, she adds a cluster of small and colorful glass ornaments.

For entertaining at home, Mrs. John Chambers, at right wears an asymetrical coiffure. Touches of gray highlight the lines of this hair style which features a high crown, short nape and French bangs. Holly accents the off-center look.

The brunette beauty of Mrs. Donald Weiss, right, is emphasized by a glamorous hair fashion in the Sassoon mode. High curls flared to one side are accented by soft bangs and a sprig of holly for a look of young and active vibrance.

Members of Affiliate 47 of the National Hairdressers Association created these hair styles.

Virus Pneumonia Season Is Near

With Old Man Winter just a few weeks away and the common cold expected to reach its peak in the next few months, be on guard against virus pneumonia, warns the Illinois Medical Society.

This communicable disease, which inflames the lungs and bronchi, can afflict anyone at any age with young adults, especially teenagers, its most likely targets.

Unlike lumbar pneumonia, which usually attacks quite suddenly, virus pneumonia develops very slowly.

Most of its victims initially experience symptoms easily passed off for a common cold—achiness, chills, fever and headache. After a week or two, they usually begin to run a high fever and develop a dry, hacking cough. The cough, usually worse at night, remains dry and tight for several days and finally a watery sputum, which may be streaked with blood, is produced.

HOW IS THIS disease treated? That varies from one individual to another. The most common treatment, however, is plenty of bed rest, aspirin and cough medication. In very severe cases, antibiotics may be prescribed to prevent further complications. But their over-all effectiveness is still held in question, says the medical society.

How long the disease lasts may vary, too. Usually it runs its course from 10 to 21 days. However, since there are no antibiotics or "miracle" drugs to combat it, the disease can produce a rundown condition, resulting in weakness for weeks, even months, after symptoms disappear.

If virus pneumonia strikes your family, don't pass it off as a common cold, advises the medical society. Although it's almost never fatal (99 per cent of its victims recover) and seldom carries serious complications, it can keep the patient out of commission for weeks, even months. (S

SUNDAY'S SERMON

THOUGHTFULNESS

How often have you received a letter in the mail, requesting payment of a bill, help in some civic project, or support for some cause — which ended with these words: "Thank you for your cooperation."

Quite often, these words are used. Yet, if you pay, help, or support, do you receive this same message in the mail? Sometimes, not always.

For some of us, thoughtfulness is a matter of urgency. We don't always have time to be bothered when we see that someone needs help, or that a friend or associate is sick or in trouble.

Perhaps we would change our ways if we thought for a moment or two about the many times some distressing situation of our own has been made to seem not quite so bad merely because friends offered encouragement or a word of sympathy.

Isn't there someone who needs your help or advice? Isn't there someone you should thank for something?

The Way We See It

Simon Record Is Ogilvie Challenge

As president of the Cook County Board, Seymour Simon was a good friend of suburbia. We expect his successor, Richard Ogilvie, to continue the Simon tradition of working with suburbs and looking out for suburban interests.

Until his final days in office, Simon continued to be concerned with suburbs. At a board meeting last week, he stressed the need for action to combat flooding in southwest suburbs. He recently utilized the powers of his office to help Mount Prospect solve a water problem. His concern and familiarity with county zoning problems has been especially noteworthy.

Simon should not be commended only for suburban achievements, however. His record has been an outstanding one, especially if compared to previous presidents.

When asked recently what he considered his most important accomplishment, Simon cited establishment of Herrick House in Bartlett. This institution now houses dependent children formerly placed in the Audy Home with delinquents.

Also chief among his achievements was expansion of services at Cook County and Oak Forest Hospitals as well as in the public aid department.

During his tenure as chairman of the county forest preserve district, a total 8,000 acres was added to the district.

Some Simon projects are left undone, including steps to eliminate sub-standard housing in suburbs. His attention was called to this problem when Elk Grove Village residents organized a committee to help migrant workers.

Seymour Simon, Democrat, was an office holder who served all citizens without partisan favor. We hope that Ogilvie, a Republican, is successful in maintaining this posture and does not fall prey to excessive partisanship.

Ogilvie takes office with an excellent record as Cook County sheriff, an impressive mandate from voters, and several campaign promises. These include creation of a little "Hoover Commission" to study county government; increased salaries for county employes; reduced county patronage; and establishment of a county finance planning body. These proposals are based on real needs and merit support. Whether such support is forthcoming will be a significant test of his leadership and political skill, since Ogilvie controls only a minority on the Democratic-dominated board.

Ousted by his fellow Democrats, Simon at age 50 normally would be entering the prime of his political life. He has demonstrated talent for intelligent leadership, and we hope he will remain active in public life.

Ogilvie, on the other hand, at 44, is on the ascendancy in his political career. His own future, as well as his party's, may well rest on his performance in the next four years. We are confident he will live up to his past record and be another accomplished county board president.

Valuable Highway Study

A study to determine feasibility of a roadway through O'Hare Airport —possibly in a shallow "cut" below runway level—has been authorized by the Illinois Department of Public Works and Buildings.

The study was authorized after department Dir. Francis Lorenz and State Rep. William Redmond (D-Bensenville) met to discuss the growing traffic problem of communities near O'Hare. The exciting idea of a road connecting the Kennedy Expressway to the area west of O'Hare would affect traffic in a number of communities, either giving them better access into Chicago or alleviating bottlenecks caused by the funneling of traffic around the airport's immense land area.

A second, equally exciting possibility is that a western connection to the airport terminal would be possible. As staff writer Pat Hensel has pointed out, this "western portal" to O'Hare would have impact on nearby communities with the possible development of a western counterpart to the Mannheim Road motel strip.

The many facets of this proposal require that communities most immediately affected become acquainted with this development in its infancy in order to insure coordination and planning. While the feasibility of the project is still to be determined, we are pleased by the forethought it represents.

Gratifying Response

Paddock Publications coverage of the recent campaigns and elections resulted in an unusually large number of letters from readers, advertisers and elected officials commending our efforts to provide the most thorough coverage of state and local contests.

Particularly well received was a pre-election review with reprints of stories covering 20 contests plus statewide referendum issues. The reprint has been used as a teaching aid in the classrooms of several respected journalism schools. A limited number of copies is still available for the asking at our office.

Expressions from readers have been rewarding. To those who took the time to write us commenting on our coverage, we extend a cordial "Thank You."

Critic's Corner

Our Schools As Customers

by MARY SCHLOTT
Staff Writer

Book vendors and insurance salesmen beat a path to schoolmen's doors—and for good reason.

Consuming better than two-thirds of the local property tax dollars, northwest suburban schools are the area's biggest employer and largest producer of services—in this case, education.

Wheeling and Elk Grove Township schools alone serve better than 50,000 primary consumers (children) while twice that number of secondary consumers (parents) judge their wares.

SCHLOTT

With most of the men who run the schools trained not as business managers but as educators—with their first goal that of helping children become life-long learners—it's not surprising that commercial pressures on the schools are great and that sometimes schools give in.

School men spend more time than they should weighing the merits of various waxes, different "lines" of books, simple and sophisticated audio-visual equipment, and insurance to protect the teacher, the student and the athletic team.

SALESMEN PICK up a pretty pocketful from "necessary" non-educational sales of class rings, yearbooks, diplomas, caps and gowns, "regulation" gym shorts and laboratory equipment. Parents' September school bills rise as teachers place restrictions on the kind of supplies their students need — a certain brand of water paints, a "superior" kind of glue, shorthand notebooks versus spiral binders, or a specific athletic sock.

Every parent can tote up examples of junior high gym teachers who grade a student down a notch if he doesn't have "acceptable" gym shoes. Uniformity is felt at even lower grades. My neighbor's second grader this fall was asked to provide white gym shoes, rather than those of a different kind.

Pressures teachers impose themselves can be termed "professional pressures," imposed from within with the intent improving the educational product. Pressure groups apply legal pressures on schoolmen (and thus your tax dollar) too. One requires public institutions to purchase soft coal mined in Illinois. The stringent Life Safety Code, as concerned about the number of drinking fountains as the type of fire escapes, puts the school systems in such a legal bind. Meeting code requirements is expensive — sometimes too much so — but the law requires it.

IN THEIR TURN, schools sometimes become a business competitor to taxpaying village businesses. The store who fails to purchase the "approved" art supply line feels the squeeze. So does the sandwich shop near the high school with a tax-subsidized cafeteria. Would public transportation develop quicker in the suburbs if it could serve the student market that now rides the high-wheeled school bus? We'll probably never know.

Some schools fight back against commercial pressures. High School District 214 has just approved a purchasing policy designed — hopefully — to centralize its buying and to give equal breaks — no more — to local businesses with competitive goods. The policy forbids school employers or their families to benefit from sales to schools.

THE POLICY has been invoked to prevent purchase of a Prospect High School carpet from Allyn Allen Co., formed by Arlington High School's football coach. Unfortunately, Allyn Allen was low bidder; to invoke the policy, the school paid more.

Addition of federal money to school funding has changed the economic pressure on local schools. It has for a long-time subsidized the low-cost lunches. It has made the schools big buyers of science equipment, language laboratories, and audio-visual equipment they once could not afford.

It has sometimes decreased commercial pressures on school people — as will the area's federally-financed Instructional Materials Center which includes a curriculum library where teacher committees can look over new lines of books and teaching aides without some salesman breathing down their back.

IT HAS sometimes increased the pressure — as when book salesmen attracted by schools' Title II supplementary library "windfalls" hurry to take book orders it will be months before they can fill.

While school people say most educational publishers have resisted the pressure to push inferior, lower-selling lines, there are still firms that can't resist the temptation to skim off an extra buck.

One company currently is offering a handy-dandy indexed guide to federal aid programs. Touted as making it possible for the layman user to get a "fair share" of the $9 billion in federal monies available to schools, it is liberally cross-indexed and attractively packaged.

Cost of the federal aid file is "nominal." Just $175. It didn't attract much attention at the Illinois Association of School Boards state meeting in Chicago a week ago.

Planning for Parks

by BETTY FORRESTER
Staff Writer

Heading Arlington Heights' park district is a lot more than just "fun and games" for Park Supt. Tom Thornton.

A professional, with a degree in park administration from Michigan State University and almost 16 years of experience in the field as credentials, Thornton has voiced a quiet but studied opposition to the continual formation of small park districts in Cook County suburbs.

As the head of a medium-sized park district in the middle of a number of small park districts, many of which are co-terminous with the municipalities they serve, Thornton terms the lack of consolidation or even coordination "a sad thing."

THORNTON SAID there are many instances now where park districts are contiguous and the residents of the area are unable to use the facilities of the park nearest their homes because they do not live within its particular taxing district.

In other cases, he said, park districts have been formed for reasons other than park development. One such park district, in a different part of the county, was formed to assure the residents of police protection. The one-time Wheeling Rural Park District was used primarily to assure residents of that area that their property would not be annexed to another park district, he said.

Thornton specifically opposed the new Prospect Heights Park District. He said flatly that its formation "makes no sense," was a step backward which tended to create problems of people living near parks that were not within their particular park district.

WHEN SMALL park districts such as the Prospect Heights Park District are formed, planned parks such as the proposed McDonald Creek Parkway must be forgotten, he said.

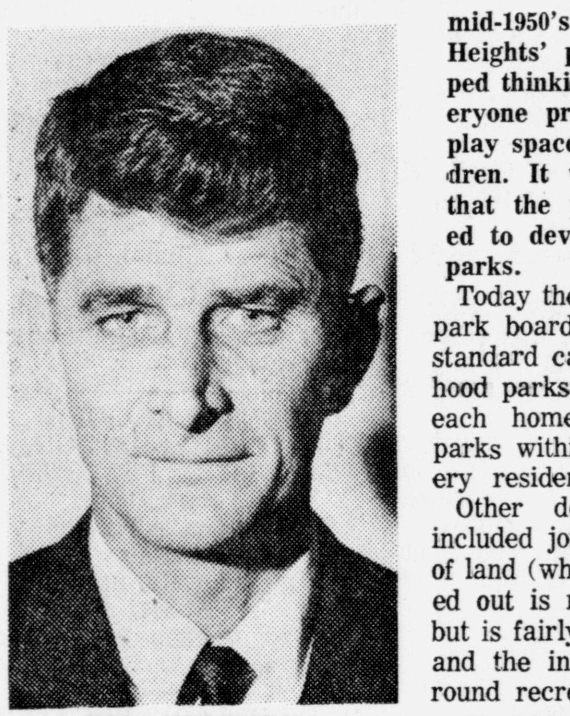
"The small park district is just not the solution," he said. "Most of these small park districts will never have an adequate assessed valuation to do much."

In his own formal education, Thornton worked with area- and county-wide park districts. The merit of the consolidated county park district, he said, can be seen in Milwaukee County's park program in Wisconsin.

PRESENTLY, the only coordination of park districts in this area is through the monthly meetings of a Midwest institute that includes parts of Indiana and Wisconsin as well as Illinois and occasional meetings of a few recreation associations and the Illinois Association of Park Districts.

Besides the problem in coordinating the park districts of the area, Thornton said, park districts face a problem of coordination on the community level. There is a need for integration of the recreational activities handled by the parks, schools, youth groups and sporting groups.

Without such integration, Thornton said, there is often duplication of efforts. One such example is found in the schools and parks offering the same courses in night school.



TOM THORNTON

Thornton said he felt it was the park district's responsibility to take care of the recreation needs of the community. However, he said, the park district should not provide facilities that overlap with those already open to the public. He pointed out that Arlington Heights does not try to provide facilities similar to those furnished through the county forest preserves.

IN HIS 14 years as Arlington Heights' park superintendent, Thornton has been instrumental in seeing to it that the park area grew to correspond to the needs of the community.

The district has grown from essentially a one-park (Recreation Park and one or two small neighborhood parks) district to a district with about 275 acres of park-owned land.

Along with the area growth has come a change in the philosophy behind suburban park development. One of the major changes, Thornton said, came in the mid-1950's when Arlington Heights' park district stopped thinking in terms of everyone providing backyard play space for his own children. It was at that time that the park board started to develop neighborhood parks.

Today the Arlington Heights park board works with a standard calling for neighborhood parks within .5 miles of each home and community parks within 1.5 miles of every residence.

Other developments have included joint park-school use of land (which Thornton pointed out is not a new concept but is fairly new to this area) and the initiation of a year-round recreation program.

AS FOR FURTHER development of the Arlington Heights District, Thornton says very little can be done until the local residents approve a park development referendum for the 150-plus acres of land acquired through a 1965 land acquisition referendum. Park district voters rejected the park board's $1.75 million proposal earlier this fall.

Despite the large amount of undeveloped park land, Thornton is optimistic about the local park district condition. "The most important thing," he said, "is that we were fortunate in getting the land."

He said Arlington Heights, although it has nowhere near the park land suggested by many experts, has sufficient park land for a number of years to come.

However, for his district as well as others in the area, the lack of coordination of park plans remains a major problem.

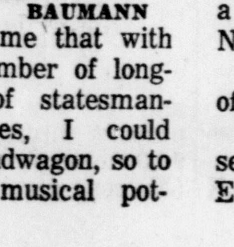
Songs for Posterity

by DAN BAUMANN
Managing Editor

An item in the news attracted my attention the other day. It was an announcement that Sen. Everett M. Dirksen had made a recording of readings called "Gallant Men."

Outside of royalties, the idea was to preserve for posterity — and for fans like me—the melodiously gravelly noises of Illinois' junior senator. I can hardly wait to get my copy.



BAUMANN

Meanwhile, it occurred to me that with the growing number of long-play records of statesman-politician voices, I could jump on the bandwagon, so to speak, with a musical potpourri of politicians.

I plan to call it "Cacophony in C Flat."

I WILL GIVE opening honors to Senator Dirksen since he inspired the whole idea. He can sing "The Lord's Prayer" from a recording studio set up in a genuine public school classroom.

Ev, if I may use that familiarity, will be followed by other Republican favorites. Half a massed (pardon the term) GOP Choir will sing, "I Left My Heart in San Francisco," while the other half chants "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Out of My Hair."

Barry Goldwater will offer a solo interpretation of "The Night We Called It a Day."

Gov. George Romney will offer up, "Ain't Misbehavin'."

A GROUP calling themselves the Eastern Liberal Establishment will sing, "Caribbean Nights" and "Love Letters."

Democrats will have the remainder of Side 1. A chorus will sing, "Stars Fell on Alabama" and "An Ordinary Couple."

What is alleged to be the voice of LBJ recorded late the night of Nov. 8 will sing, "All Alone by My Telephone." (The release, however, will be investigated, since it will conflict with an official release of a combined President's hospital photo album and a 45 rpm recording of "Sounds from Surgery.")

Chicago Democratic jobholders will sing "The Party's Over" and "Nobody Knows the Trouble I've Seen."

The flip side of the recording will be devoted to international voices. A mixed Russian-Chinese Army Chorus will render the new song, "Semi-Internationale."

ALBANIAN SINGERS will sing, "Equals on the Road to Socialism."

France will offer something grandiose.

The new West German coalition will provide its version of "Onward Christian Socialists" with the steady thump of bootheels and the humming of "Hitler Youth" as background.

I haven't decided whether to use something from England. If I do I will try to work it in with a promotion by an aspirin company, perhaps affixing a sample bottle of the pills to the album.

Closing the record will be a chorus of East Europeans singing "Unchained Melody" while a South African and South West African duet chimes in with "I Can't Stop Loving You."

Committee of 12 Continues Working on 'Crest' Problem

The committee of 12 formed by the property owners of Arlington Crest Estates to protest the improvements as proposed by the Village of Palatine in their feasibility study of July 14, 1966, held a meeting Thursday, Dec. 1 to further discuss this report and make preparations for an appearance before the Board of Local Improvements.

As no further action has been taken by the village and apparently none will until some time after the turn of the year, the committee feels that any statements at this time would not be to the best interest of this community. The committee feels that the property owners have more than adequately expressed their opinion on the exorbitant costs of the project as proposed by the village board.

THE COMMITTEE remains active in compiling facts and data to be presented at the appropriate time. The committee refutes the villages' claim that present street maintenance for Arlington Crest costs four times as much as other streets in Palatine. No exact figure has ever been divulged by the village, nor have they revealed the streets or area being used in comparison.

The committee is urging all residents to direct letters to Governor Kerner and Senator Graham requesting consideration and ultimate passage of the bill to be presented to the Legislature by Senator Graham involving the development of Salt Creek so as to alleviate floodings that have occurred in Winston Park and the northwest corner of this area after excessive rains, particularly in the Spring.

Robert H. Nordstrom
Co-Chairman
Committee of 12

On Bensenville Park Coverage

Our Association wishes to express its gratitude and thank you for your years of service in our behalf. We doubt whether we would have been successful without your help during the bond drive, our annual membership sale drives and at other times when communication was important to us.

It was indeed heartwarming to hear your reporters say, "Let us know if we can help you," and we particularly wish to thank Mrs. Hensel for article which informed our bondholders of our bond redemption and the sale of the pool to the Bensenville Park District. Her excellent article helped facilitate the transaction, and we are grateful for her help also.

Asks Emphasis on 'Postive' Youths

The front page of the Nov. 24 edition of the Elk Grove Herald certainly carried stories which ran from the ridiculous to the sublime.

THE FIRST ONE to catch my eye was the one with the headline: "10 Vandal Cases Reported in Week." The increase in this sort of thing is indeed a sad commentary on our times. But then the picture showing the students at Grove Junior High School with the mound of clothing in the background, redeemed my faith in the human race.

The Grove Student Council and all of the students deserve a special bit of commendation for this grand effort on behalf of underprivileged children. Given the opportunity to provide a positive type of leadership, these young people do come through. Let's have more of the accent on the positive by positive-minded youth.

Ask Contributions For Viet Reading

As Christmas is near and people are thinking of the servicemen in Viet Nam, I thought your readers would like to know the need for paperbacks, magazines and newspapers for the isolated crews in the South China Sea area.

In an article in the Nov. 23 issue of Navy Times, there was a plea for such items for Patrol Squadron 50, which will be air dropped aboard these ships.

THIS READING material, dubbed "Gold Dust," considered the next best thing to letters from home, may be addressed to:

Any group or individual who cares to contribute "dust" may be assured that the donation will more than purchase its weight in morale.

HOW TO GO THROUGH A WALL

This is the Berlin Wall. The newspaper happens to be the Paddock Newspaper — on purpose.

For while neither we nor any paper can do much about this barricade to freedom, we CAN help break through other walls. The walls of prejudice, bias, secrecy, misinformation and ignorance . . . walls which can seal off a community from the free interchange of ideas and from the democratic process.

To do this, Paddock Publications uses the sharpest tool ever invented—the right of free press, honed and edged by YOUR RIGHT TO KNOW.

It's amazing how it works—though so many of us take it for granted.

It penetrates the council chamber and frees all views to public eye. It questions the state, the captains and the kings.

It reports the actions of those who harm and of those who act to prevent them. It searches out situations which need dissecting—and correcting.

And it REBUILDS . . . with clear and accurate information. With enlightenment, with education, with a sense of today's history. It substitutes education for bias; new ideas for old opinions; and brings the turn of the world into bright focus.

Your paper does this day after day. Free of censorship or barbed wire, it helps keep YOU free . . . to read, to think, or act in a free society.

It's the best way we know of . . . to go through a wall.

Animal Evolution Is Museum Tour Topic

Getting acquainted with the animals of millions of years ago is the prospect for young visitors to Field Museum of Natural History this winter. The self-guided tour, keyed to free direction sheets, continues through February.

Many of those completing the Winter Journey, as the tour is known, will emerge using words like dunklesteous, eryops, ichthyosaurus and protoceratops, to say nothing of brontosaurus and neanderthal.

But it will be more than scholarly words which have been mastered. The tour conducts its young participants through hundreds of millions of years of animal evolution, from fishes and reptiles to birds and mammals, supplying an important background of knowledge in an easy, largely visual way.

A TYPICAL line in the guide sheets, for example, reads: "I am the original 'early bird.' I had teeth and lived during the age of reptiles. I have a difficult Greek name—archaeopteryx."

Journey participants achieve degrees of Traveler, after four journeys; Adventurer, after eight; Explorer, after twelve, and Discoverer, after sixteen, when they are ready to make "The Voyage of the Beagle," named for Charles Darwin's adventure in biology. The Journeys are intended to add a deeper dimension to Museum visits.

Field Museum is open daily at 9 a.m. Children and the students are always admitted free

Offer Play For Children

"Indian Pearls," a new children's play, will be presented Saturday, Dec. 17, at 2 p.m. in Maine West High School, 1755 S. Wolf Road, Des Plaines.

Sponsored by Des Plaines Children's Theatre, the play will be acted by the professional children's theatre touring troupe of Oak Park Theatre Guild.

Other plays to be offered through this season are "Androcles and the Lion," Jan. 7; "Rumpelstiltskin," "The Gold Tinder Box" and "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" in February, March and April.

Admission is 50 cents a person. Children under five must be accompanied by an adult.

Cameo Players Sets Tryouts

Cameo Players, Inc., will hold tryouts for "Cloud Seven," by Max Wilk, today (Thursday) and tomorrow (Friday) at 8 p.m. in the Mount Prospect Plaza Civic Center, Rand and Central Roads.

With a cast of nine men and eight women, "Cloud Seven" tells the story of a man who decides to quit his boring job and spend his time doing only those things he enjoys doing. The ways in which his family and suburban neighbors react to his announcement provide the setting for this comedy.

Further information may be obtained from the director, Richard Panagos, 437-1708.

WHAT TO DO?
WHERE TO GO?

The PADDOCK BILLBOARD provides the answer

The gang's all ready for a big night out, but no one's willing to make the decision of "What To Do, Where To Go." That's the moment you've been waiting for — the chance to lead the way — after consulting the PADDOCK BILLBOARD.

Whether it's dining, or the movies, the theatre or dancing, the PADDOCK BILLBOARD tells the story for the Northwest Suburbanite. SELF ANALYSIS QUIZ

Are You The Ideal Wife?

By Jane Sherrod Singer

The famous authoress, Virginia Woolf, once wrote of husband-wife relationships: "How can he go on giving judgment . . . making laws, writing books, dressing up and speaking at banquets unless he can see himself at breakfast and dinner at least twice the size he really is?"

This, combined with the elements of comfort, seems to be the secret of the perfect wife. Wives, let's take a look at ourselves . . . not as we would like to be, or think we are . . . but as we REALLY are!

	YES	NO
1. Do you plan well-balanced and attractive meals?	( )	( )
2. Do you encourage your husband to rest on week-ends and holidays?	( )	( )
3. Do you think it is important that he spends time with other men?	( )	( )
4. Do you show a sincere interest in his work?	( )	( )
5. Are you attractive and appropriately dressed most of the time?	( )	( )
6. Is your grooming as good (or better) than before you were married?	( )	( )
7. Do you avoid badgering him about money matters?	( )	( )
8. Do you often make sincere complimentary remarks about him and his work?	( )	( )
9. Are you courteous to his friends and family, even if you do not particularly like them?	( )	( )
10. Do you avoid making any critical remarks about him in front of others?	( )	( )
11. Do you leave time in your daily schedule for just the two of you?	( )	( )
12. Do you try to solve your own minor problems on your own?	( )	( )
13. Do you have other interests and hobbies outside your duties in the home?	( )	( )
14. Do you keep your husband's clothing clean, pressed and mended?	( )	( )
15. Are you alert to his health needs, periodic check-ups, dental appointments?	( )	( )
16. Do you avoid nagging?	( )	( )
17. Do you encourage him to bring his problems to you?	( )	( )
18. Do you readily accept his gestures of affection?	( )	( )

ANSWERS: According to a survey of happy husbands, all answers should be YES. Give yourself 2 points for each YES answer.

32 to 36 points: You are indeed an ideal wife, and we hope your husband realizes it. If he has ceased to notice that he is on Cloud Nine, subtly leave this quiz where he will see it!

26 to 30 points: You are a very good, thoughtful and considerate wife. Pressures get too much at times, proving that people are human, even wives.

14 to 24 points: Perhaps you would do well to examine your behavior toward your husband. You have much in your credit, but where are you missing? Don't give up or be discouraged, for you have an average rating. But it's fun to strive for perfection.

0 to 12 points: We suspect you of putting yourself or your children before your husband. Perhaps you would profit by discussing the points in this quiz with someone you respect, a marriage counsellor or a member of the clergy. Unless your husband has the patience of Job, you are likely to be sailing toward rough married seas.
